

ENDED IN A FIZZLE.

How the Prince of Wales Wet Blanketed a Proposed Demonstration.

The Prince of Wales, after four weeks' wandering, returned home from Russia looking, for him, very lean, but withal hale and fit, as is his customary appearance. There had been some preliminary talk of giving him a great popular welcome, such as that accorded to Lords Beaconsfield and Salisbury when they returned from the Berlin conference bringing with them, as the former dramatically declared, "Peace with honor."

The prince heard nothing of this until he reached Paris on the way home. Then he telegraphed to London expressing his annoyance at the scheme, which was not only indecorous in view of the sad duties from which he was returning, but imputed to him an interference with the ordinary course of diplomacy that was at variance with his inclinations and destructive of that position of neutrality as heir to the throne which he has always sought to maintain, like the tactful man of the world which he undoubtedly is. Word was therefore sent round, with the result that his wishes were respected as far as a demonstration within the railway station by the aristocracy was concerned.

There were plenty of notables present, but not more than a dozen persons were allowed on the reserved platform, and all contented themselves with bowing profoundly as the prince entered his closed carriage. A pretty big crowd, mainly bourgeois, had collected outside the station, and there was a good deal of cheering, but as a demonstration it was a failure, as it deserved to be. The Prince of Wales is too sensible a man to desire that sort of thing, for he knows it is calculated to provoke counter displays and make him an object of contention among rival parties and conflicting factions.—London Cor. New York Sun.

A CANVASBACK DUDE.

He Startled the London West Enders, but Won His Wager.

Considerable sensation was created in the west end of London recently by a newspaper vender, attired in a most extraordinary suit of canvas held together entirely by safety pins, who frequented the most important thoroughfares for the greater part of the day. A close scrutiny revealed a glimpse of a snowy shirt front not altogether concealed by the strange canvas suit and fingers loaded with handsome rings not usually found on the general run of news venders, while he delivered the contents of his bill with a most aristocratic drawl.

It appears that a party of "Johnnies" were assembled together in the Cafe Monico a few days since, and a discussion arose between them as to the sale of papers in the streets, one gilded youth asserting that he would, for a wager of £50, sell a certain number of papers in a certain time under certain conditions, which was immediately snapped up by one of his companions, with the result that the youth appeared in the streets under the circumstances related above.

He was closely attended wherever he went by a large crowd and was the subject of numerous irreverent remarks from the legitimate paper sellers, who could not make it out at all. The affair caused much amusement, especially when this most extraordinary news vender adjourned to the Cafe Monico for refreshment, his entry causing a great diversion among all assembled in that establishment. The wager was completed and won at 9:30 in the evening.—London Cor. Chicago Post.

New Means of Coast Defense.

Uncle Sam possesses one cannon the outside of which is believed to be more formidable than the inside. It is a 12 inch gun mounted on the ramparts of the fort at Willet's Point, N. Y., but around it has been wound 13 miles of one-half inch insulated telegraph cable. By means of this coil and a dynamo the big gun has been transformed into the most powerful electro-magnet in the world. This unique instrument was born of a mere experiment whim of Colonel W. R. King of the United States engineer corps, but an astonishing new feature in our coast defense seems about to be evolved from this remarkable combination. This magnetized gun, it has been discovered, will derange a ship's compass at a distance of six miles from the fort. Future developments of this chance born principle may yet evolve a valuable adjunct to the coast forts in the perfection of an electro-magnet which shall eventually prevent the possibility of a naval surprise under the cover of fog or darkness.—Philadelphia Record.

Vermont Loves Red Clover.

In a vote for a state flower taken in Vermont more than 9,500 votes were cast for the red clover out of a total of 17,611, and the legislature has passed a bill making the red clover the state flower.
