-WHEELING VA:-SATURDAY MORNING, DEC. 18, 1858.

WE notice in the Boston papers by yesterday's mails, a report of the lecture of Bayard Taylor before the Fraternity Association of that city. His subject was "Life in the North."-The lecture was mainly descriptive of incidents of travel in Sweden and other Northern countries, as well as the manners and customs of the different races of people in the cold, northern climates. Generally speaking, the people were healthy, robust, happy and mild mannered .-This was particularly the case among a portion of the Swedish people. The men were well formed, hale and hearty, had mild blue eyes and were upright in character, while the women were entire strangers to such a thing as a nervous constitutions. Both sexes were good without knowing it, and happy without trying too hard to appear so. In regard to the Finnish people, their general appearance differed materially from the Swedes. They relish their pipes and coffee, and seemed to have a fondness for many Oriental customs. Indeed, it would hardly seem possible that so many of the Oriental. customs could be transplanted and exist within the Arctic circle.

A FRIEND of the New York Post, who was a fellow traveller with Ullman's opera company in the steamer Connecticut, a few nights ago, in their trip to Boston, gives some amusing intelligence.-The opera company, numbering something over a hundred, kept up a prodigious jabbering on the boat-French, English, (or Ingleesh, rather,) Italian, German, and what not. Formes took two of the ballot or chorus women under his special charge, and amused them and others all night with stories and imitations of cats and dogs, and a kind of trumpet solo upon his nose. Others sang-and very finely, tooin the hold, having first obtained inspiration from various bottles of wine, brandy, &c .-Tamare's state room seemed to be the headquarters for liquor, but although many of the Italians and Germans were exhilarated, none were disorderly. The prime donne kept apart most-19, and Ghioni derived comfort from a lap-dog. On the land journey from Stonington to Boston the chorus people took possession of the best car, and filled it with tobacco smoke. It was altogether a funny company.

Few, except those who have looked into the subject specially, are aware of the extent to which the vice of fortune telling prevails in this courtry. A belief in their absurdities is a sort of disease or monomania, and it is confined chiefly to the ignorant and uneducated. Occasionally, however, there are exceptions. "Doesticks," one one of the most amusing writers of the day, now engaged on one of the New York papers, has devoted an entire volume to the history of fortune tellers in New York. He says that on visiting these sharpers he learned that every different planet known to astrology was in the ascendent at his birth; that the descriptions of the wives promised him would give full thirty-three spouses; that he was born once a year from 1820 to 1833; that he had more than twenty birth places, and that when dead it will be necessary to dissect his corpse into very small pieces in order that his earthly remains may be buried in all the places set down for him by these prophets.

A patent has recently been issued to a gentleman in New York, who, it seems, has made petticoats his studo, for an entire new skirt, of the expansive and collapsive variety, that will particularly distress the male and enrapture the female portion of the community. It is made of white horse-hair in open work, and so pliable are the hairs, through their saturation with some new material, which is also patented, a full skirt of forty hoops, with all the essentials of elasticity, fullness and strength, can be carried within a muff, occupying scarcely more space than a portmonnaie, and in an instant adjusted to the person, expanding to a diameter of six or seven feet, giving the wearer the agreeable circumference of from nineteen to twenty-one feet. A cotemporary suggests that these skirts will be adapted to ladies of the first circle.

Among the items to be found under the foreign news head, on this page, we can't help remarking the item informing us that in Prussia, "prayers had been offered in the churches for the safe delivery of the Princess Frederick William." What an affliction it would be to the cabbage raising Prussians if they should be deprived of the privilege of supporting another royal noodle, like the Prince's father was, through some obstetrical mishap. Therefore our prayers go up with those of the cabbage raisers-and in addition, may the Princess have lots of 'em in future-until the cabbage raisers are sick of the whole system.

Tun necessity for organizing Arizona into a Territory appears to be very evident. The Washington Union says the proposed Territory is admitted to be one of the most valuable of our possessions, already numbers a population of more than 10,000 souls and is attracting rapida large and good emigration. The proposition to organize the Territory is simply this: to afford protection to our people-to protect the overland mail, daily threatened-and to restore upon our Mexican frontier the prestige of the American name, sadly tarnished during the past years of neglect.

- Ar the Recorder's Court in Chicago the other day, a mad dog came rushing into the room .-The animal drove the Court, lawyers and loafers to the tables, benches and railings, when a courageous chap seized the quadruped by the tail and pulled him thereby out of the room and down the stairs, where, with the assistance of others, he dispatched him.

THE NEW HAVEN DIVORCE.

Dr. Bennett was again upon the stand on Tuesday, but nothing new or interesting was elicited. We add the following:

CROSS-EXAMINATION OF DE. BENNETT. Q. - How old were you when you were mar-ried? A.-I think I was about 28.

