-WHEELING, VA:-

MONDAY MORNING, MARCH 7, 1853.

Pittsburgh Efforts to Injure our Trade. We are somewhat surprised at looking over the columns of the Pittsburgh Journal, to find that its editor, the Mayor of Pittsburgh, has seen fit to lend himself to the efforts, to detract from the mer its of the line of travel, now afforded to the pubhe through our city, by way or the Baltimore and Ohio Rail Road and the Union Line, to Baltimore, We had supposed that the editor of that very respectable journal, (the best we think of the Pittsburgh papers,) would have found it inconsistent with the very respectable position which he holds as a member of the Whig party, and also as Mayor of so large a city as Pittsburgh, to lend himself to the contemptible efforts made to prejudice the traveling public against the Baltimore line, via. Wheeling. In this we have been mistaken, but we still have charity enough to believe that the Editor of the Journal has been deceived in the representations which have been made him about the "zig zags" to which he alludes in his letter o

Feb. 26th, on board the Keystone State. Before proceeding to notice his letters, we will make a plain statement of the facts, as we understand them, pertaining to the Baltimore and Ohio Rail Road from Wheeling. There is only one part of the road unfinished; namely the Pettibone Tunnel, which will be completed, we learn, in few days, and the hill, over that tunnel, is passed by means of the "zig zags" to which the Journal so frequently alludes. The passage over this hill is effected by means of a track in the form of a Y up which the cars are propelled by powerful en gines, occasioning a delay of about 20 minutes at that point. This is the only delay point on the road. The cars arrive in Wheeling from Baltimore in time for the Line boats down the river, and leave Wheeling daily, regularly for Baltimore at 15 minutes before 7 o'clock, A. M. The cars from Baltimore arrive generally between five and seven o'clock, P. M. This is the plain statement of facts as to the B. & O. R. R. upon which travelers can rely. In case of delay, which happens sometimes here, as elsewhere, the time may vary, but we state the time as it generally is. So much for the road and its accommodation for travel, which is always ample for all travel, and in a very short time will be suited to the utmost demands of trade. As soon as the Pettibone tunnel is completed, this road will be prepared to carry the many tons of freight now waiting in our city for an eastern transit. We come now to the letter of the Mayor of Pittsburgh. In the first place, there is but one "temporary portion" in the B. & O. R. R., and that is the tunnel before referred to, and so far from that tunnel "by its frightful and perilous aspect positively driving travel from this road," we have never met with a traveler over this line, who did not consider the passage over the tunnel as one of the most grand and interesting scenes of travel. The ascent, being over 400 feet to the mile, is effected in a manner well calculated to arrest the attention and command the admiration of all, who are willing to admire the triumphs of art over the impediments of nature, and the meth od of passing this mountain may justly be claimed as an achievement, worthy of notice, among the many achievements of the distinguished engineer of the great Baltimore improvement. As to the facts stated by the editor, of "passenger's being driven to avoid this route" we doubt not he is correct. Our paper has before alluded to the misrepresentations, used by the hireling agents of the Pittsburgh boats, to induce travelers to abandon this route and go by way of Pittsburgh, and it is not surprising that travelers, ever anxious to avoid difficulties should be deceived by such falsehoods, especially as our road and our line have no runners to even enlighten the public on these questions, as we are perfectly willing that travelers should make the experiment, via. Pittsburgh, if they see proper. As to Mr. Menager and Mr. Northrup, we have nothing to say, except that we have known some venerable old gentlemen, who would not travel on railroads at all, and others, who would be terrified to death at the bare sound of the whistle. To such we would commend a trip over the inclined planes and flat rails of the Pennsylvania Central Rail Road, and would also commend to shippers, to pass their goods through Pittsburgh in order that the commission merchants may have an opportunity of tolling their goods in their passage, especially since we perceive. (through the Journal.) that the question of allowing the C. R. R. Co. to ship through, has become so important that if decided affirmatively. "many of the Pittsburgh commission merchants will leave Pittsburgh," and we may also state that no such fetters have been placed on the hands of the Baltimore & O. R. R. Company, and that shippers may make their own terms here. We doubt not but that Mr. Northrup was not fully reported and that when he said "the road had a desperate ugly look," he meant to have added the words "to Pittsburgh." His "practical comment' was doubtless induced by the misrepresentations to which we have alluded, and he suffered himself to be deceined by Pittshurgh agents hired to mislead travelers desirous of taking this line. The editor need not have stated the propriety of the Pittsburgh boat owners drawing to themselves the trade off this line, as they seem already fully aware of the importance of such effort, and perfectly reckless of the means by which they nocomplish the end proposed, and that they spare no effort to magnify the "dangerous look," "Alpine grades" and "zig zags" which they state, exist on the Baltimore and Ohio Rail Road. We are willing for travelers to make the comparison, and if the one hill, over which our cars pass, without pulleys, by the power of art and science, is more insurmountable than the "inclined planes," and our U rail less pleasant than the "flat bar." then they should go by way of Pittsburgh. Let them try the two rou's, and judge for themselves. After making some apparently candid admissions as to the style and capacity of our boats, the editor fairly descends into the lower deck range and participates in the feelings which animate the deck hands .-He devotes about one third of his letter to the relation of the performance of "this same Thomas Swann," whose hands it seems, were entertained enter into the feelings of the Journal and must leave him to his own enjoyment or chagrin. But at this point the editor is approaching the Wheeling Bridge, and his feelings being so concentrated on the "green bottle" which is hanging over the Ohio River, and in the noses of the inhabitants of Pittsburgh, and he drops off in his tirade, after telling of the wise remarks of a lady on his boat "who would have decided the Thomas Swann to be a floating theatre &c., with a set c. drunken rowdies aboard." It not unfrequently happens that persons judge of others by the company with which they are associated, and the company of "drunken rowdies" may have suggested to this innocent young girl the idea that all steam nosts were filled like that on which she was .-"His is a pardonable error in her case, though we cannot but regret the continued manifestation on the part of the Journal, to drag private remarks into his journal, as we do not presume for a moment, that the "little lady" in question thought ed to Baltimore again in the evening. The Metrofor a moment that she was speaking for the press, politan City is completely crowded with strangers when she expressed her little sentiments, which from all parts of the country-not a room, nor have made so indellible an i pression on the Ediscarcely a plank to sleep on, is to be had in one of tor of the Journal. But we wait anxiously for the the hotels. Office-seekers are here in abundance. The countenances of each seem to not overtax his powers, either physical or mental, at the sight of the hideous "green bottle."

