Warning!

A little fly on mischief bent found an open door and in he went. There were no screens to bar his way and little fly was happy and gay. Dinner was being prepared by the cook; the fly flew over and took a look, and said as he gave his head a jerk: "Right here's where I get in my work. With microbes I am loaded down from the filthiest garbage can in town."

So while the cook was humming tunes, the fly waded through a dish of prunes; he danced a jig on the soup tureen and greased his jaws on the butterine; he raced all over the custard pie, then said as he slowly winked his eye: "Dinner time is drawing near and I'd better chase myself from here; I feel in my bones that trouble's brewin', and in about three minutes there'll be somethin' doin'." Of all this the family ate and I'll proceed to tell you of each one's fate. First father was taken ill and died, then mother passed over the Great Divide; then little Johnny was called up higher and is now a member of the angel choir; then little Nell and sister Sue were taken sick and they died too. The whole family is now in the sweet bye-and-bye, all because of the visit of one little fly. The

BEEBLE AS A SCENT SACHET

Insect of Borneo That Exhales Most Powerful Perfume.

The beaux and belles of Borneo do not have to distil perfume for their hair or handkerchiefs. They have only to take a walk until they find a mimosa in blossom. Clinging to the flower-balls is found a magnificent beetle of brilliant emerald green shading to a bright bronze on the wing-cases, and touched with gold on the head. This living jewel emits a powerful scent of attar of roses, perfuming the air for many yards around it. A number of them placed in a house will fill it from top to bottom with delightful fragrance. Young girls roll the insect in a bit of cotton cloth and braid it in their black locks, and young men suspend it around their necks like an amulet or an Egyptian scarab. The fragrance gradually grows fainter as the beetle loses its vitality, and dies with it.

The beetle lives in captivity only a few hours, and as the scent expires with it, no way has so far been found to extract or preserve the exquisite odor. The scented beetle appears only when the mimosa is in flower. Neither birds nor lizards will destroy it, and it is protected even from the voracious woodpecker by its powerful perfume.

REFLECTIONS OF A BACHELOR GIRL.

Nobody can be all things to all men; but a married woman is expected to be all things, from a cook to a houri to one man.

Trying to attract a man without appealing to his vanity is about as effective as hailing a street car on the wrong corner.

After a man has had the same engagement ring returned by two or three girls he begins to look upon it as a talisman.

Consider the show girls, how they dress; they toil not, neither do they spin, yet Solomon in all his glory was not arrayed like one of these.

Husbands are almost as rare nowadays as solid mahogany, and they have to be watched just as carefully owing to the prevalence of affinities.

Nothing frightens a man so much as his wife's dead silence after one of his defections; it is like a stone wall with a barbed-wire railing on top; he can't get around it, nor see through it, nor walk over it.

The Sea Hate.
Soft it sings in shining ripples, glad beneath the golden day,
With a laugh among the dune grass, as it flings its jewel spray;
But I hate its smiles and whispers, for beneath the white curled crests
Lies the great black heart of terror and the wrath that never rests.

Hidden from the blessed daylight, in its caves it heaves and throbs,
With a dreadful choking gurgle and a sound of dying sobs;
And the long, dark, trailing seaweed, lifted on its ebb and flow,
Is like hair of drowned women whelmed within the undertow.

Through the pale green dusks of twilight from the rolling mystic line,
Comes a chant of fear and beauty, calling sweet to me and mine;
But I see the siren music of the cruel luring flood,
For its doom is in its message and the answer in my blood.

The Little One.
Because I toll for you, dear little one, I do not grumble when my tasks are great;
Because of you, my work is gladly done, There always is your love to compensate.

Because you give me love, dear little one, I have the strength to scorn Temptation's call,
To make brave resolutions and to shun The slippery places where the foolish fall.

Because of your sweet faith in me, I cling To hopes that with your coming were begun;
How pitiful were I—how base a thing— If, having you, I fell, dear little one!
