No. 121

A Pair of Cottages—By John Henry Newson.

"HOME OF CHARACTER"

In this design for a pair of cottages, with a rather interesting and symmetrical treatment of the exterior, red brick is used for the exterior, except in the large twin gable ends, which are of frame, covered with wide lap siding. The roof is covered with black slate. Each porch is entirely separated from the other by the body of the house. The exterior combination of red brick, white siding and white window frames with black slate, is exceedingly pleasing.

This plan (61x27 feet) is built on a very shallow lot with plenty of length, and in each house the living room has light on three sides, while the dining rooms are amply lighted from the front. The kitchen is well arranged and has convenient access to the second floor or to the basement.

The front door is accessible from the kitchen through the center hall in each cottage.

For the Benefit of News-Times Readers

The News-Times has arranged with Mr. John Henry Newson to answer any inquiries concerning No. 121 or any other "Home of Character" shown on this page from week to week.

Address your inquiry, giving the number of the particular home you have in mind, to John Henry Newson, "Homes of Character" Department, The News-Times.

Bedrooms and bathrooms are large, and ample closet space is provided. The linen closet is in the second floor hall. Basement is built under the entire house, and is entered from the grade landings at the rear. No attic.

Can be built for from $4,500 to $6,000, depending on building conditions, material used in finishing, etc.
