[St. Louis Globe.]

One of the ablest, shrewdest and cruelest of the Florida Indian leaders was a coal black negro named Abraham. A niece of his, "old Aunt Jenny," is now living near Dead Man's Bay, Fla. She says that her uncle Abe was a short chunky negro, of most repulsive features, very sullen and taciturn, only happy when he was annoying or torturing some of the animals on the place, and that his excessive insolence always got him in trouble. He was owned by a planter named Dickson, whose only son Frank was the immediate cause of Abraham running away and joining the Indians.

Frank, the young son, was very fond of practical jokes, high spirited and full of wild and uproarious fun. These traits eventually cost him his life, and in a very cruel way. Returning with a few comrades from a hunt one day—the spool being a fine buck—they determined to have some fun with the negro boy Abraham, who had given them some insolence as they passed him. After skinning the deer they caught the negro and fastened the hide on him, with the head and horns attached. The young dogs were then set on him, amid the uproarious laughter of the young men and the jeering remarks of the other negroes who had gathered around. The dogs were not allowed to hurt him, but the grotesque nature of the punishment aroused the deepest resentment of the negro. A few nights later he disappeared, and although search was made for him it was of no avail. He fled to the Indians, where his great strength, knowledge of woodcraft and deep-seated hatred of everything that wore a white skin made him the recognized leader in the foray and council. Brooding over the insults he had received at the hands of his young master, he hailed the general outbreak of the Indians with the greatest delight, as he saw therein a chance for ample revenge.

Soon after, at the head of a party of Seminoles, he raided the plantation of his former owner in broad daylight and killed every white person on the place, with the exception of the son, Frank.
He was reserved for a terrible fate. A bull yearling was hastily killed and skinned. The skin was placed upon Frank, stakes were fastened to his arms and legs, forcing him on all fours, his eyes were put out with a heated knife, and then a rope being tied around his neck, he was dragged over the ground, the Indians shooting arrow after arrow into his quivering body. He was then scalped and left where he fell, still fastened in the hide, a dainty feast for the buzzards and the wolves that always followed these marauding parties. It is said that this negro, Abraham, excelled the Indians in devising tortures for such whites as were unfortunate enough to escape death and be captured alive.

The proprietors of the New Orleans Times-Democrat some two months ago fitted out an expedition to explore the Florida Everglades. This swampy region is 160 mile long by 160 broad, and resembles a large lake dotted with small islands. The voyage of exploration was made in canoes, and the party, which consisted of a dozen persons, has returned safely to the point from which it started.
It was not, perhaps, expected that any discoveries would be made to enrich science, nor is it given out that any more was accomplished than to ascertain the character of the portion of the State which had from its earliest settlement remained a sealed book to the public. A problem has been solved, and that is all; which is to the effect that the region is traversed by rivers and marshes, as was suspected, and will never be reclaimed for agricultural purposes unless the overpopulation of the country in the far future should render such a measure advisable.

RACING HALF A CENTURY AGO.

How the Jockeys were Glued onto Their Horses Instead of Using Saddles.

[Louisville Commercial.]

"I guess I am about the oldest turf-man in America," said Henry Farris to a Commercial reporter recently. The speaker was an old man of seventy-four years with a frank, open face, and pleasant address.

"I attended the first race that was run on a regular course in Kentucky.
It took place in the fall of the year 1817, on a track near Crab Orchard, Ky., which afterward became famous as the Spring Hill course. I was a mere lad then, and attended with my father. There were several entries, but the race was clearly between a horse named Yellow Jacket and a big bay mare. People had clustered from all parts of the State to witness the event. There was but little betting, the novelty of the contest being the attraction. From that day to this I have always made it a point to be present and witness the races. I have been on every course in America, owned some of the fastest horses of the day, and the strangest thing of all is that I never gambled a cent on a horse race.

"I remember how the jockeys used to ride in the olden days. They had no saddles, and each man who mounted a horse was required to wear home-made linen pants. A vial of honey was poured on the back of the horse, and the honey coming in contact with the raw linen, formed an adhesion sufficiently strong to keep the rider in his position and enable him to ride with safety.

"I trained the horse which won the stakes in the first exciting race in Kentucky. I speak of the famous horse Josh Bell, who ran three heats in 1:50 over the course in Lexington. This was in 1837. I afterward sold Josh Bell for $5,000, a fabulous price for a racehorse in those days. I also trained Jim Bell, full brother to Josh Bell. He was the first horse that ever cleared a mile in 1:46 in America. In the Fall of 1838 he beat the celebrated Sarah Bladen, after an exciting race at New Orleans, for a purse of $5,000. Jim Bell subsequently became the greatest three-year-old racer of his day.

"I also trained and owned Denmark.
He ran 300 miles in public races, the majority of which he won. In 1838 he came in winner of a sixteen-mile race over the old Oakland track at Louisville.

"Forty-four years ago I saw the Gray Eagle and Wagner race, undoubtedly the most exciting contest ever run in the world. Every State in the Union was represented. There were no railroads or other transportation accommodations in those days, but people flocked from everywhere, and the attendance on that day numbered easily 13,000. Kentucky was represented by the great Gray Eagle, and Virginia by Wagner. From the first it was evident that Gray Eagle or Wagner would win the race. They took the lead, and as they rounded into quarter stretch Gray Eagle led the way by an open length. Both jockeys applied the whip vigorously. Wagner gradually closed the gap and landed at the stand half a length ahead of the great Kentucky steed. The stakes were $30,000, and, in addition to this, Campbell, the owner of Wagner, told me he had won more than $13,000 on side bets. In those days pool selling or a regulated system of betting was unknown.

"The man who wished to gamble generally proclaimed from a box. An agent always accompanied the capitalist to make a report of the bets his employer made. An instance which tended to increase the excitement of the day was the death of a man named Peck. He was a Kentuckian, and had bet every cent he possessed, amounting, I believe, to $15,- 000 on Gray Eagle. He stationed himself near the spot which marked the finish, and when he saw that he had lost he dropped dead on the spot. I have witnessed every event of importance in the way of racing since that memorable day, and have never seen, nor do I expect to see, a contest so exciting or full of general interest. A barrel of money changed hands on the result. Although I am past seventy-four years of age, I am still training horses. My headquarters are at Spring Hill course, near Crab Orchard, and I expect to turn out many a winner before I die."

HEART DISEASE!

CURED BY
DR. RUSH'S REGULATOR.

FOR HEART TROUBLES.

Wm. G. Osgoodby, the well-known safe manufacturer of Buffalo, Philadelphia Pittsburg, Newark and Atlanta, Ga., says:
OFFICE OF OSGOODBY'S IMPROVED SAFES, 17 S. Broad Street, ATLANTA, GA., October 17th, 1881.
DR. RUSH'S MEDICAL ASSOCIATION:
DEAR DOCTORS.—The three bottles of "Dr.
Rush's Regulator" I ordered were received by express last week. I have taken nearly one bottle and am thoroughly satisfied with the result.
For over two years I have been troubled with sharp pain in my heart. My physician, upon examination, pronounced it enlargement of the heart, and was unable to give me any relief.
The trouble grew worse until I had become convinced that it could not be cured. While in New York City, last week, I called upon one of the most prominent physicians there, who charged me $25 for an examination and then recommended your "Regulator." Knowing you to be a regular Medical Association, and NOT A PATENT MEDICINE SELLER, I ordered the three bottles.
I have not been troubled since I commenced taking it, but shall continue and take the entire three bottles so as to obtain a permanent cure.
You have my sincere thanks.
I am, gentlemen, Very respectfully,
Wm. G. OSGOODBY
