—WHEELING VA.— THURSDAY MORNING, OCT. 20, 1859.

LARGEST DAILY, TRI-WEEKLY, AND WEEKLY CIRCULATION OF ANY PAPER IN WHEELING.

Our exchanges coming to hand throughout yesterday, from all points North, East, South and West, to which the news of the Harper's Ferry riots had spread, appear to be all at sea what to think of the matter. Most of them content themselves with a simple calling attention to the news in their telegraphic columns, confessing themselves utterly unable to afford any further explanations than those gathered from the excited despatches. Some of them, however, have theories to advance in connection with the news. Some suppose that it originated in a grudge against the railroad (which we think altogether out of the question), others, that it was a disaffection among the government employes; others again, that it was a regularly built and planned scheme of Brown & Co.'s for a servile insurrection. No two opinions agree. All seemed to be excited like the rest of the people, when they write, and to have written helter-skelter.

Time and its attending patient military and civil investigations, are what are wanted, and until these are had and published, all speculation is but idle. There is no doubt more in the matter than has yet come to light. In the meantime, it is good enough news to know that whatever may have been the cause of the diabolical outbreak, it has been effectually suppressed and most of its originators and abettors either have already, or will soon experience the avenging consequences of their insane and wicked scheme.

P. S.—Since writing the above we have news which seems to throw a great deal more light on the origin and intention of this remarkable insurrection. By referring to the despatches on this page, it will be seen that important disclosures and papers have been obtained, all of which go to show that the movement was a regularly planned "infernal machine," intended to explode with a disastrous and wide spread effect. It has not been confined to the deluded and desperate Brown, and his immediate confederates, alone, but has received the cognizance, aid and friendship of other miscreants at a distance.

Our brethren of the Times are better "for a larf" than ever Jeems Yellowplush was, and "Jeems" was said to be "the boy for a larf." For instance, on Tuesday afternoon they took a proxyism of enterprise, and about two hours after our extra was out, fell to work and went through the form of also getting one out.— This was right of course, for its never too late, &c., the proverb says, you know. But what amused us about the thing was, not that our enterprising brethren appropriated our private despatches, nor yet that they altered their verbiage, so that we could barely recognize them, but that they made the following original addendum, which we shall forward to Punch by the next steamer to have illustrated. The said addendum was this: Our private despatches closed with saying:

"No trains on the Baltimore road will reach Wheeling before to-morrow morning." The Times' (our) private dispatch closed with saying: "No trains on the Baltimore route need be expected here until to-morrow morning."

And then added (notice it particularly): STILL LATER.—Trains may be expected to-night at two o'clock. The question is, how much sooner does a train get in that comes at two o'clock in the night, than one that gets in about that time in the morning?

AUSTRIAN KELLY, the defeated prize-fighter, was visited at his barroom in N. Y., the night after the fight, by upwards of 2000 people. There were sarcastic allusions to the "big-soldier," &c., which Kelly met by intimating that he was paid to lose the fight with Price. This is doubted by musclemen of New York.— Wilkes's Spirit of the Times reproaches Kelly severely for not having made at least an effort to save his backers' money. Mr. Dad Cunningham, an individual whose temper is not mild, threatens "to wipe out" the Australian as he did the lamented Paudeen, whom he shot dead a short time since.

A Doctor in St. Louis was awakened the other night by noises down stairs. With his loaded revolver he quietly descended, and a light from a pantry revealed the shadows of two men against the wall. Presently the ruffians emerged, one carrying a very long butcher knife, and the other the light. With great coolness the Doctor blazed away. The burglars "doused the gien," and in the darkness made their escape.

The New York Commercial says that an old-fashioned English clock, out of repair, belonging to the estate of a deceased gentleman named Benham, was lately purchased for $10 from a tradesman, who bought it at auction for 50 cents. In making repairs upon the back of the clock, the last purchaser discovered a roll of English bank notes of the value of about $8000.

The N. Y. Journal of Commerce says "the merchants of New York city are at last getting alarmed by the encroachments made and making upon the harbor. Several heavily loaded vessels have actually grounded off Castle Garden, in water which was formerly considered deep enough to float the largest ships of our commercial navy."

Lux Rensselaer (Ind.) Gazette, Jasper county, says it has seen a stalk of corn with seven good ears and a nubbin on it.

THE HARPER'S FERRY RIOT. FURTHER PARTICULARS.