A .- I think I was about 28. Q.-How old was your wife? A.-I should have to take her word for it. She pretended she was 18. Q .- Where did you first become acquainted with her? A .- In Cromwell, in an old-fashioned Methodist meeting; that, I think, was the first place I saw her; but I became acquainted with her at a neighbor of my father's. Q.-What was her employment when you first became acquainted with her? A -I think she told me that she worked at the millinery business, and my sister told me she took out some work, shirts or something, from my

Q .- What employment did you furnish her before her marriage? A .- I sent her some money to learn music, but she tells me her brother robbed the letter. Q.-Were you acquainted with one Charles R. Greene before your marriage? A.—Well, it seems to me I recollect that name very well; I rather think that name was in my pamphlet. Q.-I ask you if you were acquainted with one Charles R. Greene before your marriage? A .- I saw it in my pamphlet.

Q .- Will you answer the question? A .- It was a name I was pretty well acquainted with, for I got it up myself; I don't know there was AFTERNOON.

Dr. George Bennett's cross examination re-

Q .- Did you represent yourself as the heir at law of an annual income of $500,000 per year. A .- I put that in my pamphlet; that is all I know about it.

Q.—Were you in fact a doctor? A.—I have tive course on foreign affairs, will oppose it.—been in the pills, and so cultivated myself, that The Republican Senators will let the Democrats Q .- Were you in fact a doctor? A .- I have I thought I was as good as a doctor. I've received letters that I'd made wonderful cures. Q.-Had you ever studied medicine! A .- I have looked over the books a great deal, and tried to trace out the whole science of it, and have found out a great deal. Q.-Did you represent yourself as the President of the English College of Health? A .-- I gave that title to my own office.

Q .- Were you in fact President of any such College of Health? A .- I was President of my own affairs. That is the way I wish to be understood.

Q .- Where did you contemplate going on your wedding-day? A .- First, to New York, and from there up the North River. We first went upon the steamer Connecticut, and my wife wouldn't sleep with me. Wouldn't get into the birth. Q .- You didn't say whether you did or didn't throw potatoes. Will you now say whether you did or did not. A .- It was a bad potato; I threw it off my plate with my knife just as von would Q .- What did you mean by connecting the Episcopal Church and the grogshops. A .- I meant to say the Methodist Church wasn't a set of howling fellows, tumbling down, &c., &c. Q .- Did you put out the lights when your father was there, and religious services were being performed?

MA. -Oh! no; I have no recollection of it. Q .- When your wife went up stairs with Ella, and you picked the lock, how late did you work at the lock? A .- I worked, I suppose, till 8 or

Q .- Why were you so anxious to get into the room where your wife was? A.—I wanted to as well as admirer of the exquisite and truly see her, put my arm around her neck and kiss poetic taste," &c. he made a great fuss about nothing; gave me a fearful blowing up; (narrated the story over again); I believe I was at the fire, with the poker; I was always auxious to get near my

Q .- What was the name of the young woman to whom you gave the ring? A .- Miss Julia Hall (dogmatically.) Q.-Did you tie knots in the curtains, or not.

in the front room? A .- I don't recollect anything about it. I mean to have the court understand I don't know anything about it.
I thought she acted so foolish, I wanted to tell her of it. This was when she said, "Papa will kill you." I have read her testimony; it is very strange testimony all the way through. I want ed to tell her the cause of her acting so, as a wise man should. I recollect no striking of Mrs. Q .- What was your object in interfering with your wife when she was making doughnuts?— A.—I came in the kitchen; went into front room she locked me in; I went out on front piazza; was going to jump off, but dare not. Stayed there till I got tired of it. When I got up there she seemed to do it to tantalize me,-the grand object lay there.

Q .- Did you throw flour on her once? A .once put on a little flour, to see how it looked; I just put a little flour on her dress and face, this way, (making motions to wash Judge B's. face, smiling.) I did not say I put it in her hair. My hands is in the flour sometimes. I put it in to see the quality of the flour perhaps, perhaps not. I put on a little to show her how it would look if she got it all over. In 1857, I might have said to some one that my clear income was from $10,000 to $12,000 a year; if I did I was much out of the way; I might have pulled on the truth a little when I spoke to others about my income.

Q .- Now the question is whether, under that habit, (B., interrupting-Told a lie?) you have not said your income was $10,000. A. (chuckling) I might have pulled on the truth. Miss Eliza Lewis sworn .- Resides in Auburn,

New York Q-If you called on Dr. B. and wife in New York State? A .- I called on them while living in 16th street; they were living in two rooms; know nothing of their difficulties; I learned of Mrs. B. that she lived very unhappy with the Dr.; she said she wished him dead; said she of and married. ten wished when he went out that something might happen to him, and that he'd never come back alive; she told me she frequently took money from his pockets when he didn't know it, and concealed it; Mrs. B. showed me at that time a torn dress and bonnet; it was a skirt, a blue muslin skirt, which she said Dr. had torn off

She said after some dispute they went into the cellar. They talked further about it in the the cellar and in coming up Mrs. B. said she come in advance of Dr.; said she thought she'd try the experiment of knocking his hat off, and the result was he tore her dress. He made an avowal of love which she accepted and reciprocated, and that they held a secret correspondence. Don't remember anything further on that subject in George street. Mrs. B. stated that the Dr. found Smith on the stairs. I've nothing further to state. Dr. started to take me out riding. He found he had forgotten a key and ran back for it. He didn't state to me that he found Mrs. B.

