—WHEELING VA:—

THURSDAY MORNING, AUG. 25, 1859.

☞ LARGEST DAILY, TRI-WEEKLY, AND WEEKLY CIRCULATION, OF ANY PAPER IN WHEELING.

THE Harrisburg Telegraph, of yesterday, gives an incident that happened during the stay of President Buchanan at Bedford Springs.—There was sojourning there a beautiful Pennsylvania woman, remarkable for her singing powers, and who has, on all occasions, almost, been requested to entertain company in that way.—One evening, when Mr. Buchanan and his courtiers had assembled in the parlor of the hotel, a call was made for the lady in question, which she modestly, but firmly declined. The President, supposing that his influence would be all powerful with her, went to her,

Urgently insisted again that she should comply with his request, adding that the company were much disappointed at her refusal. She then turned to him, and deliberately and emphatically said: "Their disappointment was not to be compared to that experienced by the people in consequence of the acts of some of those in the highest government positions."

Now, in all due deference to the Telegraph, which applauds the refusal and the remark of the lady in question to the President, we think that it was very unlady like—not to say absolutely rude and low. No American lady ever yet had cause to offer such an insult, or rebuke, if you please, to the Chief Magistrate of her country. Such a remark would probably be patriotic and commendable in an Italian lady at a Florence ball, to an Austrian captain, or even the Emperor, but in this country it was as absurd as it was impertinent.

SOME days ago the following pointed and stinging satire on the social condition of things in and about Baltimore, was got off by an Eastern paper:

SCENE IN A NEWSPAPER OFFICE.—Foreman.—Please, Mr. Editor, send me one or two paragraphs to fill out a column.

Editor.—What shall they be? Let me see—

Foreman.—A murder, riot, rape, or anything horrible, will do.

Editor.—Here, boy, bring me a Baltimore paper. (The editor clips at random.)

The above clip, to one who has been at all familiar with the state of facts that for a good while back have existed in Baltimore, possesses a point, and conveys an impression of a practical character. It comes as near—indeed, a great deal nearer, being an abridgement of what really exists, than did the spicy epigrams of Hudibras of the characters and scenes which they are said so truthfully to picture.

We had in our telegraphic column yesterday a condensed report of a local item which had appeared in the Sun, which was but one of many that have made Baltimore rowdyism both famous and infamous all over the country.

On the steamer Georgia, running on an excursion from Baltimore to Old Point, and back, we once witnessed several scenes hardly less disgraceful than the one which we published in synopsis yesterday, and which we now subjoin in full from the Sun:

RIOT ON A CAMP-MEETING BOAT—Butchery and Outrage—Arrest of Four of the Perpetrators.—On Saturday night the steamer Express left this city for Lloyds Springs camp-meeting, on the Choptank river, with between three hundred and four hundred passengers on board. Shortly after passing Fort McHenry it became evident that there would be trouble on board, and alarm took hold of the passengers. Before reaching the Bodkin, a party of disorderly men, who rallied under the cries of Eubols, Ranters and Rip Raps, went forward and made an attack on the colored people, who occupied that part of the boat. At first they amused themselves by knocking down the males and females of the colored passengers, when application was made to the captain to take some measures to put a stop to such proceedings. Nothing was done, and after a time the disorderly disposed went down into the forward saloon, where several colored men had taken refuge. The assailants approached a man, and one of them stabbed him in four places, in the side and chest. They then blew out all the lights in the saloon, and began an indiscriminate attack on white and colored.—Mr. Jeremiah Slaughter was robbed of $28. Mr. William D. Glass was robbed of $20, and another party was robbed of a valuable gold watch and chain.

