

DE LAMAR DOTS.

The iron casing for the artesian well is arriving from Milford.

The attachment suit of R. A. Martin against J. R. Kennett went against the defendant and will be appealed to the District Court.

Work has been temporarily suspended on the artesian well from a shortage of casing. The well is down about 300 feet and caved considerably during the last working.

The DeLamar's well in Cedar Wash is flowing a very encouraging stream of water, much to the satisfaction of the Company, and the belief grows, that the most available water supply there, will be found in concentrating the various streams and conducting them to some point below DeLamar town, and that enough already exists to run reduction works of fair size.

The men engaged in tunneling on the Cedar and adjacent springs were ordered to stop work last Saturday by C. A. Horn, who claims the springs as against Jos. McGuffie, who bonded them some time ago to J. Nesbitt & Bro. Messrs Nesbitt Brothers have done considerable work on the properties under their bond and the water flow of late has materially increased.

Two more men have been added to the working force on the Flagstaff mine. They will drift east along the Boss ledge at the point where it was cut a month ago, in the cross cut now making for the Apex vein at the north end of the claim. The Boss vein shows up well at the place where the new work has begun and much is expected from it. It is estimated that thirty days more will place the leasess under the lid of the Apex vein.

The White Pine News says of Ozeola: "J. C. Hume has struck it rich again in his placer diggings in Hervey Gulch. Out of one wagon load of 280 shovels of gravel, he got $35.50 and $132.50 out of three loads, he has taken out $1200 out of his claim since January 1st 1894. With water this would be a bonanza."

It is an assured fact that a Trione mill will very shortly take the place of the cyanide plant here. This mill is a recent invention, a very few being in operation but all successfully, on free milling ore. Its capacity is 24 tons per day—principle similar to the Crawford.

In Idaho the Democrats are reported to be making strong efforts to fuse with the Populists but the Populists treat all overtures with little concern. If the Democrats can get the governor, they are willing the Populists shall nominate all the other state officers.

In Colorado, where women vote, Mrs. J. Ellen Foster an eminent woman's rights advocate, says: "The women of Colorado are doing noble work in the redemption of that state from Populist misrule. I am positive Colorado will elect a Republican Governor and two Republican Congressmen this fall. Kansas will also be redeemed. The people will tolerate the present condition of affairs no longer. It is a question of government or no government at all, which the voters may be depended upon to settle in the proper manner."

The following from the London Statistics would indicate that India is now in the throes of gold exportation the same as the United States, and that a contraction of the currency is going on in that country that must ultimately bring England great trouble. It says: "For some months past the shipments of gold from this country have been on an unusually large scale. It is estimated that the gold hoarded in India is about $270,000,000. Exports, if they go on as is generally expected, will first put up or at all events sustain exchange, and therefore help the India Council; and, secondly, they will impart a scarcity value to the rupee. The gold which is now coming out was hoarded. It is now improbable that the rupees received for that gold will also be hoarded; and, if so, the rupees in circulation will become scarce."

Mrs. Logan Upheld.

Mrs. Logan, of Lovelock, who in self defense put an end to her husband's life after he had murdered two men in a cowardly manner by shooting them through the back with a rifle, and after he had threatened to cut her up in small pieces, fearing a rifle ball would end her life too easily, is in the eyes of more than one exchange, a woman to be upheld for her justifiable act. After a preliminary examination before Justice Young of Lovelock, she was discharged on the ground of self defense. A contemporary has the following to say regarding both Mr. and Mrs. Logan's past: Mrs. Logan—nee Linda Helman—who figured so prominently in the above affair of nearly a month ago, was born in Austin, is the daughter of old man Helman now of Cottonwood this state, and a half sister of Mrs. D. C. McKinney, both formerly of Austin. Logan was always considered a worthless sort of a fellow by all who knew him, and was married to Miss Helman about 1886.

Mrs. Logan when a girl was noted for her independence, bravery and many virtues, and although wild in many ways she had the respect and good will of all who knew her, and when she was married to Logan, the writer heard a man remark that she would never live with Logan; that a girl of her disposition would never tolerate one like Logan very long. The sequel has been different from what all expected.—Silver State.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.

Correspondence of THE RECORD.

