

An International Service Built on Tiny Profits Per Pound

Some industries have been able to get in step with war demands more quickly than others.

In many cases mighty plants have sprung up—but at a prodigious cost.

The packing industry was able to adapt itself to unheard of demands more quickly, perhaps, than any other industry. And this was because the vast equipment of packing plants, refrigerator cars, branch houses, etc., had been gradually developed to its present state of efficiency, so that in the crucial hour it became a mighty international system for war service.

And how had this development taken place?

Not by making vast inroads into the capital wealth of the country, but largely by using, from year to year, a portion of the profits, to provide for expansion.

Swift & Company's profits have always been so tiny, compared with sales, that they have had practically no effect on the price of meat (amounting to only a fraction of a cent per pound).

And yet the owners of the business have been content with reasonable returns on their capital, and have been able, year after year, to put part of the profits back into the business to provide for its expansion.

These fractions of tiny profits have been repaid to the public many fold in the form of better service, and better and cheaper meat, and made it possible for Swift & Company to meet, undaunted, the sudden cry for meat for overseas.

Could any other method of financing a vital industry involve less hardship to the people of the country? Could there be a better instance of true "profit-sharing" than this return in added usefulness and in national preparedness?

Swift & Company, U. S. A.

It is probable that the schools at Salt Lake will not be reopened until January 1, regardless of any action taken by the state health department in regard to the influenza situation.

Rigid isolation and free vaccination, rather than compulsory masking, form the policy definitely decided upon by the Salt Lake health department as best to handle the influenza epidemic.

The mysterious disappearance of Vincent Corado, a wealthy Italian of Telluride, Colo., thought to have been murdered, may be explained as a result of the arrest of Mert Edmiston at St. George. Corado was with Edmiston when last seen.

Governor Bamberger will attend the conference of governors at Annapolis, Md., December 16-18. The call for the gathering was issued by former Gov. William Spry, head of the executive committee, the first man not a governor to be elected chairman.

Mrs. Lillian Walker, aged 20, was instantly killed when the elevator weights in the Wilson hotel at Salt Lake dropped on her. Her husband, Emmet Walker, a bellboy in the hotel, was operating the elevator. She was looking down into the elevator pit when the accident happened.

Frank Leland, 38 years old, once a prisoner in the state penitentiary, died a hero while fighting with the Canadian army. It has been learned. His criminal record had barred him from the United States army, but, determined to fight, he offered his services to the dominion and was accepted.

Registration day of high school boys in the state for the purpose of supplying farmers with summer help will be held January 20, according to announcement made last week by J. Challen Smith, head of the boys' working reserve. Plans to place the boys on farms of the state will immediately follow, it is said.

Under control for two weeks, the influenza epidemic throughout Utah, with the exception of Salt Lake and Ogden, is at an end, Dr. T. B. Beatty, secretary of the state board of health, declared on December 1. This does not mean, he explained, that no new cases will develop, but that the disease has lost its epidemic character.

The second tie vote in the recent election has been reported. The first was on the vote cast for justice of the peace in Seefield in Carbon county, and the last in Daggett county, where the vote for two-year term for county commissioner was equally divided between Leo Stewart and Niels Pallesen, each receiving 45 votes.

Since the summer of 1915 the state treasurer has held, as a trust, $2503.36, the remainder of the estate of Marco Church, an Austrian, who died in Utah. The heirs are residents of Austria. This amount will now be turned over to A. Mitchell Palmer, alien property custodian.

MADE GERMAN AIRMAN SORE

That Opponent Did Not Adhere to Ordinary Rules of Fighting Seemed to Him Unfair.

Set strategy doesn't always work. But the German mind can't understand anyone's abandoning a fixed method.

"The sorest man I have ever seen," said an American aviator, "was Lieutenant Meinkopf, the star Boche flyer, when he was nipped by Lieutenant Avery. Meinkopf was Baron Richtofen's successor and the best flyer that Germany had left.

"When Avery tackled him, he abandoned all set principles of air strategy, simply sailed in and opened fire without indulging in preliminary maneuvers. He brought his man down in about three seconds, and this was his first Boche battle.

"When Meinkopf landed, he was purple with rage, and as far as I could make out his main complaint could be translated in this fashion:

"What kind of flying is this, anyhow?"—Paris Stars and Stripes.

How They Conversed.

An American liaison officer who knew little French and a French artillery officer who knew little English had important business together during the height of the recent fighting.

"Henri," said the commandant to a young sergeant, "I have seen you talking to Americans several times. Can you speak English?"

"No, mon commandant," answered Henri simply.

For all that, Henri and the American officer were soon engaged in a vivacious conversation. At its conclusion the commandant turned to Henri.

"But you speak English very well," he said.

"No, mon commandant," Henri still insisted. "We were talking in German."