There being no prospect of any more booty in the saloon, the disorderlies again went on deck and blowing out all the lights, went to the forward part of the boat, again, among the colored people. One man and his wife were standing together near the bow, and thought they would escape observation. The man, however, was knocked down, and he was held while his pockets were rifled of all they contained. He was then stabbed several times, and his wife, who had witnessed the whole proceeding, was outraged in his presence, while she vainly cried for help. Some of the passengers again called on the officers of the boat, and the committee who had chartered her, and volunteered, if called on, to quell the riot and confine the disturbers of the peace in the hold until the boat should return to the city. The attack was continued until several colored men were severely stabbed, and a much larger number horribly beaten.—Among those that were stabbed was a man employed as a drayman by Mr. Welch, in South street, one by Messrs. Smith & Edmonson, on Cheapside, and one by Messrs. T. T. Martin & Bro., on Calvert street. Who the others were not ascertained, but it was said that one of them died from the effects of his wounds. About daylight on Sunday morning, the boat approached Cambridge, and the captain, at the request of the passengers, landed at that town.

Sheriff Vickers, of Dorchester county, was notified of the outrages that had been committed, and summoning two or three of his deputies proceeded to the wharf for the purpose of arresting the guilty parties. At first they defied his authority, but he called on some of the passengers who had witnessed the whole of the riot, and some four of the party were taken from the boat. Two of them gave their names as Skinner and Robinson, but the names of the others were not ascertained.

They were taken before Justice Robert R. Rolinson, of Cambridge, and Charles Goldsborough, Esq., the prosecuting attorney, appeared on the part of the State. The whole of them were committed to jail for trial at the approaching term of the Circuit Court for that county. The boat then proceeded to the camp meeting, where the police force was so strong that no attempt was made to create disorder on the grounds. They left again on Sunday afternoon for this city, but several of the passengers were obliged to stop in Cambridge, because their lives were threatened, and came up in the Kent yesterday afternoon. While the Express was on her way up to the city, an attack was made on the engineer, who escaped by locking himself up in his room, his assailants threatening to throw him overboard. The whole affair is represented by those who witnessed it, as having been most fearful. Females were thrown into consternation, and the rioters were appealed to for their sakes, to desist, but they paid no heed to it.

THE editor of the Utica Herald, who has visited the British House of Commons, thus describes Disraeli's personnel, in the last number of his paper:

DISRAELI'S face is not simply the most passionless, but one of the most disagreeable eyes ever looked on. It is long, sallow and billious. The eyes are deep-set, the nose is long, the lips are compressed as if in a vice. If there is any expression about his mouth it is a faint sneer. The general impression one gets is that of a man who has no faith either in GOD or man—who despises the whole world, and would like to see it burnt up. But it is when others are most hilarious that DISRAELI is most imperturably grave. It is when the House is convulsed with laughter, that his countenance assumes its most stolid expression. Never for a single moment, under provocation, by any accident, do those rigid muscles relax,—does a single gleam of mirth light up the void of that sphynx-like countenance. It is difficult to realize that the late Chancellor of the Exchequer, and the author of Tancred and the "Wondrous Tale of Alroy" are one and the same person.

SOME time ago an article from the Buffalo Republic (Douglas organ) went the rounds of the press, in which it was roundly asserted that Douglas Delegates to the Charleston Convention would be assassinated on account of their "abolitionism," unless backed by a bodyguard of ten thousand men; and the importance of taking this precaution, in said article, therefore, was strongly urged. A Milwaukie correspondent of the Charleston News, who signs himself J. J. Sanders, we now see, writes that the programme suggested by the Republic is bound to be carried out, and that the "armed forces" will be levied from the different States in the following proportions, viz.:

Wisconsin will send a delegation of five hundred of her Democratic sons to accompany the delegates of the State Convention, to be chosen next month. These five hundred are all Douglas Democrats. Minnesota sends a delegation of three hundred Douglas men. Michigan eight hundred, Iowa five hundred, Ohio one thousand, Illinois fifteen hundred, Pennsylvania one thousand, New York one thousand, and nearly all the New England States one thousand each.—This is a secret plan; and it is understood that Douglas will have at least twenty thousand friends in Charleston during the Convention.

