The DeLamar hardware merchant, Geo. C. Fetterman, came up on Monday's stage. He spent Tuesday here attending to business and left for Salt Lake the same evening. George says he is going to Salt Lake on business, but the old busy body, Dame Rumor, has it otherwise.

Another large body of ore has been encountered in the Swifter, which is larger and considerably richer than any heretofore encountered. The owners are jubilant over the strike, and the general opinion is that it will be one of the richest producers in the county. The owners are deserving men, ambitious and enterprising and deserve all the good luck they have had.

Heaviest rainstorm of the season visited Pioche Wednesday. The storm started Tuesday evening raining all night, it stopped for a few hours in the morning and then commenced with ten fold vigor, and twice during the day a miniature river was rushing down Main street. The storm was general in the surrounding country, but what helps one party is generally a detriment to others. The cattlemen are rejoicing as it insures good feed on the ranges, while the farmers are down in the mouth on account of the large quantity of hay which is out, it being virtually spoiled.

Some trouble is brewing over the too indulgent use of water from the mains. A few parties having gardens are using from one to two streams continuously, which drains the tank, and the residents who live on the upper streets are unable even to get water for culinary purposes, and in case of fire it would be useless to attempt anything with our fire apparatus. They have received due notice and if it is not stopped immediately it is the intention to shut the water off from their premises the rest of the season, which will be a hardship, causing them to carry water for even domestic use. They will find it better to use it in moderation and not abuse their rights than to be without water altogether.

HELD TO ANSWER.

The Pahrangat Valley Horse Thieves Held for Grand Larceny.

Deputy Sheriff Jake Johnson arrived from DeLamar Sunday evening, having in custody Charles Williams, one of the men charged to have raided Pierson's pasture in Pahrangat valley on the 8th of May last, when fourteen head of horses were run off. Charles Wilson, the other defendant, succeeded in giving bail in $1000 at DeLamar, and was taken home to Duckwater in Nye county, by his parents.

The arrest of the raiders was given out last week; Williams having been taken at Duckwater and Wilson at Elko.

The preliminary hearing occupied all of Friday and Saturday last at the justice's court at DeLamar. The evidence was mostly circumstantial, and came in the form of admissions made to the officers by young Williams immediately after his arrest. The published account of the affair at the time it occurred proves to be about correct, except that two men, not three, did the work. After taking the horses out of the south side and running them some distance up the canyon on the west side a stampede occurred, occasioned by the pack turning on an animal used for the purpose, and his kicking and plunging sent the balance of the horses down the canyon where they broke into the pasture again on the west side.

Most of the horses were left by the thieves at what is thought to be Yarb's springs in Nye county, while the raiders, who were short of provisions, went on into where they were seen riding two of the stolen horses. The officers succeeded in getting both one of the stolen horses, and on that one the brands had been changed by cutting off the hair and transforming an F into a B in one place and an E in another.

Wilson, who is now in jail here is apparently unconcerned about the matter, though another charge of the same nature is said to exist against him.

Died.

Last Saturday at Dutch Flat, Robert Logan, after a prolonged illness from cancer, died. He has been suffering from the malady for more than a year and for a long time before his death realized that his ailment must prove fatal. Logan was an old timer in Nevada, starting in the early '60s, when he was treasurer of Ormsby county. He followed the various mining excitements of White Pine, Pioche, etc., and finally landed in the Muddy valley in this county, where he acquired valuable land interests. His family of boys and girls which survive him are nearly all of age. The funeral took place on Monday, the interment being made in the Bullionville cemetery.

Deer Lodge in Ashes.

Deer Lodge has followed in the wake of other mining towns, and has received its baptism of fire, and it now lies in ashes. Deer Lodge is in the new mining district of Eagle Valley, and preparations had been made to do a great deal of work there which will now have to be suspended for the time being. The fire broke out on Wednesday the 15th inst. and is a severe blow to the mine promoters. We have received the following particulars:

On Wednesday the 15th inst., a fire broke out in the office of the Gold Bug Mining Company, owned by Messrs. Lytle, Hammonds and Mooly, which rapidly spread to the assay office on the east, the blacksmith shop on the west and to W. S. Bennett's residence, which stood near by, and in spite of the efforts of Mr. Bennett, he being the only one there, the whole was soon reduced to ashes. Mr. Bennett succeeded in saving most of the valuable articles, but the loss was felt keenly by the owners, as they were intending to resume work on their valuable mining property, which will be temporarily delayed. Loss $1000, no insurance.

Notice.

A public meeting is called to be held on 8th of August, at the corner of Main and Meadow Valley streets, for the purpose of organizing a Bryan and Sewell Club. All are requested to come and sign the roll.

"You would be a long time in the old country before you would have a brass band to escort you to jail," but this is true of the prisoner who was landed here by Deputy Johnson Sunday evening. The band was practicing in the Court House when it was learned that the prisoner was at hand, who had to be brought through the court room to be locked up, and as soon as they reached the stairs the band struck up a lively march. The prisoner was slightly astonished, but putting his best foot forward he kept step to the music to the Queen's taste. He remarked that he "couldn't have had a better reception if he was Bryan."

