

HOSPITALS CROWDED

MAJORITY OF PATIENTS WOMEN

Mrs. Pinkham's Advice Saves Many From This Sad and Costly Experience.

It is a sad fact that every year brings an increase in the number of operations performed upon women in our hospitals. More than three-fourths of the patients lying on those gynecological beds are women and girls who are awaiting or recovering from operations made necessary by neglect.

Every one of these patients had plenty of warning in that bearing down feeling, pain at the left or right of the abdomen, nervous exhaustion, pain in the small of the back, pelvic catarrh, dizziness, flatulency, displacements or irregularities. All of these symptoms are indications of an unhealthy condition of the female organs, and if not heeded the trouble may break headway until the penalty has to be paid by dangerous operation, and a lifetime of impaired usefulness at best, while in many cases the results are fatal.

Miss Lucilla Adams, of Seattle, Wash., writes: "Dear Mrs. Pinkham—About two years ago I was a great sufferer from a severe female trouble, pains and headaches. The doctor prescribed for me and finally told me that I had a tumor and must undergo an operation if I wanted to get well. I felt that this was my death warrant, but I spent hundreds of dollars for medical help, but the tumor kept growing. Fortunately I corresponded with an aunt in the New England States, and she advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as it was said to cure tumors. I did so and immediately began to improve in health, and I was entirely cured, the tumor disappearing entirely, without an operation. I wish every suffering woman would try this great preparation."

Just as surely as Miss Adams was cured of the troubles enumerated in her letter, just so surely will Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound cure other women who suffer from female troubles, inflammation, kidney troubles, nervous excitability or nervous prostration.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all young women who are ill to write her for free advice. She is daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham and for twenty-five years has been advising sick women free of charge. Address, Lynn, Mass.

TOO LATE ON THE LAST DAY.

Horrible Thought That Occurred to Procrastinating Individual.

Senator Frye was wont to tell this one on ex-Senator Howard of Lewiston, Me., explaining that in the early days of his business career his fondness for sleep was almost the cause of his undoing.

It was Howard's invariable rule to take "another wink" after being called in the morning, and almost as invariably did he arrive at business from thirty minutes to one hour late.

On sundry occasions he was known to stay out with "the boys," and on one particular occasion was induced to partake of the grape juice to such an extent that his companions decided to play a very practical joke on him, by placing him in an undertaker's shop to sleep in a casket.

In the early dawn Mr. Howard awoke, stretched and sat up. In horror he beheld the empty casket, and he, and in a fleeting second his past career passed before his mental vision, till raising his hands aloft, he exclaimed, while beads of perspiration stood on his ghastly brow: "For the last time too late—too late for the resurrection."

ARTIST NOT FOND OF LABOR

Turner Pasted on a Picture the Print of a Vase He Wanted.

On one of Mr. Edward Moran's visits to London he made a careful study of Turner.

They stopped in front of "Child Harold's Pilgrimage," and Mr. Moran, after examining the canvas closely, made the startling assertion that the vase to the right was not a part of the picture, but was pasted on it.

Mr. Warnham laughed the idea to scorn and said it was absurd. Mr. Moran persisted that he was right and waged a dinner and a bottle of wine that he could prove it if he were given the opportunity.

The wager was accepted. The picture was taken down, the glass was removed, and, to the astonishment of the keeper, Mr. Moran raised the edge of the paper, over which, surely enough, the vase had been painted.

Evidently, to save himself the trouble of drawing the object, Turner had cut the vase out of some print, skillfully hiding the point of juncture.—New York Herald.

Great Desire of Humankind.

"There is in man's nature a secret inclination and motion toward love of others, which, if it be not spent upon some one or a few, does naturally spread itself toward many," said Lord Bacon three centuries ago. The remark might be applied with good reason to the unmarried woman, who within the last half century has become a moving power in the world.

COULD NOT KEEP UP.

Broken Down, Like Many Another Woman, with Exhausting Kidney Troubles.

Mrs. A. Taylor, of Wharton, N. J., says: "I had kidney trouble in its most painful and severe form, and the torture I went through now seems to have been almost unbearable. I had backaches, pains in the side and loins, dizzy spells and hot, feverish headaches. There were bearing-down pains, and the kidney secretions passed too frequently and with a burning sensation. They showed weakness. I became discouraged, weak, languid and depressed, so sick and weak that I could not keep up. As doctors did not cure me I decided to try Doan's Kidney Pills, and with much success that my troubles were all gone after using eight boxes, and my strength, ambition and general health is fine."

