A REMARKABLE CASE.

Yesterday closed the history at Middletown, sixteen miles south of this city, of one of the most remarkable cases of disease known to medical science, and instances of which there are but few on record. Isaac Maddy was a man aged 31 years, a highly respected citizen of Middletown, and a son of Andrew Maddy, an equally well-known and esteemed gentleman, and a nephew of Mr. James Maddy, of this city.

About eleven months ago Mr. Maddy became afflicted with a cancer on his breast, and he has been troubled with it ever since. About five months ago, however, he began to turn dark until, inside of three months, he became as dark as a negro, and, indeed, would not have been suspected of being a white man save by those who knew his history and family, the purity of the latter being so well known as to preclude all possibility of natural causes. His hair is straight and the whites of his eyes are of a brilliant, pearly white—the two only characteristics, save the pure Caucasian features, which make him differ from the veriest negro. The face, neck, legs, arms, and, in fact, the entire body, are of a deep bronze or brown, and peculiarly so in those portions particularly marked in the race named. No physical disability was noticeable in connection with it at first, farther than what was considered attributable to the cancer from which he was a sufferer. But he gradually sunk away, became weak and debilitated, and on Wednesday died.

Before his death, however, he was sent for by a prominent physician in this city, who had seen him and who suspected a very rare and mysterious malady, known to medical science generally through medical reports only, and in the presence of a few noted physicians he was examined and his case made the subject of discussion through prominent medical works, when his disease was pronounced Addison's disease, from Dr. Addison, of Guy's Hospital, London, who discovered it.

This disease, according to the Sycdenham Lexicon of Medicine and the Allied Sciences, the latest and best authority upon the subject, is a tubercular infiltration of the supra-renal bodies (which lie just above the kidneys), usually characterized by discoloration or bronzing of the skin and progressive asthenia, which is ultimately fatal, first described by Dr.
Addison in 1855.

The connection between the disease of the adrenals and the discoloration of the skin and the total asthenia is as yet a profound mystery to the medical fraternity, as so few cases have ever been known that a practical knowledge is almost unobtainable. The cause of the skin coloring is in an excessive deposit of pigment in the rete mucosum, and it has even been discovered in the blood. The disease is always, as in this instance, fatal.

Mr. Maddy was a man of good intellect and much refinement, and his remarkable and unpleasant change was keenly felt by him long ere it was feared it would prove fatal.

The physicians here were not notified of Mr. Maddy's death until too late to ask for a post mortem examination, and are sadly disappointed at not being allowed the opportunity to aid science and themselves by the valuable knowledge obtainable by the investigations which such an operation would afford. Mr.
Maddy was buried to-day.—[Muncie (Ind.) Special to the Cincinnati Enquirer.

Mr. George Cable's wit is as delicate and piquant as his fancy, and glitters and flashes through his conversation as through his books. The following little "bon mot" of his is too good to be confined to the limited company who heard his lecture before the Nineteenth Century Club. Mr. Cable began his lecture by saying that he had been hurried in writing it, and the last few pages were still wet with ink, but the average would be kept up, as he did not doubt his hearers would find the first pages very dry, indeed.

HE KNEW HIM BEST.

John William Blank belonged to the Ancient and Modern and Highly Honorable Sons of Guns of Detroit. If it wasn't that, it was some other fraternal order which meets every Monday night and pays so much to the heirs of every member who happens to die.

John William happened to die the other month, and a committee was appointed to draft resolutions and present them to his wife in person. The first part of their duties was fulfilled to the entire satisfaction of the lodge, but the committee had some little trouble in finding Mrs. Blank. They traced her from one neighbor to another, and finally found her at her sister's, hat and shawl on, ready to go out.

"Resolutions of sympathy, eh? Well, read 'em."

The Chairman of the committee proceeded to read that John William was a good husband and kind father and a citizen of unapproachable integrity, when the widow interrupted:

"Too much taffy! We used to have a fight every week, and as for his being a kind father, we never had any children.
As for his integrity, he stole all the wood we burned last winter!"