Tempest in a Teanot

The following which we publish from the Marietta Intelligencer, shows the Steubenville delegate in a boiling condition. Still we hope the lit tle boiler will not explode, but continue to let off steam as in the present instance. Whether "self-preservation" means the annexation of the Pan-handle "village" and all we cannot say, but we beg leave to suggest to the delegate from the great City that we Virginians are beleivers in the "Monroe doctrine," and cannot allow a "foreign power" to colonize our State. If Mr. Means can devise means He is a young looking man—not a gray hair in his to "defend" his City, not from an attack (as one head. His person is about the medium size, and would suppose, from his "defence," made by us neatly, but plainly dressed. There is a modest. upon them,) but from our repulse of their attack;we shall be happy to take the means into consideration. He does not state whether the means should be novel, great, or small. We shall anxiously await the progeny of this mountain parturition, though it may be that the old adage will have to be transposed to suit this case and mons masciter will be the fruits of the mouse's labor.

Ohio vs. Virginia

In the House of Representatives, on Saturday last,
"Mr. Means presented a letter from the President of the Steubenville and Indiana Railroad Company, in relation to the action of the Virginia General Assembly, on the subject of the right of way of the Pittsburg and Steubenville Railroad, and asked that it be referred to a select committee of five, selected from different portions of the State."