An Extract from Benton's "Thirty Years."

Mr. Benton, in this "Thirty Year's View," says that in 1760 the imports of Charleston were $2,662,000. In 1853 they had dwindled down to $1,750,000;—a decrease of $912,000 in ninety-five years, a slow but ominous and highly significant diminution.

The census of 1850 shows the value of all the farms, farming implements and machinery in Pennsylvania to be worth $442,598,640; whilst in South Carolina the same articles were worth only $86,518,038;—a difference of $356,080,602 in favor of Pennsylvania. In other words, these items in Pennsylvania were worth five times as much as the same were worth in South Carolina.

By the same census the value of all the real and personal estate of Pennsylvania amounted to $729,144,988. In South Carolina, including 384,925 slaves, to $288,257,664;—a difference of $440,887,304 in favor of Pennsylvania. In other words, the Free State of Pennsylvania is worth nearly three times as much as the Slave State of South Carolina. The number of free inhabitants in the City of Philadelphia is 308,762; in South Carolina 283,544—showing that the City of Philadelphia, alone, contains 125,218 more free inhabitants than the whole State of South Carolina.

WE have hid away, in a quiet, sequestered spot, a man who will be the next President of the United States.—Memphis, (Tenn.) Advertiser.

Produce him, do. Take on your man to Barnum's Museum, and you, Mr. Advertiser, will make an eternal fortune. Where, oh where, is the "sequestered spot?" Is there no way of getting at it, or at him? Is he sound on the "nigger?"

A special Washington despatch says:

The friends of Messrs. Wise and Old spent some thirty-six hours in executing the forms of settlement of their bloodless battle, or about thirty hours more than Napoleon and Francis Joseph occupied in making peace after the late Italian war. It is positively stated that the correspondence will be ready for publication to-morrow. Too much consequence has been given the affair already.

THE Pike's Peakers have held a convention and adopted a constitution, which is to be submitted to popular vote. If sustained, the vote is to be considered as favorable to a State Government, and if not, to a Territorial one. The convention adopted a memorial to Congress, asking to be organized as a Territory, to be called Jefferson.

THE Louisville Journal says—We are exceedingly sorry to say that we yesterday saw a man get himself bitten by a big rattlesnake for the sake of having a quart of whisky administered to him. He wasn't killed by either the bite or the drink.

AN "Italian wife," who begged for a living at Cincinnati, recently ran away from her Italian husband of the same city. The husband declares he greatly dislikes to lose her, as she was one of the best beggars he ever saw, either in Europe or America.

THE Hon. Sherrard Clemens, of Virginia, has parted with one half of the keep-sake presented him by O. Jennings Wise in the duel between them. A portion of a detached bone in his thigh, was recently removed by a surgeon, and a portion of Wise's ball was found imbedded in it.—Louisville Journal.

THE sale of Tennyson's last poem in England, has been something enormous, indeed much beyond that of his previous publications, considering the short time that has elapsed since its publication.

DOUGLAS' HOUSE IN WASHINGTON—THE PEOPLE WHO CONGREGATE THERE.

[From a Washington letter.]

On any evening may be found at the residence, of Senator Douglas Democrats of all shades, as well as every class of fence men. On Friday evening last was quite a large gathering there of politicians, of all stripes, by special invitation. Prominent among the guests were Senator Iverson of Georgia, Mr. Browne, editor of The Constitution (the Government organ,) Mr. Coom's, editor of The Republic, and many other leading Southern and Northern party men. There was much private and confidential conversation between Mr. Douglas and the representatives of the different factions there assembled.