If the political history of the United States be divided into periods of thirty-six years, a remarkable fact is discovered. Thirty-six years after the organization of the Government a political crisis occurred in which the old Federalist party disappeared, and John Quincy Adams was elected as the first Whig President. Thirty-six years after that the first Republican President. Thirty-six years after Lincoln's election is now, and we have witnessed the Populist reformation of the Democratic party, and in November hope to see the triumph of the new Democracy. Thirty-six years ago the next President was born.

Mr. Strong and partner, mining experts and capitalists, have been doing Pioche and surrounding country the last few weeks. They have visited Silver King, Highland, Comet and other districts, and were surprised at the vastness of the mineral belt. They were particularly struck with the mines and outlook at Comet, and think that it will come to the fore as soon as capital takes hold of some of the claims. They are looking for investments and have several propositions under consideration.

DELAMAR DEAL OFF.

English Syndicate Will Not Take the Big Property.

The Salt Lake Tribune of the 21st says: Charles M. Rolker, who has for two months past been looking into the diggins of Utah and Nevada, will "pull his freight" for England to-day, leaving the road clear for others who are seeking a foothold in this locality. At the eleventh hour Mr. Rolker corrects the impression recently put forth by him to the effect that his syndicate had purchased the DeLamar at DeLamar, Nev., and confessed yesterday that the deal was all off. It was one of the most important ever undertaken in the West, and that it was not consummated is probably cause for congratulation. It is understood that the Englishman was ready to pay several millions of dollars for the bonanza, but there was a bogtattle of just $200,000 between the figures demanded by the owners and that tendered by the bidder. Since the examination the mine has undergone, it is said, a number of changes, each of which has added to its merits. Ore, high-grade ore, has been discovered at a new place on the property, while in the main workings richer rock is to be seen to-day than at any time since the development of the ground was begun. What the output of the property is to-day cannot be definitely ascertained. It is known to be over $100,000, however, and if stories are to be relied upon, the management might double that sum without exerting the bonanza.

Judge Henry Rives said yesterday, in discussing the district, that the April Fool gave every assurance of developing into a property as big as the DeLamar, and that the entire district was improving with every blast.

New England for Silver.

The Boston Post has opened its columns to the discussion of the financial question. It now publishes letters from the people. A traveling salesman who visits most of the small cities and towns in New England writes:

"Observation has proved to my mind that the silver craze is far more extensive than the most sanguine New England advocate would believe. If you talk with a political leader you get the views of his party; if you listen to the village and country merchant you get the most popular sentiment of his customers. After transacting my business with a merchant in a Connecticut village the subject of the campaign came up. He said he had been a true Republican for many years, but could not vote the ticket this year because the party, since its purchase by a syndicate which controlled its nominations and shaped its policy, had turned traitor to the poor people. With a syndicate of capitalists in the White House, the taxpayers would be drained worse than they have been by Cleveland's gold and bond policy, which God knows was bad enough. 'At this juncture an old farmer came into the store and I asked him whether he was a gold bug or a silver bug. Replying that he was in favor of silver I asked him why, and here is his reply:

"We poor folks have been voting for the party and supporting our favorite politicians in the past, and are now upon the verge of a financial crisis. It is time we did something for our own interest. All the bankers, money lenders, capitalists, monopolists, syndicates, Wall Street operators, millionaires, railroad owners and politicians who have run the government in debt and oppressed the working people, favor a gold standard. That's why I am in favor of silver."

"And it's a cinch too. It struck my gold argument dumb, and since then I have favored silver, and lose no occasion to tell others of this logical argument."

Grover Cleveland cannot be expected to say much about the convention and its action at present. No true fisherman will talk when the fish are biting. The whole world knows conversation scares the fish.—Chicago Journal.

Mr. E. Ellery Anderson of New York, who is drawing $18,000 a year as one of the receivers of the Union Pacific Railway company, thinks it would be a good idea to shoot a few Western people who favor free coinage. Of course, he prefers a continuation of the present business depression, which enables him to draw a very large salary for worthless services. Free coinage would make the Union Pacific prosperous again, and that would dispense with the need of receivers. Mr. Anderson knows how to look out for his own interests, evidently.—Denver Republican.

Bryan does not use tobacco or liquor in any form. His life is a better lesson than all the prohibition lectures on the evils of intemperance, and yet there are prohibitions, who will not support him because he has some other plank in the platform than the one of prohibition. A crank party is the worst thing on earth to aid reforms. The true reformer ignores bigotry and espouses freedom.—Denver Mining Record.