In making this motion, Mr Means stated the facts in regard to the Legislation of Virginia upon the subject. Our readers most of them understand that it is a case precisely like that by which the N. W. Virginia road was, a couple of years ago, prohibited, at the instigation of Parkersburg, from building a road that should strike the Ohio river nearer veyance. The cars and extra trains to Washingthan twelve miles to Marietta. Mr. Means concluded his remarks as follows:
"It is now quite time that we should determine whether we have not the principles and the power of self-preservation, and whether or not the State get the prominent offices in Baltimore. There is of Ohio, hitherto so liberal, so Democratic in her policy in reference to internal improvements, is to sit idly by and see a village on the Eastern shore of the Ohio, by swaying the Assembly of Virginia, injure, and as far as possible, destroy, the usefulness of an enterprise in which one-fourth of the Gov. Thomas the Post Office, and Richardson the people of the State have the porfoundest interest." Means can certainly be devised to defend ourselves from the results of such contemptable and good. Amongst the minor office-seekers there will tyrannical conduct; and I ask the appointment of mittee which will represent the great interests of this State, and to confer on this subject.

The letter was so referred, and the Committee was accordingly appointed, viz:—Messrs. Means, Lytle, Haley, Shellabarger and Huges."

Mountain Candidate vs. River Candidate. We are in receipt of the Richmond Enquirer of March 1st, containing the correspondence of Mr. C. Horton of Preston, and Messrs. G. W. Clutter, and J. T. Martin, on the Blacksville Resolution. that "indiscreet and perhaps fatal error" of Mr. Clemens. Mr. Clutter considers the resolution as referring to the candidates, and not the representatives, which therefore, concedes the next candidate to the "Mountains." Mr. C. considering the term of Judge Thompson, as the four year term of the River counties. Mr. Martin "was from the beginning opposed to the introduction of any such arbitrary rule, &c." "He called on the delegates from the mountain counties, to know whether their people intended to press their claim to the candidacy at the next regular term," before Mr. Clemens was nominated, "and being answered in the affirmative, he (M.) informed his friends that he would not become a candidate for one session only &c." He hopes the convention "will satisfactorily arrange the difficulty and then expunge the resulu'ion &c." Upon the whole we fear Mr. C's. prospects are getting darker, and his career, if not glorious, will be brief. We still think the River counties entitled to the "representative," but if Mr. C. does not hasten home, he will find more active efforts from Marion, considerably in advance

papers:
"Mr. Meagher was introduced to the audience by the Hon. John Binn s, a rebet of '93, who was im-prisoned in the Tower or London with Arthur O'-Conner, and came to this country by virtue of the amnesty. Mr. Binns is in his eighty-first year, with a fine healthy and hearty look, and an active unclouded intellect. But his love for noor Ireland is as strong to-day as it was half a century ago.
"I cannot attempt to describe the effect his introduction of Meagher produced. Taking Meagher by the hand with much emotion, with locks of snow, said: "Let an Irish rebel of 1798 introduce to this meeting an Irish rebel of 1848." The scene which followed the enumeration of this simple but powerful sentence, it is not in my power to give the aintest outline of."

The New Jersey Senate just now has under consideration a bill relative to habitual drunkards, of a very stringent character. Among other prov sions, one to appoint guardians to take charge of the property of habitual drunkards in the same way as is done in the case of lunatics. On the death of the habitual Grunkard the property is to go to his heirs-but in case he reform it will revert to his own management as before. No contracts habitual drunkards make relative to real or personal estate are to be binding after a writ to appoint guardians shall have been issued. It is also provided that no process shall issue in answer to petitions from a wife against her husband, or by a child against his or her parents. Inn-keepers are to re-ceive notice not to furnish habitual drankards with liquor, and penalties are prescribed for a violation

Baltimore Correspondence.