WASHINGTON, July 25, 1894. Grover's epistle to the free traders still holds its own as the most absorbing subject of conversation now before the Washington public. It was bad taste and an outrageous assumption of authority for Mr. Cleveland to have written that letter and it only aggravated the case when he compelled Mr. Wilson to read it as part of his speech on the floor of the House; but there is no denying that the letter has had, at least partially the effect it was intended to have. It has made it certain that the House will never agree to the Senate amendments to the tariff bill, because, as Senator Hill significantly remarked, such agreement would merely result in getting the bill vetoed. It has had another effect, however, which it is certain was neither expected nor intended by it. It has wrought a sufficient number of Democratic Senators to control the Senate, with the help of the solid Republican vote, up to publicly declaring that they would refuse to vote to accept any conference report that puts upon the free list any article upon which the Senate amendments placed a duty.

That is just the way the thing stands at this writing. The House will not accept the Senate bill and the Senate will not accept the House bill. Now the only change that can take place must involve the surrender of either the House or the Senate. It can be surmised, without any great risk of making a mistake, that Mr. Cleveland will be able to prevent any surrender on the part of the House, and all the Democratic Senators who added the protection amendments to the bill did so because of pressure from the states they represent, it would seem that they might be counted upon to stand firm even if they were not strengthened by their hatred of Mr. Cleveland, not only because of the manner in which he refers to them in his letter, but also because of the manner in which he has tried to boss his party in Congress—aye, and succeeded, too—from the day on which he became President. Still, if there is a break in the lines of either side it is believed that it will be on the part of the Senate. The Republicans are playing the part of onlookers at the contest, but they are by no means disinterested. On the contrary, they are so much interested that Senator Aldrich has asked all unpaired Republican Senators to be on hand and to remain within call until the tariff is in some way disposed of. The Republicans wish to accomplish one of two things—prevent any tariff legislation, if that can be done; otherwise to aid in getting as many of the Senate amendments as possible in the bill that finally gets through.

Mr. Cleveland's alleged arguments in favor of the sugar trust and of the Whitney Nova Scotia coal syndicate, in which all the world knows the money of his closest personal and political friends is heavily invested have greatly weakened his position and added to the chances for non action on the tariff bill. Everybody knows that Mr. Cleveland's friends put their money into that coal syndicate solely because he assured them that free coal was a certainty, and although it is not absolutely known, there are excellent reasons for the belief that other friends of his have obtained options on certain Cuban iron mines upon assurances that iron ore was also to be free.

Did some Democratic Senators commit perjury when they swore that they had never purchased stock in the sugar trust? The direct charge has been made that they did, and the Senate committee has reopened the investigation and is again taking testimony. It is keeping the testimony very dark, too, members of the committee claiming to be afraid that its publication might result in preventing the committee obtaining important evidence. It is rumored that at least one witness has sworn to having seen a written order for the purchase of sugar stock, which was given by a Democratic Senator and is now in existence, and to have told the committee in whose possession it is. The gossip concerning this matter has been very much enlivened by the statement that certain parties who had been snubbed by certain Senators proposed to "get even" by furnishing the evidence to make a case of perjury against one Senator, in order that the whole business might be brought out in court. There is little doubt in Washington that perjury has been committed, but there is very much as to whether it will be proven. If written orders for the purchase of sugar stock are in existence it is more likely that they will be used to control Senatorial votes than that they will be produced before the investigating committee or in court.

The House passed by the necessary two-thirds vote the joint resolution providing for a constitutional amendment for the election of U. S. Senators by direct vote of the people.

The second chapter of the railroad strike is now being heard from. It opens with claims filed against the City of Chicago for damage to property during the recent strike the first was filed July 30. The damage for which notice has been served covers only the property damaged the first two or three days in July, and for the legal recognition of which the time allowed under the statutes expired to night. The claims aggregate $39,389.

J. L. Wines and wife, for the past four years a resident of this town left a few days ago for Butte, Montana, where they will hereafter reside. Mr. Wines is one of the ablest lawyers in this State, and goes to Butte, where he will form a co-partnership with his son Melville Wines, in the practice of law. Mr. Wines has drawn to him many warm friends during his residence here, who regret to see him go, but what is Reno's loss is Butte's gain.—Reno Gazette.

Don't Worry.

Some philosopher has written the following and started it on the rounds of the press:

"If you have a little farm or business or steady employment and out of debt, do not fret yourself and wife into the grave for the sake of making money. You have but one life to live, and that is brief at best. Take a little pleasure day by day as you go along, and try to do good to others. A morbid desire to grab everything in sight is at the foundation of man's misery more than any other thing. Wealth alone will not keep your memory green after you are gone."