NO REST NIGHT OR DAY.

With Irritating Skin Humor—Hair Began to Fall Out—Wonderful Result from Cuticura Remedies.

"About the latter part of July my whole body began to itch. I did not take much notice of it at first, but it began to get worse all the time, and then I began to get uneasy and tried all kinds of baths and other remedies that were recommended for skin humors; but I became worse all the time. My hair began to fall out and my scalp itched all the time. Especially at night, just as soon as I would get in bed and get warm, my whole body would begin to itch and my finger nails would keep it irritated, and it was not long before I could not rest night or day. A friend asked me to try the Cuticura Remedies, and I did, and the first application helped me wonderfully. For about four weeks I would take a hot bath every night and then apply the Cuticura Ointment to my whole body; and I kept getting better, and by the time I used four boxes of Cuticura I was entirely cured, and my hair stopped falling out. CATS TRAINED AS RETRIEVERS.

Proof That Ancient Egyptians So Used Their Pets. "It is claimed," said a Chicago antiquary, "that cats may be trained as retrievers—trained to swim to your slain birds, and bring them back to you in their mouths. The thing sounds incredible. But look here."

He held up the photograph of an ancient Egyptian painting. Men with spears rode on the Nile. In some of the boats large cats sat on their haunches in the stern, while toward others several cats swam with dead birds in their mouths.

"This picture," said the antiquary, "proves that the Egyptians used cats for hunting dogs. If they, why not we? The original of the picture is in the British museum, where there are also several pieces of carving that display the cat in the role of a retriever."

An Alarming Blunder.

A young lady living in Paris recently visited her sister's family and left them in perfect health. The next day a letter arrived from the Bichat Hospital announcing her death at that institution, and caused deep grief among her relatives, who thought she had met with a fatal accident. That evening, however, the supposed deceased appeared at the house safe and sound. It appears that she had been under treatment at the hospital some time ago, and her name, through an error, was given to another patient, who subsequently died.

HAD HEART PAINS

A Critical Case of Rheumatism Cured By Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

While Mr. W. S. Geisel, of No. 121 East Coates street, Moberly, Mo., was steadily working at his trade in a foundry at that place, he became the victim of an attack of rheumatism, and his experience is that of thousands who are compelled to work in similar surroundings. He describes his situation as follows:

"I had been at work for a long time in a foundry where I was exposed to dampness. First my feet began to hurt and to swell, then my knees and my shoulder joints began to be affected in the same way. Finally I could not walk without great difficulty and suffering and had to stop work altogether. My appetite was feeble and I grew very pale and weak. I began to have pains about my heart and it fluttered at my condition. I became greatly alarmed about my condition. My mother knew about the virtues of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, as they had given her back her health when she was nearly wasting to death, and when she found that they were good for rheumatism too, she began to give them to me about a month after I was attacked. That was in the early part of March, 1903, and by June they had driven away the pains and swelling and had restored my appetite and color. Then I felt strong enough to take up a line of outdoor work and now, in October, I regard myself as entirely well and I am about to go into a foundry again at St. Louis."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills also cure other diseases springing from impure blood or disordered nerves, such as sciatica, locomotor ataxia, partial paralysis and all forms of weakness in male or female. They may be had at all druggists or directly from the Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

Heroines, Old and New.

Most modern heroines are married women, whereas the nice ones in Shakespeare and in novels before 1890 were almost always unwedded maids. You like Beatrice and Portia and, above all things, Rosalind. You do not lose your heart to Lady Macbeth (though a fine figure of a woman) and you do not desire to compete with Desdemona. This may be a too nice morality, but to Victorian tastes even now, in novels at least, come under the ban of the elder Mr. Welles. Nobody but Col. Esmond ever cared for Lady Castlewood and Dobbin is alone in his passion for Amelia.—London Post.

Ever Hear of "Scotty" and His Record-Breaking Ride?

