Hart-Meyers Nuptial Announcement

"Wedding bells, oh, those wedding bells, Don't you hear them ringing loud and clear?"

The home of Mrs. Lulu Eicholtz on Locust street was the scene of a very elaborate function last Wednesday evening, when the hostess announced the coming nuptials of Miss Roberta Meyers to Mr. Wilson Hart, of this city.

Miss Meyers who has been living at the home of Mrs. Eicholtz was unaware of the preparations and was pleasantly surprised, and was given a number of very useful and exquisite presents. The hostess served a five-course dinner in her usual splendid manner, having the dinner room and the table decorated in red, with rambler roses and ferns as floral setting. A lumber of kewpie dolls in sizes from small to large were arranged around a highly colored band box in the center of the dining table, from which box extended in every direction bands of red ribbon. A kewpie held before the prospective bride a photograph of the groom-to-be. The ribbon bands led to the presents concealed for the guests of honor and some very laughable and good sayings were attached to the pieces. A real live kewpie, in the person of little Miss Virginia Eicholtz, who was "decorated" most like the famous doll, assisted in the presentations.

While Miss Meyers who has been living at Dexter for a number of months, and has endeared herself to the people, she is a resident of Ste. Genevieve, Mo., and will leave very shortly for her respective home.—The Dexter Statesman.

MISS VIVIAN GATY,
adv Co. Supt. of Schools.

The 6th annual reunion of the alumni association of the Ste. Genevieve High School was held Saturday evening May 15th. It was the crowning event of commencement week and was very successfully carried out. A short program including vocal and reading numbers was rendered in the early part of the evening, after which the alumni and their guests danced until the small hours. The event was one, looked forward to by all of those who still have a warm spot for the Alma Mater, and who welcome an opportunity to meet their old friends of school days. Virtually all of the alumni members were present even those now residing elsewhere, and it was a pleasure to meet the same faces we spotted with ink years ago, and to shake the hands, that wrote us notes when the teachers back was turned. The reunion was a grand event, marred only by the official joy-killer C. U. Later, who arrived at one a. m. Those who attended from away were: Misses Katherine Huck, Lillian Weiler, Laura Koetting, Marie Ziegler, Reta Wilder, Gertrude Steigle and Dorothy Barry of the Teachers Training School of Cape Girardeau, Valle Ernst, Eugene and Harold Godfrey and Harry Ebert of St. Louis and Hugh Heberlie of Minnith. Occasionally wipe the windows with clean paper, tissue paper is best, but newspaper may be used, and so keep the dust and dirt from accumulating and minimize the number of real window washings necessary. You will be surprised at the amount of dirt that the paper collects from the window panes, at the ease with which you can thus clean them, and at the result, clear, shining windows.

AS TO INFANT AUTHORSHIP

Many Who Afterward Achieved Greatness May Properly Be Classed as Youthful Prodigies.

Pope, who "lisped in numbers," had the moral courage to burn all his childish and boyish verses, including the epic, "Alexander." He took no chance of posthumous publication, says the Youth's Companion.

When little Tom Macaulay was seven years old he wrote a "Compendium of Universal History," beginning with the creation, and when he was eight a heroic poem on "Olaf the Great." It was natural that his mother should have cherished those proofs of early talent and have shown them occasionally to friends; but, as his nephew, Mr. Trevelyan, neatly observes, "If the affection of one generation has preserved them intact the piety of another generation refrains from submitting them to the public."

A distinguished book collector has had printed for his own pleasure and for the pleasure of his friends the "History of Moses," composed by Robert Louis Stevenson when he was six years old and dictated to his mother. The tiny volume is embellished with a facsimile of Mrs. Stevenson's manuscript and with a delightful illustration in water colors from the hand of the little prodigy. It represents the Israelites hilariously leaving Egypt. They smoke long pipes and carry umbrellas and bundles. One of them pauses long enough to beat a protesting Egyptian over the head. The narrative is both comprehensive and concise. It won a prize from a generous uncle in 1856, and it is today as good an example of infant authorship as we are likely to read.

HONOR PAID ST. MICHAEL

In England Especially Is His Day Observed for Prescribed Ceremonials and Feasting.

There are fragmentary customs bound up with Michaelmas which have to do with birds and winged things, for no particular reason that anybody knows. Perhaps it is a chance that it is so. But everywhere in England where Michaelmas is kept a goose is sacrificed for dinner on that day, and for years and years in Lincolnshire and Yorkshire a handful of the farmer's each sort of grain was scattered in the court or farmyard for the birds, so that luck would come to that homestead. Queen Elizabeth was eating, you may remember, her Michaelmas goose when the defeat of the Spanish armada was announced to her. Perhaps Michael's wings were hovering over the sea that day of the defeat and that those sizzling geese all over England were a sacrifice not made in vain. And perhaps, after all, these customs of cooking geese and throwing grain to birds are only just because Michaelmas comes in the harvest time. But it is nice to think that everything with wings is in some way akin to this special saint.—San Francisco Argonaut.

Flowers That Bring Bad Luck.

In England Devonshire folk hold that it means death to bring into the house a single daffodil, when this flower first appears in the spring. There must be a bunch of them, and the cowslip is similarly hedged in by superstition. A hydrangea in the house "brings trouble," and snowdrops are "unlucky," while wild flowers generally prevent the first brood of chickens from hatching. If one wishes a plant indoors to show a large and profuse bloom he must place in the flowerpot some fresh earth from the grave of an infant baptized within twelve months. No yellow bloom should be brought into the house in May. The house with bergamot near it is never free from sickness. A plant of heliotrope in church will keep in their places any untrue wives in the congregation.

Chautauqua or Circus.

The manager was strolling about the big Chautauqua tent, which had just been set up in a small Missouri town, and the boys were laying the plank seats, when the whir of engines was heard, and two automobiles appeared, racing furiously toward the Chautauqua grounds. They stopped side by side in the dust and smoke of heavily set brakes, and the drivers leaped from their seats and ran at top speed toward the astonished Chautauqua manager.

"I'm a butcher!" gasped the first.
"I'm a butcher!" cried the second.
Then both together they shouted, "I want the contract to furnish meat for the animals!"—Youth's Companion.

All Ready for Him.

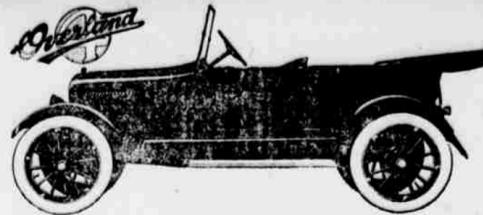

At a political meeting held in a provincial town in England a crowded audience had assembled to support a parliamentary candidate.

During the speech of the candidate a man put his head in at the door and shouted in a stentorian voice, "Can anyone here sell me six pennyworth of sense?"

The speaker halted, evidently quite dumfounded; but the chairman of the meeting immediately silenced the intruder by retorting, "Yes, but you have nothing to put it in."—Youth's Companion.

Matter of Touch.

"Go away from me!" said the fashionably dressed woman to the tramp. "I wouldn't have you touch me for a dollar." "I was only going to touch you for a nickel, lady," came the reply.

The Automobile that cost less to operate, rides easier over rough roads, and is fully equipped at the factory with all modern equipment.
