How to Take Care of Your Eyes in Summer. BY MADAME MILLEFEURS.

"Blast my eyes," used to be the expletive of the "old salt" in all the stories of the sea.

The modern woman does not say "blast my eyes," but she helps in the blinding of her eyesight every day of her life.

The woman who motors should always wear a veil and for long rides a pair of motor eyeglasses should be added. Yes, know a veil is more or less hot and oftentimes a nuisance, but isn't it better to practice a little common sense and keep one's complexion passable and one's eyes intact? I do not think there is anything about the human body that suffers more complete neglect than the eyes and there is no organ from which we ask more.

The eyes should be washed as religiously as the teeth and you cannot wash your eyes by rubbing them with a soapy cloth any more than you can cleanse your teeth by washing your lips and face.

Get an eye cup. Put it on the shelf with your tooth brush and every morning when you take your bath wash out your eyes with a 20 percent solution of boric acid.

This can be made by putting a level teaspoonful of boric acid in a half pint of hot water and letting it stand until the acid crystals are dissolved. After this is cooled pour a tablespoonful of the liquid into the eye cup, apply it to your shut eye, throw your head back and open your eye so that the water reaches the ball. Turn this water out and fill again for the other eye. You will be surprised how this will straighten and brighten your eyes. If you are troubled with inflamed lids this will cure them, unless it is some very serious trouble.

round the right hip to come up to the waist and making at back a basque. At the right side, under the under tunic falls another draped point. The under skirt of Vanilla charmeuse is plain and round.

AFTERNOON GOWN OF CHIFFON

Afternoon gown of Vanilla chiffon embroidered with large flowers of the same color over a white foundation.

The kimono bodice, with long and full sleeves, edged at the wrist by a velvet piping, is opened in V in front to the waist and shows a crossed white net yoke, the edge of which is trimmed with a narrow white net shawl finished round by a white net frill.

The waist is girdled by a band of "frichsia" velvet ribbon, making a twisted bow on the middle front, enhanced by a jewelry ornament.

The higher part of the skirt is of plain chiffon, embroidered, making with a high band, of "Vanilla" charmeuse a long tunic draped in front, making a point on the left side, turns

RIVAL SUITORS SEEK TO WED ESTHER CLEVELAND

Two Princeton Students Seek Hand of "White House Baby."

BALTIMORE, Mr., July 29.—A race for the hand of Miss Esther Cleveland, the "white house baby," is holding the attention of Baltimore society. Herman Stump, son of Judge and Mrs. H. Arthur Stump, and H. Gordon Ewing, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. J. Ewing, are the rivals. Both are members of the senior class at Princeton, where Miss Cleveland has made her home, and are close friends.

Ewing's friends Tuesday declared he had a slight lead over his rival, for although both young men have been guests at Miss Cleveland's home, Ewing is still there. They have no way of knowing, however.

Miss Cleveland is the second daughter of the late Pres. Grover Cleveland. Each of the suitors for her hand is about 21 years old.

DR. THOMSON'S EYE TALKS

Out of Focus.

Do not wear glasses that are not straight upon your case. Crooked frames do as much injury as poor lenses. If you look through the center of one glass and through the top of the other, your eyes will be out of focus. There is a constant strain which will cause injury in time. You might better not wear glasses at all than to wear them in that way. Frames that are too wide or too narrow will be just as bad. If they are too far from the eyes they are too strong. To get the best results from lenses the frame must be just right. In fitting glasses I am particular to give you the "just right" kind. I take the measurements of your face just as your tailor takes your measurements for a coat. I see that the lenses are in exactly the right position. I will not sell you a poorly fitted frame at any price.

TAKE OFF FLESH IN SUMMER TIME

Plump Folks Suffer Most in Hot Weather—Ways to Reduce Burden.

Those who are overburdened with superfluous flesh suffer most in the summer, and now is just about as good a time as any to reduce this useless weight. Physicians have long discussed the question as to why we really take on flesh, but they have arrived at no definite conclusions.

In many cases, those who do the most eating and drinking the richest and best of foods are the slender and angular ones, while she who partakes of her food sparingly must suffer with many extra pounds of flesh. This flesh does not always mean health, in some instances quite the reverse, and it surely is a burden and worry during the very warm weather.

In some cases weight is inherited, and probably thirty percent of the women who have too much flesh can account for their trouble in this manner. Instances of this kind have been traced back for several generations, and yet there is no reason why one should be made to suffer.

Exercises Will Reduce. Even if the physicians have reached no conclusion as to what causes too much flesh, they are unanimous in declaring that exercises are the best for reduction. But they also assert that the exercises must be kept up for a considerable length of time, in fact never really ignored after they have once been taken up. It is well to moderate the eating, regulate the sleeping hours and adopt the best means of exercising.

In most instances the predisposition to grow unduly fleshy is not apparent until between the ages of thirty and forty years, and it would not then if the same activity was continued as in former years and the same exercises were indulged in. Of course, in most homes the duties and cares are such that they do not allow these, but there is no reason why some sort of exercise should not be taken especially when they usually mean so much.

Diet Not Necessary. It is not absolutely necessary to take up a system of dieting. This is for those who have been eating improperly. Usually one can eat in moderation anything that the appetite craves, providing that they are in the best of health. Otherwise they must restrict their diet according to their physician's orders and the demands of their physical conditions.

At certain ages in a woman's life, fat on the face makes her appear much older than she really is. Dieting and exercising will, of course, relieve this condition to a certain extent, but to hasten the reduction, the fat should be removed, practically an easy operation.

Secure two small sad irons, like those played with by children, and provide a basin of hot water. Place one of the irons in the hot water until it has become as warm as the face can stand it. Then put the other iron in the water and begin ironing the muscles of the face upward, those of the forehead downward and the double chin from the point of the chin back to the ear. By having an iron warm all the time, the operation can continue without interruption, and it will surely be found beneficial. And the irons will smooth out wrinkles on either a fat or slender face.

Apply Healing Lotion. A healing lotion should be applied after the ironing is completed, and under no condition should be treated with a large iron, as it is too heavy and its size prevents getting it into the little corners where the small one does the best work.

Where there is a tendency to grow fleshy, or in case flesh is an inheritance, one should partake sparingly of fatty foods, as well as those containing sugars, starchy food and white bread. Many authorities bring up the claim that white bread made from the flour of our domestic mills, is one of the causes of too much flesh. While whole wheat and corn bread are excellent substitutes, claim these same authorities, and they say that the former is far better than all the modern products. In a very few cases of superfluous flesh it is necessary to diet, but when this is ordered, it should be rigidly adhered to. And the exercises should never be forgotten.