[From our Extra of yesterday.] HARPER'S FERRY.—Several slaves were found in the room with the insurrectionists, but it is not believed they were there willingly; indeed Brown's expectations as to the slaves rushing to him were entirely disappointed, none seem to have come to him willingly, and in most cases were forced to desert their masters. But one instance in which the slaves made a public appearance with arms in their hands, is related of a negro who had been sharply used by one of the town people, when he found that he had a pike in his hand he used his brief authority to arrest the citizen and have him taken to the armory. The citizens imprisoned by the insurrectionists all testify to their lenient treatment; they were neither tied nor insulted. Beyond the outrage of restricting their liberty, were not ill used. Capt. Brown was always courteous to them, and all times assured them that they should not be injured. He explained his purposes to them, and whilst he had the workmen in confinement, made an abolition speech to them.

During the previous night he spoke freely of Col. Washington, and referred to his son. He said he had lost one in Kansas, and two here. He had not pressed them to join him in the expedition, but did not regret their loss, they had died in a glorious cause. The prisoners, taken at the engine house, during the firing on Monday, and at the moment of the final attack, was a very trying one—without any of the incentives of combat, they had to risk the balls of their friends; but happily they all escaped. During Tuesday morning, one of Col. Washington's negroes came in and reported that Capt. Cook was in the mountains, only 3 miles off. The independent Greys of Baltimore immediately started on a scouting expedition and in two hours returned with two wagons loaded with arms and ammunition found at Captain Brown's house. The arms consisted of boxes filled with Sharp's Rifles, pistols, &c., bearing the stamp of the Massachusetts manufacturing Co., Chicopee, Mass. There were found a quantity of cartridges, a large number of spears, Sharp's iron bowie knives, fixed upon poles, a terrible looking weapon, intended for the use of the negroes, with spades, pickaxes and shovels, and everything that might be needed; thus proving that the expedition was well provided for; that a large party of men were expected to be armed, and that abundant means had been provided to meet all expenses. How all these supplies were got up to this farm without attracting observation, is strange. They are supposed to have been brought through Pennsylvania. The Greys pursued Cook so far that they secured part of his arms; but with his more perfect knowledge of localities, he was enabled to evade them.

On their arrival at the Ferry with their spoils they were greeted with hearty cheers. The wagons were driven into the custody of the government. As everybody else helped themselves why should not the Greys have a claim to the spoils? The insurrectionists did not attempt to rob the Paymaster's Department at the Armory. A large amount of money was there, but it was not disturbed. A short time after Capt. Brown was caught, he revolved and talked earnestly to those about him, defending his course and avowing he had only done what was right. He replied to the questions put to him, substantially as follows: Are you Capt. Brown of Kansas? I am sometimes called so. Are you Ossawatimie Brown? I tried to do my duty there. What was your present object? To free the slaves from bondage. Were any other persons but those with you now connected with the movement? No. Did you expect aid from the North? No. There was no one connected with the movement but those who came with me. Did you expect to kill people in order to carry your point? I did not wish to do so but you forced us to do it. Various questions of this kind were put to Capt. Brown which he answered clearly and freely and seemed anxious to vindicate himself. He urged that he had the town at his mercy—that he could have burnt and murdered the inhabitants but did not.

He had treated the prisoners with courtesy, and complained that he was hunted down like a beast. He spoke of the killing of his son, which he alleged was done whilst bearing a flag of truce, and seemed anxious for the safety of his wounded son. His conversation bore the impress of a conviction that whatever he has done to free the slaves was right, and that the warfare in which he was engaged he was entitled to be treated with all respect as a prisoner of war.

It seemed fully convinced that he was badly treated, and had a right to complain, although thought a dying man. On examination his wounds have proved to be not necessarily fatal. He expressed a desire to live and to be tried by his country. In his pockets were nearly $300 in gold and several important papers found in his possession were taken in charge by Col. Lee and on behalf of the Government.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—The President and Secretary of War were together several hours yesterday, on matters connected with the proceedings at Harper's Ferry, the result of which conference was the sending of the U. S. District Attorney, Ould, hither to superintend the legal proceedings in the premises. The excitement which existed last night at Washington and the vicinity, had subsided, and the extraordinary force relieved.

