A SHERIDAN FATALITY.

Little Clyde Wigmore Accidentally Killed—
A Sad Story.

SHERIDAN, Feb. 26.—[Special Correspondence.]—Little Clyde Wigmore is dead. This afternoon while playing with his two sisters, he was run over by his father's wagon, and died before reaching the house. Mr. Wigmore was hauling stone near his place, and the children were running along with the wagon. The father supposed they were behind and out of danger; but something directed his attention toward the wagon on the side opposite where he was walking, and he beheld the wheels passing over the boy's body. He instantly ran to the place where the child was lying and picked him up, saying, "Are you hurt my boy?" "Yes papa," replied the little fellow, and in a few moments died in his father's arms. The sympathy of the entire community is with the bereaved parents.

ACCIDENT AT ROCHESTER.

Fred Mueller Injured While Picking
Out a Blast Charge.

SHERIDAN, Feb. 28.—[Special by Telephone.]—An accident happened at Rochester, last evening by which Fred Mueller will lose two fingers of his left hand. It is the old story of a blast which missed fire. Mr. Mueller attempted to pick it out, when it exploded, lacerating his hand badly. He was brought to Sheridan and Dr. Miller performed an operation on the injured member.

"OUT IN THE STREETS."

Sheridan Amateurs Acquit Themselves
With Great Credit.

SHERIDAN, Feb. 26.—The well known drama, "Out in the Streets," was last night presented at I. O. G. T. hall, under the auspices of the Womens' Relief Corps, of this town. The attendance was good, and the audience well pleased. This is the third time the play has been on the boards here, and many of the dramatis personae at this presentation assisted in the play some ten years ago. The play is short, but interesting. O. F. Parmeter, as Col. Wayne, was good; his part could not have been better played. Solomon Davis, the villain, was a good combination of Carker and Uriah Heap, and the part was well sustained by Charles Glasser. Matt, Davis' son, was a chip off the old block, and only wanted time to make as great a villain. Harry Foster played the part well. Mrs. May Thomas, as Nina Wayne, made a typical daughter and sweetheart. Minnie Bradford, the sick child, was done by Miss Grace Faulkner, whose clear tone and distinct enunciation were the admiration of the audience. Mrs. Bradford, the evicted tenant, was well played by Mrs. Mabel Glasser. This is a most difficult role, but the part was unusually well sustained. No play would be complete without a nigger to make fun. Ned Dickinson, as Pete, was the hero of the occasion. As a burnt cork artist, Dickie son has no equal in this part of the country.

After the play, Jas. G. Walker as an Irish captain, drilled a squad of recruits, much to the delight of the old soldiers in the audience, who imagined themselves on parade once more on the old camp grounds of the Civil war.

"THE TOUCH OF GOLD."

Little Miss Keta Hyndman Writes Concerning It.

SHERIDAN, Feb. 26.—[Special Correspondence.]—Carrying out the idea mentioned in last week's MADISONIAN, the following is offered as worthy of space:

One time during the reign of Midas, king of Persia, there came to the palace a magician dressed as a beggar, and asked the king if he might get something to eat. The king told him to go to the kitchen and get something. So he did. When he came back he told the king he was a magician, and asked what he most desired. The king, being very greedy for money, said,

"Make everything I touch turn to gold." The magician then went on his way. In a short time the king went into the room and touched the dishes, and they all turned to gold. Then the queen came into the room, and he threw his arms around her and she turned to gold. Soon his little boy entered the room, and before he could stop himself he had touched him, and the child turned to gold. Then the king went to eat supper, but everything he ate turned into gold, and he choked. In a short time the magician came back and changed them all to their original form and substance.

SHERIDAN BRIEFS.

W. C. Miller has resumed operations on his mine on Wisconsin creek.

Eggs are down to cases, 10 cents being the ruling price the past week.

Herman Steiner is down from Browns Gulch, taking care of a very painful felon.

Josh Hammel and Than Shafer have purchased the stock and fixtures of the Senate saloon.

Postmaster Walker has put two men to work on his Ramshorn properties the Alice and the Maggie.

Dr. G. W. Rightour reports the arrival of a new baby girl at the home of Ewald Brach, of Brandon.

Ed Bloom has just struck a rich lead on High Ridge, where he has been for some time developing a gold and lead property.

Two new waiters and a cook, came in today for Leiterville, to take the places made vacant by a disagreement at the upper boarding house a few days ago.