The story, briefly told, is this: Walter Scott, the Death Valley gold miner, made the trip from Los Angeles to Chicago last summer on a special train over the "Santa Fe" in less than 45 hours. That whirlwind trip cost him more than $6,000. It was the fastest long distance run over mountain and plains ever made on any American railway. It demonstrated beyond dispute that the Santa Fe track, equipment and employees are of the dependable kind. Probably you wouldn't care to ride so fast. JUSTICE BROWN WILL RETIRE.

Fears Continuation of Judicial Duties May Cause Blindness.

Associate Justice Henry Billings Brown of the United States Supreme court intends to retire from the bench and has notified President Roosevelt to that effect.

Justice Brown was 70 years old on March 2. Having reached that age and having served ten years as a member of the Supreme bench, he was privileged to retire on full pay. Although strong and vigorous bodily and mentally, Justice Brown has been troubled with falling sight, and he has felt that a continuance of his judicial duties might cause him to become blind.

He will serve through the present term of court and probably will retire in the fall. He expects to travel in Europe during the summer.

Justice Brown was born at South Lee, Mass., in 1836, graduated from Yale when 20 years old, and, after studying law at the Yale and Harvard law schools, was admitted to the bar in Wayne county, Mich., in 1860. From 1861 to 1868 he served as deputy United States marshal and assistant United States attorney for the eastern district of Michigan, and then became judge of the state circuit court of Wayne county.

He served only a few months, when he returned to the practice of law in Detroit in partnership with John S. Newberry and Ashley Pond. In 1876 President Grant appointed him United States judge for the eastern district of Michigan, and in December, 1890, President Harrison appointed him associate justice of the United States Supreme court.

THINK TOO MUCH OF "NERVES."

Mistake Made by People and Physicians of To-day. What a fine thing it would have been for the human race had physicians never discovered anything about the nervous system or invented such terms as "nervous prostration" or "nervous dyspepsia." It makes one groan with envy to think of those former times when people knew little or nothing about anatomy and when they called things by their right names. When they were ill-tempered or jealous or melancholy they said they were, instead of putting everything on the poor nerves as we do now. When physicians are called in and find themselves at a loss to know just what is the matter with patient—and ever the very cleverest of them sometimes do find themselves in that humiliating position—they can always fall back upon "nerves," with the certainty that the patient will quite agree with them and also that he will immediately justify the diagnosis by having a nervous attack of some sort.—Charleston News and Courier.

SCIENTIFIC FACT AND THEORY.

Too Many Vagaries Indulged in by the Thinkers.

That the human race will become blind through the effects of the electrical current so abundantly generated for modern uses is the startling proposition of an alleged scientist of Chicago. We are of the opinion that this statement should be classed among the vagaries of science. There never was a time when real science commanded more respect, or, to demonstrate truths, more unquestioning belief than the present. This is shown by the innumerable instances of applied science in all branches of industry. But scientific demonstrations are one thing and scientific speculations are quite another. In fact, real scientists do not indulge in the latter. They announce conclusions as the result of patient and thorough research, but they do not promulgate long-range speculations or fantastic theories.—Indianapolis News.

French President a Music Lover.

M. Fallieres, the new President of France, is a capital billiard player, having succumbed to the fascinations of the game long ago. He is the first President to adore tobacco, but he has a fine taste for music, which Loubet, Faure, Grety, MacMahon and others, who were all smokers, notably lacked. President Fallieres shares M. Loubet's enthusiasm for shooting, and is a better shot than President Carnot, who once at a shooting party in Rambouillet severely "peppered" Gen. Brugere.

KISSING THE BLARNEY STONE.

Conoclast Says Travelers Draw on Their Imagination. "A good many people who take a trip to Europe tell lies when they come back," said the ex-globe trotter. "One thing they like to do about is kissing the blarney stone. A lot of travelers, claim to have performed that oscillatory stunt, and they dilate on the experience with a gloss that gives color to their assertion. Maybe a few of them really have accomplished the feat, but their number stands in the proportion to those that have not as one to ten thousand."

"Kissing the blarney stone is not an easy thing to do. If the boasters would only look up a few facts in the case and find out what difficulties are encountered in performing the rite, they would have a little less to say on the subject. In the first place, the precious stone is near the top of one of the great towers of the castle. To reach it you would have to climb 125 feet inside of a dark, cavernous donjon. Then, when you have come to the nearest opening in