It is said that the affair at Harper's Ferry is the first case of the kind which has ever occurred in this country, involving at the same time, both State and Federal jurisdiction. While the State is affected as to slavery and locality, the general Government is interested with regard to the public property at having exclusive control over the Arsenal grounds independently of the State; also with regard to the mails. Already in distinguished quarters the question of jurisdiction is discussed, as Gov. Wise will it is said claim the prisoners now held by the U. S. troops to be dealt with according to the laws of Virginia. In this case the question of jurisdiction will have to be determined by Judiciary.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 19.—The following important intelligence from Harper's Ferry has just been received: Last evening a detachment of the marines, accompanied by some of the volunteers, made a visit to Capt. Brown's house. The first visit was to the school house, and not Brown's residence, as supposed yesterday.— They found a large quantity of blankets, books, shoes, cloth tents, 1500 pikes with large blades affixed, and also discovered documents throwing much light on the affair. Among them are the printed constitution and bye laws of the organization, showing and indicating a ramification throughout the various States of the Union.— They also found letters from individuals at the North; one from Fred Douglas containing ten dollars from a lady for the cause; also a letter from Gerrit Smith, about money matters, and a check or draft by him for $100 endorsed by the Cashier of a New York Bank, whose name is not recollected. All these documents are in the possession of Gov. Wise. The Governor has issued a proclamation offering $1,000 reward for the capture of Cook. A large number of armed men are now scouring the mountains in pursuit of him.

The following is the anonymous letter received by Gov. Floyd, of which mention has been made: CINCINNATI, August 20th, 1859.—Sir—I have lately received information of a movement of so great importance that I feel it to be my duty to impart it to you without delay. I have discovered the existence of a select association having for its object the liberation of the slaves at the South by a general insurrection. The leader of the movement is old John Brown, late of Kansas. He has been in Canada during the winter, drilling the negroes there, and they are truly waiting his word to start for the South to assist the slaves. They have one of their leading men, a white man in an armory in Maryland. Where it is situated I have not been able to learn. As soon as everything is ready, those of their number who are in the Northern States and Canada, are to come in small companies to their rendezvous which is in the mountains in Virginia. They will pass down through Pennsylvania and Maryland, and enter Virginia at Harper's Ferry. Brown left the North about three or four weeks ago, and will arm the negroes and strike the blow in a few weeks, so that whatever is done must be done at once. They have a large quantity of arms at their rendezvous, and are probably distributing themselves. As I am not fully in their confidence this is all the information I can give you. I dare not sign my name to this, but trust that you will not disregard the warning on that account.

BALTIMORE.—Sometime during yesterday evening the telegraph line repairer, whilst repairing the line between Harper's Ferry and Martinsburg, was shot at by Capt. Cook himself, whom he recognised.

BERCHER ON MIRACLES.

A man writes to him asking how the Sun and Moon stood still, and how a child could be born of a virgin.

[Extract from a sermon reported in the N. Y. Independent.] Now the Bible is not a book which a man is to reverence as if it were a god; as if it were anything but the voice of one crying in the wilderness, to lead men to Christ; as if it were anything but a highway cast up, along which men are to walk toward the celestial city; as if it were anything but a book to tell us how to act, and what to be. The Bible is your guide book. Take it; read it; go where it directs you to go; see for yourself what it describes. When the Bible tells you what a man is, what he should be, and what he needs in order to be changed, go to the substance of the thing spoken of. The truth of the Word of God is to be found outside of the Bible, not inside of it. If it declares that all men are sinners, look up and out! There are the men before you. Look at them! Is it true that they are selfish, proud, worldly? If it declares that there is such a thing as the grace of God, you are to vindicate that statement by putting yourself in the position in which that grace can take effect, and see if it be real. You must open your heart to the touch of the Divine power, if you would know whether there is a power, shed abroad on the human soul. Bible truth is in your own heart, not in the dead letter. The proof of the declarations of the Bible are to be found by the actual experiences of daily life. It's by your life and disposition that you are to find out whether the Bible is true or not, in so far as it speaks of man. And when a man says, "I believe in religion when I see it exemplified in true Christians; but when I see religion as it is in the Bible, I do not believe in it," he states what is true of every other man as well as himself. Neither do I believe in religion as it is in the letter; nor do you; nor does anybody. A man might as well say to me, "When I hear birds singing, I think their music is exquisitely beautiful; but when I go and look at the eggs in the nest, I do not hear anything delightful in the music there." No, of course not—especially if the eggs have been hatched, and the birds have flown away, and nothing is left but the shells!

It is written, "Come see the place where the Lord lay;" and many men come here (to the Bible) to see where Christ lay, but they will not look up to see the living Christ right before them. There is no longer any dead Christ. He is the living Christ to you, or he is nothing. If you would know whether the Bible be true in its practical teachings, you must do by it as you do by a chart. A chart is nothing but a piece of paper, anyhow; and what good does it do for half a dozen captains to sit down on the shore and discuss its merits? How can they know whether its descriptions are correct or not? Let them take it on board and prove it by sailing by it. That is a true chart which is found true on trial. If there is rock where it says "rock;" if there is shoal where it says "shoal;" if there is current where it says "current;" if it is safe where it says "safe," then it is a true chart, no matter who made it, or how, or when, or where it was made. It is the sea that is the best commentator on a chart, and human life is the test of the Bible.

