An Ott Acquaintance,--We met on Saturday, an ecceniric old chap that we used to head was bruised, and his ankle dislocated. Mr.

In the last eight years he has been four times to California by the Overland route-made an exploring trip up in the Superior country, rade a mule all over Mexico, lost one ear and one facts in the case seem to be considerably "mixarm, and is yet sound enough for any practical ed," the mixture consisting chiefly of Queenspurpose. By his ruddy, mottled cour mance ware, saw logs and editors; especially editors! and carbuncled probocis, we saw that he was In the meantime there is no doubt about the still a devotee of Bachus, as of old, and in an fact that Dr. Chapman's Hoarhound Balsain awer to a hint on the subject, he said he knew cures Coughs in old and young, Whooping that whisky "was a slaugherin' him," but he Cough, Hourseness, &c. He has a remarkable accomplishment -that of bawling like a jackass, which he executes with such a striking perfection that many take it to be the indulgence of a natural propensity. If he gets drunk before he leaves town, of which there is great likelihood, we hope the police will pity him for the dangers he has passed and treat him as kindly as possible. His name is Major Buffalo, and he is as wild and rantankerous as any animal of that name that ever scampered over a western prairie.

This thing of keeping the run of the weather is very prolific of items. On Saturday morning upon emerging from their respective domiciles, our citizens were greeted with a keen wind, each gust of which seemed armed with a search warrant to discover and enter any penetrable part of the human anatomy. The ground froze hard during the day. The great hills surrounding the city were whitened with a slight fall of snow and everything looked dreary and winterish enough for the season.

There was not much loitering in the streets, and Drogs, Medicines, Paints, Oils, those who were compelled to go about and face the cutting wind, muflled themselves up as completely as possible and struck a brisk trot.-Heads were drawn down into coat collars, all hands sought warm pockets, and the wearers of beards had their mouths surrounded with an icy wreath, and noses were adorned with a glitley wreath, and bases were anorhed with a gif-turing drop. The frost assumed forms of such loveliness on the window panes that an artist who would copy one of the pictures would pro-duce a daring fantasy. It was a bitter cold day.

On Saturday night, Madame Bosco, the celebrated American and European Magicienne, werved up at the Washington Hall, another of those rare magical entertainments to which she imparts so much sparkling zest. The art magique is a deception, it is true, but yet a most pleasing deception; especially when practised by after, as money we want and more we must have.

Winter Evenings .- Are they not a blessing, reader? Do they not make home twice as attractive? Is not the family group, gathered in a semi-circle around the glowing fire, chatting or working, whilst one reads the Intelligencer, a spectacle to move even the flinty heart of the pertinacious old backelor who strays into the snug home circle? That great institution, the family, is never fully developed except in those long evenings when the severe weather brings its members into close communion—when the long cold evenings eath. ing fire, chatting or working, whilst one reads the severe weather brings its members into close communion—when the long cold evenings gath-er together the various little communities, er together the values of affection, promoting mutual good offices, and performing a large share in the work of civilization. The Speaker decided that any member has the right to call for the reading.

Mr. Stephens, of Ga., trusted that Mr. Garnett would withdraw his objection. For himself he was perfectly willing that resolutions from any State should be received. It was a courtesy due to sovereign State.

The resolutions were read instructing the Senators requesting the representatives in Congress to advocate and vote for such a bill as would not only tend to increase the revenu but afford ample encouragement to the produc-tive interests of the country, more especially in coal and iron, and expressed a hearty approval of the President's recommendation of specific

Mr. McQueen, of S. C. inquired whether these things are in the Cincinnati platform.

Mr. Montgomery, of Pa, replied they are substantially.

The resolutions were ordered to be printed

The House then resumed the consideration of the bill to repay losses incurred by the citizens of Alabama and Georgia during the Creek hostilities.

The bill was, after discussion, rejected. It involved more than one third of a million dollars.

The disquietude caused by Emperor Napoleon's menacing words to the Austrian Minister, continued to effect the political and linancial continued to effect the political and financial world. The panic was cortinued on the Paris Bourse. On the 7th the Paris Moniteur published the following paragraph;

For several days public opinion has been agitated by alarming reports, which it is the duty of the gov't to put a stop to by declaring that nothing in the diplomatic relations authorize the fear which those reports tend to provoke.

This caused a slight improvement in the funds both at Paris and London, but it was only tempotary, and all the improvement was subsequently lost.

It is reported that the French Gov't has sent a very threatening note to Austria, warning her of the coasequences of Austria troops crossing the Servian frontiers.

The accounts from Italy are very alarming. Austria is sending strong reinforcements into Lombardy, where her garisons are already on a war footing. An outbreak was anticipated at Milar, it was rumored, but had not been confirmed; that city was in a state of siege, and that great agitation existed like wise at Cremo-na, Modena and Elswire. A scuffle is reported to have taken place between the Austrian and Hungarian soldiers at Cremona. Further details of the debate in the Spanish

Chamber on President Buchanan's message show that O'Donnell expressed great surprise at the proposition in regard to Cuba and de-clared that the government was disposed to lemand due satisfaction for such an insult. declared emphatically that Spain would never cede any of her territory.