Mr. C. O. Newell has been hustling for a week or more past getting things in shape to do some hard knocks on his claims in State Line. Cell is very highly elated over the outlook, and if the developments meet half his expectations he will have a good thing. He has had some very fine assays and left Tuesday afternoon, taking with him tents, tools, provisions and several men and will do considerable development work to find out what is there. If it goes down at all like the croppings indicate it will be a hummer. All that is needed is some capital and hard work to make a great camp at State Line.

John Partschler is in town enroute to State Line, from which place he has just had samples of quartz assaying $449 gold. The samples came from the DeLame tunnel which has been in ledge matter for some and is said to look quite promising.

Parties from Clover Valley claim to have caught certain residents of the Muddy Valley in the act of killing cattle on the ranges between the two places. It is claimed that cattle have been thus slaughtered in the mountains for a long time past, and the meat cured before being taken off to the valley. Criminal prosecutions will probably follow.

Assessor Prudenal completed his assessment of the town and mines here yesterday.

The nomination of Bryan takes well in DeLamar, and the town is a unit as far as we have heard on the proposition of supporting him. If there are any pronounced goldbugs they are yet to be heard from.

For over six hours yesterday it rained here, coming most of the time in a gentle fall. A spurt or two caused some alarm to those whose houses are built low in the ravine, on account of a possible flood.

Justice DeFriez now holds court in a building of his own, situated on Main street below the Palace restaurant. The improvement over the former cramped quarters will be appreciated by all who have business at the court.

A heronst belonging to the old man who runs the chop house in Schafer's saloon was robbed last Thursday night, and two dozen chickens decapitated and their heads left as reminders to the owner. No trace of the thieves could be found.

The output of the DeLamar mine is reported to be in the neighborhood of $18,000 a day. Knock off $10,000 and the figures may be about right for the output when everything is working smoothly. Two hundred tons a day are now going through the mill, and $250,000 a month is not a bad shipment for one mine.

The DeLamar fever, so-called, has broken out again, and no less than a dozen cases are reported. The symptoms are principally a burning, consuming fever, with extreme lassitude and no pain, a condition which commonly accompanies fever in the typhoid form, which by many this is believed to be. No fatal cases are as yet reported, however, and it is sincerely hoped it may be more successfully combatted than it was last summer.

The hard rains of Wednesday convinced some of the residents of the lower gulch that in case of a heavy storm their places of abode are not the safest. As it was, some damage is reported from flooded cabins. There have been no floods in April Fool gulch since DeLamar was founded, but signs are numerous that they have occurred in times past. What has been may be again, and flooded houses and damaged property, with possibly loss of life, may form the basis of a report some of these showery days.

There is considerable sickness in town, Dr. Mayo himself has been down but is again about attending to his duties. Pat Callery, who for some time has been an inmate of Dr. Mayo's private hospital, where he went to have an operation performed upon him to remove a tumor, has so far recovered as to be able to walk around, and in a few days will be able to resume his duties at the DeLamar mines as shift boss, a position he has held from the start of the mines under Capt. DeLamar's management.

DeLamar is admitted to be duller now than at any time during the past year. Various reasons are assigned for it. The impending change in the company management is believed by some to be the main reason, as the workmen generally are saving up ready to move if occasion requires, while others say fear of the fever which has set in again occasions it, and many are looking for a change of base on that account. The town too, is admitted to contain all the business houses the population can with reason support, while some branches are overdone. At the same time there are no idle men here, and good miners can get work almost any time. The idlers are for the most part the irresponsible element and those who don't want work.

DeLamar will have another addition to her many improvements. A gentleman connected with the DeLamar Co. has purchased and had shipped an ice machine of about three tons capacity, having made arrangements with the Co. for water and motive power. It is said to be on the road and will be here in about a week, and in about three weeks we can have ice delivered at our doors at reasonable prices, which they promise to do. It is a scarce article in town at present, and those that have it are loth to let it go, except in case of sickness.

James M. Healy, who since the purchase of the Jim Crow and Monitor mines has been in charge of them for the DeLamar company, left on Tuesday with his family for Boise, Idaho. He is succeeded in the management of the mine by Mr. Thos. Oxman, a mining man of large experience. During his stay here Mr. Healy made many strong friends who parted from him with sincere regret. There is yet no official announcement that the sale of the DeLamar property has been effected, but this change in the management of the mine is regarded as significant and to indicate that the deal will yet be consummated.

The political situation is becoming interesting; everybody is waiting to see if our Populist friends will on the 22d inst. endorse the Democratic silver ticket and its nominees, Bryan and Sewell. If they do, and we sincerely hope they will, there is no doubt but it will win. The straight silver party will without a doubt do so. It is a foregone conclusion that silver will win by combined action of all friends of the white metal. But discussion and discord in the ranks, and the placing of a separate candidate in the field will be doing what our enemies, the goldbugs most earnestly desire. We sincerely hope that wisdom will prevail in their councils and they will realize that in unity there is strength. By so doing they do not forfeit their party principles, but with the success of the Democratic ticket they will obtain the more essential points of the Populist platform. We hope that they will see the matter in its true light and once more they will see a government of the people.