The Chairman gulped down something and continued to read that John William was an upright brother, a man with a heart full of sympathy for the misfortunes of others, and that charity and forgiveness were the beacon fires which guided his footsteps.

"Fudge," sneered the widow. "I washed for the money to pay his dues to the lodge, and all the sympathy any one got out of him wouldn't buy a cent's worth of court-plaster! Forgiveness! Well, some of you ought to have sat down on his hat some time. He'd have revenge if it cost him a year in State's Prison. Beacon fires is purty good, considerin' that we never had a decent stove in the house!"

"Madam, your husband has been called hence."

"Exactly; I was at the funeral and ought to know."

"He was out long like a flower."

"Well, flowers ought to let whisky and saloons and plug-tobacco and old allege alone."

"And we trust that our loss is his gain."

"Well, if he's any better off I'm glad of it, but I guess the gain is on your side. Now that's all I want to hear. I can pick up a thousand better men than him with my eyes shut. I'm in a hurry to go down and see a woman who offers to sell a fur-lined circular for fifteen dollars, and if you have any more high-falutin Shakespeare to git off my sister will take it in and save it till I come back."

FEMALE TENACITY OF LIFE.

[Toronto Globe.]
It appears from the gathered statistics of the world that women have a greater tenacity of life than men. Nature worships the female in all its varieties.
Among insects the male perishes at a relatively lower period. In plants the semi-nate blossoms die earliest and are produced on the weaker limbs. Female quadrupeds have more endurance than males. In the human race, despite the intellectual and physical strength of the man, the woman endures longest, and will bear pain to which the strong man succumbs. Zymotic diseases are more fatal to males, and more male children die than females. Deverga asserts that the proportion dying suddenly is about 100 women to 730 men; 1,080 in the United States in 1870 committed suicide, to 285 women. Intemperance, apoplexy, gout, hydrocephalus, affections of the heart and liver, scrofula, paralysis, are far more fatal to the males than the females. Pulmonary consumption, on the other hand, is more deadly to the latter.
Females in the city are more prone to consumption than in the country. All old countries not disturbed by emigration have a great majority of females in the population. In royal families the statistics show more daughters than sons.
The Hebrew woman is exceptionally long lived; the colored man is exceptionally short lived. The married state is favorable to prolongation of life among women.
Dr. Hough proclaims that there are 2 to 6 per cent. more males born than females, yet there are more than 6 per cent. of females in the living populations. From which statistics we conclude that all women ought to marry, and that as men are likely to become so scarce they can not be sufficiently prized by the other sex.

HEART DISEASE!

CURED BY
DR. RUSH'S REGULATOR.

FOR HEART TROUBLES.

Wm. G. Osgoodby, the well-known safe manufacturer of Buffalo, Philadelphia Pittsburg, Newark, and Atlanta, Ga., says:
DR. RUSH'S REGULATOR,
17 S. Broad Street,
ATLANTA, GA., October 17th, 1881.
DR. RUSH'S MEDICAL ASSOCIATION:
DEAR DOCTORS.—The three bottles of "Dr.
Rush's Regulator" were received by express last week. I have taken nearly one bottle and am thoroughly satisfied with the result.
For over two years I have been troubled with sharp pains in my heart. My physician, upon examination, pronounced it enlargement of the heart, and was unable to give me any relief.
The trouble grew worse until I had become convinced that I could not be cured. While in New York City, last year, one of the most prominent physicians there, who charged me $25 for an examination and then recommended your "Regulator." Knowing you to be a regular Medical Association, and NOT A SURREPTITIOUS SCHEM, I ordered the three bottles.
I have not been troubled since I commenced taking it, but shall continue and take the entire three bottles so as to obtain a permanent cure, Yours, etc. Very respectfully,
Wm. G. OSGOODBY

has never failed to give relief. It has been used successfully for years in subduing the most stubborn cases of heart difficulties. A positive cure for Enlargement, Palpitation, Fluttering and Fatty Degeneration of the heart. Price, $1.00 per bottle; six for $5.00. Sold by druggists, or sent direct by Dr. Rush's Medical Association, Nunda, N. Y., U. S. A.
