

OUR NEXT PRESIDENT

Senator Brice Says Indications Are That He Will Be a Republican.

Result Caused, He Says, by Dissatisfaction With Democratic Policy.

The President Not Personally Responsible for the Avalanche.

PITTSBURG, Nov. 11.—"The results of the elections of 1905 makes it most certain that the nominee of the next Republican national convention will be elected president," said Senator Calvin S. Brice to an evening paper reporter at the union depot last evening. Mr. Brice was seated in a Pullman car on the eastern express. The defeated statesman said he was going to New York. The reporter asked him how the election would effect our presidential politics, and Mr. Brice made answer as quoted above. The senator continued: "If the next president is not a Republican the last election has at least added much to the interest that will be felt in the deliberations of the Republican convention. Who will be nominated? Well, Mr. McKinley is a charming gentleman, able, popular, and probably as magnetic as any of the candidates."

The Senator's Explanation.

To the reporter's suggestion that the public would like to know the senator's explanation of the result in Ohio Mr. Brice said:

"Ohio did just what the other states did. The result in Ohio was no different from what it was in New York, Maryland or Kentucky. The people seem dissatisfied with the general policy of the Democratic party, and no local argument has any effect on the national impulse. In Ohio we did our best, but it was useless. Chairman Anderson of the Democratic committee did excellent work, but the odds were too great. General Foraker will be elected to succeed me as senator, and what I shall do does not concern the public."

Cleveland Not to Blame.

The reporter asked Mr. Brice if President Cleveland's policy was to blame for the whole Democratic disaster. The Ohio senator hesitated a moment, and then said:

"No, I don't think Mr. Cleveland is blamed personally for the tidal wave. Still, he will have to bear his share of the blame, as being part of the national organization and leadership of the Democratic party?"

"How about Gorman?" asked the reporter.

Mr. Brice arched his eyebrows. "Gorman's all right. Your man Quay was beaten worse than Gorman was last Tuesday, and he seems to be doing pretty well."

DEADLOCKED IN KENTUCKY

Legislature Said to Be a Tie on Joint Ballot.

LOUISVILLE, Nov. 11.—The Evening Post says that the general assembly will be a tie when it meets and the election of a successor to Senator Blackburn is a matter of conjecture, the Democrats having 68 votes and one Democratic Populist vote, making a total of 69. The Republicans will have 68, and one Republican Alliance vote, making a total of 69. The Republicans claim that the lieutenant governor, Worthington, will have the decisive vote, thus insuring them the senatorship. This is an error, however, as the lieutenant governor as presiding officer of the senate cannot vote on joint ballot.

Pennsylvania a Complete Return.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 11.—Complete returns from every county in the state show that a total vote of 738,660 was cast on Tuesday for the Republican and Democratic candidates for state treasurer, Haywood having a plurality of 184,192.