I don't know where she said she was. I don't think she told me what she did, said or felt. I supposed she was talking with Mr. Smith. thought she did speak of surprise at his coming back—it was unexpected. When we left to ride she was in her chamber. She was ill at the time. We left Smith in the drawing room not in the same floor. Smith was staying at the house at this time—I'm not positive that he spent his nights there. He spent the day there and took his meals there.

FROM WASHINGTON. [Special Dispatches to the N. Y. Tribune.]

Washington, Wednesday, Dec. 15, 1858. Lord Napier has received dispatches from the Commander of the British squadron at Nicaragua, the contents of which he has communicated to this Government. The explanation given of the visit to the Washington is said to be perfectly satisfactory to the Administration, which, indeed, is ready to clutch at any excuse to get out of the scrape it has got into by its unstatesman like management of Central American affairs, by its underhand incouragement of the filibusters, and its braggart assertion on paper of the Monroe doctrine, which it dare not and cannot practically maintain. The universal impression here among the Democrats is that the Administration has been quietly snubbed in Nicaragua by the allied Powers, and that Mr. Buchanan and his Southern masters are content to pocket the affront rather than risk a war with Great Britain, France and Spain combined. The prospect of bullying Spain into parting with Cuba is not very brilliant.

In view of the check which the Southern polcy of the Administration has just received, the Senate will allow Mr. Clingman's Clayton-Bulwer resolution to come up to-morrow. Mr. Mason, who always takes a dignified and conservafight it out among themselves.

Nathan Sargent's Convention is in session to night, at the house of Richard Wallach, brother of the editor of The Star. Among those in attendance are A. H. H. Stuart of Virginia, Mr. Fillmore's Secretary of the Interior; Mr. Conrad of Louisiana, Mr. Fillmore's Secretary of War; Messrs. Comegys and Fisher of Delaware; Jackson and Chetwood, connected with the New Jersey Railroad, and a few others whom I abstain from naming. Some Americans are there, who had better have kept away. The new party will be very select, if not numerous. Messrs. Winthrop, Corwin, Gregory, and others, who were invited, did not come.

Certain parties, experienced in mail conveyance, are maturing a proposition to transport the entire California mail, newspaper and letter, overland in twenty days, within the limits of the United States, asking no extenuation for any failure to transport within the time, nor specia protection from the War Department against the Indians; and willing to submit to any reasonable forfeiture for each trip not performed that the Post Office Department may see fit to impose. Whether this proposition will be submitted to the Postmaster General or not, depends upon certain persons, whose arrival from the South is daily expected.

Messrs. Editors :- I also, as well as your correspondent signing himself "A Sympathizer with the Poor," am an admirer of the good taste always evinced by the person who attends to your poetical selections—but I would ask both him and you if he did not commit a solecismein saying that he was "a daily reader

No, he did not. On the contrary our correspondent was quite right. If "B." will recur to first principles, he will find that read has no exclusive or grammatically essential relation to written or printed language-although it has been arbitrarily assigned that connection. We speak of reading a countenance or a motive often-and we are just as correct in so doing as when we talk of reading a letter or a paper .-EDS. INTEL.

THE Mobile Register is highly indignant at the government's action in the affair of the schooner Susan. It goes on to observe, that if the people of Mobile and of Alabama, and of Bennett at the City Hotel table. Don't recol- the whole South, can submit to this insulting invasion of their rights and liberties, then let them meekly wear the yoke which Northern aggression and rederal force have together prepared for them. "We have heard it suggested, it further remarks, that a meeting of the people be called to consider and take action upon the unparalleled outrage upon Southern 'free trade and sailors' rights.' We approve the suggestion, It is time for the people to act in earnest."

The Washington letter of the New York Herald observes that the fact that Sir William Goro Ousely was on board one of the British vessels at San Juan del Norte when the Washington was boarded by British officers, is severely commented on. He had been a long time in that city, and on intimate terms with the President and heads of government, and knew the views of the administration and of the American people. Under these circumstances the conduct of this British Minister and these officers is deemed extremely insulting and defiant.

John H. Brownson, Esq., son of the editor of the Review, was found dead at the foot of a high bluff in St. Paul's, Minnesota, on the 4th, having probably fallen from his window while in a somnambulic state. He was 85 years of age