Mr. Douglas appeared to take all by surprise by the strong and decided opinions he expressed in the conversation. He said that the whole Slavery question was a momentous one, and must be fought, and fought now to the end, and the question whether himself or any other man was to be nominated for or elected to the Presidency, sank into insignificance in comparison with the great issue. He was very vehement in his denunciations, and ridiculed the idea entertained by many of his Democratic friends, that by the decision in the Dred Scott case Slavery existed in or went into the Territories—contending that no such decision had been made; or if made, could have no binding force; that such an idea was ridiculous in the extreme; he wondered that any were found so foolish as to harbor such a thought. He contended that Slavery could not get into the Territory except by special local enactment after a Territorial Government had been duly formed, and that Slavery did not and could not exist in the Territories until then; that all persons who go into a Territory before an act has been passed for the establishment of a Territorial Government, are interlopers and tresspassers, and have none of the rights of "citizens of the several States," and can claim no protection nor obtain redress for grievances of the general Government; and hence they can have no legal protection or claim for any slaves they may take with them.

BROADCLOTH THE ENEMY OF HEALTH.—Professor Hamilton, in an able address on hygiene to the graduates of the Buffalo Medical College, denounces broadcloth as an enemy to exercise, and therefore to health. His remarks are pointed and sensible. He says:

American gentlemen have adopted as a national costume, broadcloth—a thin, tight fitting black suit of broadcloth. To foreigners, we seem always to be in mourning, we travel in black, we write in black, and we work in black. The priest, the lawyer, the doctor, the literary man, the mechanic, and even the day laborer, choose always the same unvarying, monotonous black broadcloth; a style and material which never ought to have been adopted out of the drawing room or the pulpit; because it is a feeble and expensive fabric; because it is at the North no suitable protection against the cold, nor is it indeed any more suitable at the South. It is too thin to be warm in the winter, and too black to be cool in the summer; but especially do we object to it because the wearer is always soiling it by exposure. Young gentlemen will not play ball, or pitch quoits, or wrestle and tumble, or any other similar thing, lest their broadcloth should be offended. They will not go out into the storm, because the broadcloth will lose its lustre if rain falls upon it; they will not run because they have no confidence in the strength of the broadcloth; they dare not mount a horse, or leap a fence, because broadcloth, as everybody knows, is so faithless. See these young men, and these older men, merchants, mechanics, and all, learn to walk, talk and think soberly and carefully; they seldom venture even to laugh to the full extent of their sides.

THE ugliest and most mischevious miss we ever knew was Miss-Government.—Ex. paper.

Her sister, Miss-Management, is no beauty.—St. Louis Republican.

Miss-Demeanor surpasses them both; and while she is ugliier and naughtier than either of her sisters, she is still constantly getting courted.—Missouri Expositor.

Miss-Trust has a very delcterious influence on society; but our merchants say they cannot sell their goods without her patronage; therefore she is suffered to impose on the community.—Franklin Review.

Speaking of ugly misses, brings to our mind Miss Ann-Thropy, who, though the ugliest wench in existence, and a maid of necessity, is the mother of numberless Miss Fortunes.—Nashville paper.

Miss-Chief is uglier than the entire batch of miserable wretches, but Miss-Conception, her cousin, is partially responsible.—Cin. Com.

What a batch of Miss-Erable misses the above are.

AN ANCIENT ADVERTISEMENT.—The following advertisement was extracted from the Boston Evening Post, of November 7th, 1748:

"Choice Pennsylvania Tobacco Paper to be sold by the publishers of this paper, at the Heart and Crown—where also may be had the BULLS or Indulgencies of the present Pope Urban VIII., either by the single bull, quire or ream, at a much cheaper rate than they can be purchased of the French or Spanish priests, and yet will be warranted to be of the same advantage to the possessors."

These bulls or indulgences of the Pope were printed on one side of a small sheet; several bales of them were taken in a Spanish ship, captured by an English cruiser and sent into Boston. Fleet, the publisher of the Post, purchased a very large quantity, at a very low price, and printed various editions of ballads on the back of them. One side of the sheet was blank, and the paper very good; one bull answered for two half-sheet ballads or songs, such as "Black Eyed Susan," &c.