Take God's word, in which human life is all chartered down, and measure character and conduct, and all the changes possible in the human soul, by it; measure God's grace, promised and realized, by its measure your whole earthly being by it, and see if it is not true! Would you know the truth of Christianity? Become a Christian! "If any man will do my will," says Christ, "he shall know of the doctrine which I teach." I do not, however, shrink from the minutest investigation of sacred writ; and if a man asks me, "Do you suppose the sun and moon ever stood still?" I reply, that I suppose there was a phenomenon which is appropriately described in those words. I believe unquestionably that there was, at the time referred to, an appearance like that of the standing still of the sun and moon. What was the cause of that appearance I neither know nor care to know. Whether the earth stood still, or whether some other optical effect was produced, is a matter of no moment. It is enough that there was an effect produced which answered to these representations, and which served the purposes of God with the armies of Israel. Nature is always described in the Bible from its appearance. Not from the scientific, but from the poetic and pictorial standpoint, is everything described.

If a man asks, "Do you suppose that a virgin can be a mother?" my reply is: The New Testament tells us that the Saviour was conceived of the Holy Ghost and born of a woman. The event was so far removed from the ordinary processes of natural law, that I have no difficulty in believing that it occurred as it is described by the power of God. Shall I believe that He who ordained, from the beginning of the world, that we should spring into life from the life and body of another, could not control that wonderful arrangement, so that his Son should be born of a woman? The marvel to me is, that men are ever born of man and woman at all; that God ordained such a gate from the other life into this.

I can never enough wonder at that profound and sacred mystery where two lives, quickened and united by the rapture of unspcakable love, flash forth the spark of another being. It seems to me, in view of this perpetuated marvel of the beginnings of human life, a very little thing to suppose that God could make a special use of those powers. And when the myriad wombs that, since the dawn of time, have issued the human race have received the power to do it from the living remembrance and inspiration of God's mind, shall I stagger to believe that in a single instance he could control that organization to his own divine beneficent purposes?—May not He who created the very door of human life push aside the ordinary janitor, and with his own hands, unlatch its portals, and let his Son come through? May not the everlasting Father cry out from his throne, "Lift up your heads, ye gates, and let the King of Glory through?" There is no trouble here to any man, unless he wants trouble, and then there is nothing on the earth out of which he cannot make it. When a man believes that God has made the world, the human body, and everything else in nature, I, for one, do not understand how he can have any difficulty in believing in miracles. I see no difficulty at all in believing that God can, if he chooses, stretch forth his hand, and use a law, or stop it, and interject some effect.

There is an anecdote current to the effect that a gentleman, very zealous in a philanthropic cause, waited upon a very distinguished Boston orator and requested him to preside at a public meeting. The orator excused himself from the duty for very good and urgent reasons; but the applicant, who is a Spiritualist, still pressed his request, saying he had received a communication from Mr. Webster desiring the gentleman he was addressing to preside. Upon this the gentleman replied that a very long and ardent friendship had existed between himself and Mr. Webster, and he could not consent to receive any communication from him through a third party. The message, to be regarded, must be direct.

Nobody will regret to learn that John A. Washington has lost all the money he received from the Mount Vernon estate, by speculating in Chicago lots. He invested the payments made by the ladies in lands in that city, which have proved to be unproductive.

A Troy, N. Y., "Fancy," has made a wager of one thousand dollars against eight hundred that should a second fight take place between Heenan and Morrissey, the former would be whipped in less than thirty five minutes.

To be De-Drugged and Poisoned Citizens of Wheeling and Vicinity.

You are overrun with a deluge of the vilest compounds in the form of "Alcoholic Drinks" that ever emanated from that pest of society, the LIQUOR MIXER. They are sold to you as a luxury, or they are dispensed to you as a Medicine, and in either case the effect is the same. There is but one way to escape, and that is to use, as a luxury or a medication, a safe and reliable stimulant, sold under stamp and seal, which renders it certain that it has not been tampered with. Such an article is Charles' London Cordial Gin.

which is distilled under inspection of the British Government, is a delicately flavored (unlike any other Gin) with some of the most valuable restoratives of the Vegetable Kingdom, and is by far the most healthy beverage extant. The above excellent particulars of FERRON and AMERICA not only recommend its use by the hale and hearty, but prescribe it as a medicine where a stimulant is required. THE FEMALE SEX will find it not only a pleasant Cordial, but a certain relief in sufferings of a periodical character.