W. F. Willis, is at present at Zeigler's Springs, wrestling with a severe rheumatic attack. On his return, he will take charge of the old Thomas ranch near this place.

O. M. Best and M. L. Davidson, of Dillon, are in town. These gentlemen hope in the near future to see their little city connected by telephone with the towns of this valley.

Fred Shultz has just received notice that a snug sum of money awaits his order at one of the banks at Virginia City. The cause of it all is an insurance policy just matured.

T. B. Letter came in to-day from Pipestone, where he has been sojourning the past two weeks. Bert Ribble, who accompanied him to the Springs, has gone to Butte, having got the better of rheumatism.

Albert Hermann has received the last payment on a one-half interest in his Mill Creek mining property. This closes a deal whereby C. H. Palmer et al, of Butte, become co-owners in that promising claim.

Jno. J. Colman, of Butte, is in town collecting money to carry on the campaign in behalf of silver. At this writing, he has gathered in about $60. As he collected only $13 at Twin Bridges, Sheridan is beginning to crow.

Last week in these columns several mistakes occurred, either in the setting up of the matter or through the carelessness of yours truly. Uninvited, ro'nt, and where should have read "uninitiated," "points," and "w'ich," respectively. Readers will please charge all errors of this kind to the printer; he is used to it. Besides I retaliate by charging it to our poor penmanship.

LOST—A hair chain. I lost a chain of my sister's hair, which I have had for fifteen years, on the night of the 6th of February, 1896. The finder will greatly oblige the undersigned by turning the same at the MADISONIAN office. J. B. O'SULLIVAN.

Notice.

TO all whom it may concern, I, the undersigned, having closed up business, respectfully request all parties indebted to me on stable or saloon bills, or otherwise, to call and settle before the first of March, 1896, for on that date all accounts above enumerated and unsettled will be placed in the hands of an attorney for collection.

WHEN you contemplate giving a ball facilitate matters and add to your receipts by having printed about 100 coupon-tickets or 100 posters or a small ad in the MADISONIAN. The ad will cost you from $3 to $5 according to size and will be read by several thousand people. It through it three people are induced to attend the dance your ad is paid for. The tickets avoid endless complications. The coupons are for supper. Write us for prices. There is but one way of managing such things and that is the RIGHT way. The MADISONIAN can help you.

FROM LAURIN.

A Correspondent Who Appreciates
Madison's Resources.

LAURIN, Feb. 27.—[Special Correspondence.]—It is said that this is a day of marvellous progress and discoveries throughout the civilized world. While I believe this to be true, I further believe that discoveries have not as yet reached the zenith point. Especially do I think it true of the developments of the natural resources of our county. Old Aller Gulch, like the perennial flower, has blossomed in great beauty and in a measure faded away. The germ, however, still lives, and is now shooting forth, soon to blossom anew in valley, hill and dale. No part of the state holds out greater inducements than that of Madison county. Why cry "hard times," when her soils are unexcelled in fertility, when a man can go out in almost any little ravine and turn over the grass sod and then rock out gold in paying quantities, when the prospector can extract mineral from the innumerable quartz leads and ship so great a distance at a profit. We talk about $50, $75 and $100 rock. With proper machinery and facilities for working, $15, $20 and $25 rock will pay. There are thousands of mines that will produce an unlimited amount of this grade of rock. Why not have a railroad from the great smelting works of Gaylord to this unlimited mineral producing region?

Work on the fortune mine recently bonded by Messrs. Farnsworth and Shufeldt, from Dick Cook, is advancing nicely under the management of Mr. Shufeldt. They have just completed a large bunk house and will soon erect a shaft house, preparatory to the putting in of a hoist. This is undoubtedly a fine prospect. The people of this place wish them much success in their new enterprise.

James Powers was down from Upper Ruby, Monday.

Hon. A. J. Bennett, H. S. Gilbert and F. H. Wilcomb were appointed by the district court to appraise the estate of J. B. Laurin, deceased. The two former came down from the county seat Friday, in the interest of the estate.

The Methodist people of Taylor district are taking steps to erect a church in early summer. They are already soliciting for funds to buy material. Peter Hyndman has donated a lot in the northeast corner of his field, which is a beautiful location. It is believed that this is a wise move, and they may be assured of the well wishes of the people in their undertaking.

Wilcomb Bros. are now delivering goods in their new delivery wagon, which is a model. It was made to order by Studebaker Bros.

Peter Moran has leased the Collins ranch from Mrs. Laurin.