THE indomitable Parson Brownlow writes to the editors of the Nashville Banner, in a tone of exultation at the brilliant success achieved in the Congressional elections in Tennessee, and at the cheering gains of the Opposition on the State ticket. He thus characteristically winds up:

"Let us up and at them again! Let us fight on, fight ever! We have our quarrel just—we are on the right side—we must and will triumph. For my own part, I this day resolve anew, to begin the fight, and come what will, I will be found in the ranks of the Opposition, fighting the most corrupt and profligate party that was ever organized in Tennessee or elsewhere—that unwashed, uncircumcised and unprincipled party, falsely called the 'National Democracy.'"

A SON of Cassius M. Clay, while gunning recently, was bitten on the foot by some poisonous reptile, supposed to be a rattlesnake, and his body immediately exhibited all the symptoms of the most virulent poisoning; but he was dosed until stupefied with apple brandy, and the next morning was as well as ever. So confident was Mr. Clay of the efficacy of alcoholic spirits in all cases of poison by the bites of snakes and insects, that he did not even send for a physician. Saleratus was bound upon the bitten spot, until ammonia could be procured, when the former was moistened with it. This was upon the theory that poison is an acid, and only alkali will answer, though ammonia is thought to be the best.

A Reminiscence.

[From the Brooklyn Transcript, Wharton's paper.]

A few days since, your journal gave an interesting article, on "the beauties of the morning" written by this eloquent man. It brought to my recollection the most favorable time I ever had for viewing the man. When he was in the Cabinet, arduous labors of the mind, upon treaties then under consideration, very much wore upon him, and he looked quite feeble.—An excellent opportunity for a momentary relaxation, was offered him by the arrival of the California Steamship "Golden Gate" at Annapolis, Md., on a trial trip.

The ship had a large number of guests on board from New York, and on her return, Mr. Webster and a number of other gentlemen from Washington, took passage to New York. I arose very early, and enjoyed a most delightful morning, and after witnessing the beautiful operation of the engines, my eyes rested upon the Great Webster, quietly seated all alone, his dark eyes intently gazing at a carpenter, at work completing some portion of the ship work, to enable her to sail at once for the Pacific. A gentleman coming on deck saluted Mr. Webster, and never shall I forget that voice, as he, again gazing at the workman, remarked, "I like to see a menchanic work" "I like to see him handle his tools."

The expression of his countenance gave earnest of that pleasure. It was a relief to that great man to see any one enabled to work with his hands. It would undoubtedly have offered him more pleasure, could he for a time have exchanged places with the mechanic. Yes, his whole life was spent in connection with Henry Clay, in an endeavor to elevate the mechanics of America and to give them that share of employment which naturally belonged to them—and well and truly did he say "I like to see a mechanic work."

Thousands of the mechanics of America have a monument erected to their memories more endearing and durable than the one at Bunker-hill. Yes, thousands of hearthstones made glad by their efforts. It will be long before I shall forget the remark of a poor glass blower, when the tariff was changed and the duties than imposed gave hope of employment. Now said he I shall have a chance to work at my trade again. Think you that man did not love Daniel Webster and Harry Clay. T."

You are overrun with a deluge of the vilest compounds in the form of "Alcoholic Drinks" that ever emanated from that pest of society, the LIQUOR MIXER. They are sold to you as a luxury, or they are dispensed to you as a Medicine, and in either case the effect is the same.

There is but one way to escape, and that is to use, as a luxury or a medicament, a safe and reliable stimulant, sold under stamp and seal, which renders it certain that it has not been tampered with. Such an article is which is distilled under inspection of the British Government, is delicately flavored (unlike any other Gin) with some of the most valuable rectoratives of the Vegetable Kingdom, and is by far the most healthy beverage extant.

THE MOST EMINENT PHYSICIANS OF EUROPE AND AMERICA not only recommend its use by the hale and hearty, but prescribe it as a medicine where a stimulant is required.

THE FEMALE SEX will find it not only a pleasant Cordial, but a certain relief in sufferings of a periodical character.