BALTIMORE, March 3, 1853. I was over in Washington yesterday and returnsay, in viewing a stranger-"Why friend you have come after the same office that I have: I don't know you, and don't want to. What business have you to interfere with my arrangements?" was told that there were seven applicants, all pres ent, competing for a little $600 office, almost or the outside of creation. How many more were not present, I know not. Washington is full of rumors, one of which is that Mr. Wm. Ritchie of Virginia, who took a prominent part in the nomination of Gen. Pierce. is to get the Consulship at Liverpool. Gen. Pierce came to Baltimore last night. He was in the car with myself. I then saw him for the first time .unassuming demeanor about him which tends very much to win admiration. Without being told no one would suppose him to be the President of the mighty Republic, holding the highest honors and highest office of the world. He seems desirous of avoiding show. Occasionally when a few syco phants (probably) clustered round him, he moved his quarters quietly, as if to indicate that he de sired privacy. I must say I was most favorably im pressed with his looks and deportment. Like myself he seems to luxu:ate in a good quid of tobacco. He was accompanied by Col. Caleb Cushing, and visited Baltimore, at this time, to see his wife, who was at the Eutaw House. They return to Washington to-day. The President elect appeared as though he were in deep thought and had a load of no ordinary weigh upon his mind. The Cabinet

There are about fifty-yes anear one hundred applicants for every office, of course we may look for numerous disappointments, and expect to hear loud denun-ciations. Such is the fate of war.

The law which prohibits the passing, receiving and issuing, by the banks of Maryland, of notes of a less denomination than $5, seems to be almost entirely disregarded. The actual necessity of the people of the community, seems to have given a license to their use, and persons pass and receive them the same as though there were no law prohibiturg it. Some of the banks, indeed, pay them out to their particular friends and customers as usual. Although there is a fine of five dollars for passing each note, and the informer is entitled to half the fine, yet no one has been called to account for an offence which seems almost indispensable. No one here has the slightest apprehension in receiving this currency. It always commands specia when presented at bank.

Printers.

Printers, it is said universally die at an early age. This is doubtless caused by the noxious effluvia arising from the types, the want of exercise, their work is prolonged. There is no other class of human beings, whose privileges are as few, whose labor is as continuous and whose wages are as madequate, as printers. If a "typo" be a man of family, he is debarred of the privilege of enjoying their society at all times, because his hours of labor are almost endless, and his moments of leisure so few that they must be spent in sleep to ecruit his exhausted energies, and prepare him for a renewal of his toils. Poor fellow, he knows nothing of sociability, and from necessity, is as clearly shut out from the world as a convict in a prison cell. Truly he is in the world, yet knows not of it. Toil, toil, toil, by night and day is his fate, until premature old age ends his existence.— For the advancement of science, morality, and virtue, the cords of his heart are sundered, one by one, and when his race is run and time to him is no more, he goes down to the grave uncared for, and unknown, though his existence has been sacrificed for the benefit of his race.

When we hear mechanics crying out against oppression, and demanding certain hours for labor and for rest, we cannot but reflect upon the situation of our own craft; how every moment of their lives is forced into service to earn a bare subsistence, and how uncomplaining they devote them-selves to the good of that same public who wear them as a loose garment, to be donned when con-venient, and doffed when no longer needed.

Printers are universally poor men, and for two easons: The first is-they rarely ever receive a fair compensation for their services. And the second is-that enured to continual suffering, priva tion, and toil, their purse-strings are ever untied at the bidding of charty, and the hard earned "dimes" are freely distributed for the relief of their fellow men. Thus it is that they live poor and die poor; and if a suitable reward does not await them after death, sad indeed must be the beginning, the existence and the word of the terms. Rich. Repub.

SPANISH NOBILITY .-- According to the Spanish law, daughters inherit titles of nobility, and pre-serve them not only while they retain their family name, but transmit them, in marrying, to their husbands. Thus Napoleon 3d will receive the title of obility from the head of Mile. Montijo's family. If he accepts it, it will become his duty, in terms of the law, to make a declaration of his acceptance to the chief of the Spanish nobility, who is now the Duke of Montpentsier, Son of Louis Phillippe, who attained that distinction by virtue of his marriage with the sister of Queen Issabelle .- Boston
