

CUTTER HELD IN GRIP OF ICE PACK

Captain Bollinger of Bear Reports Harrowing Tale of Experience While on Annual Northern Cruise.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—The revenue cutter Bear, moored to an iceberg and wedged in by heavy floes of Arctic ice drifting in a swirling current towards the north pole, narrowly escaped destruction on her annual cruise from Nome to Point Barrow, Alaska, America's most northerly settlement in the frigid zone.

In a report to Secy. McAdoo, made public Sunday, Capt. Bollinger, commanding the Bear, recounts harrowing experiences of his vessel, unmanageable in the vice-like grip of the ice pack and trusting to favorable winds to reach a point of safety. In the grasp of the ice the ship drifted helplessly with the current for a whole night and day at the rate of five or six knots an hour.

"No apparent damage was done to the vessel in the pack," reported Capt. Bollinger, "but she encountered tremendous swirls of the current and narrowly escaped destruction against the ground ice four or five miles north of Point Barrow. She was entirely unmanageable and her situation for a short time seemed extremely critical. She finally drifted broadside through between two heavily grounded bergs with but a few feet to spare at either end and was worked around into clear water and anchored to the eastward of the point."

This was the Bear's annual cruise on a mission of justice and mercy, enforcing the law, and punishing offenders through the United States commissioner and marshal aboard and dispensing medical aid and assistance to the sick and needy. At Point Hope, the Bear found a native with a broken leg which was necessary to amputate. Surgeons sawed off the limb and the ship's carpenter made the injured man a wooden leg.

LONGFELLOW AND MARK TWAIN LIKED IN JAPAN

TOKIO, Sept. 22.—Steadily increasing interest is manifested by the Japanese in western art and literature. Most of Shakespeare's works have now been translated into Japanese by Prof. Yuzo Tsubouchi of Waseda university, and have been staged in leading theaters of Tokio and other cities throughout the country. Recently the imperial theater of Tokio had crowded night with "Julius Caesar."

Longfellow and Mark Twain are as familiar to the Japanese as Shakespeare and Milton. Goethe's "Faust" has been translated into Japanese on instructions from the government and it has been put on the boards at leading houses in the empire.

At present "The Lady With the Camellias" is having a vogue in moving picture halls in Tokio, and the wonderful acting of Mme. Sarah Bernhardt is very much appreciated by the Japanese. Of this French novel by A. Dumas, Japan possesses a full translation.

French art is a household term in Japan. Prints and reproductions of the great masterpieces of France, both classic and modern, are on sale in the "Latin quarter" of Tokio. A section of Japanese artists has recently become much affected by the continental "post-impressionism." Rodin's sculptures are greatly admired here, and the famous French sculptor has been asked to send over some of his works to be exhibited in Tokio.

Some Russian authors, such as Count Tolstoy, Maxim Gorky, Ivan Turgeneff and others also are appreciated by Japanese readers.

Professor Massahara Anesaki of the Imperial university, who goes to Harvard university this autumn as the first Japanese lecturer to Cambridge, represents the highest and finest type of Japanese scholar.

Dr. Anesaki is fully cognizant of the role he will play in selling American students of Japanese civilization, and he intends to do his part in bringing the west and the east closer together—the great fundamental question enveloped recently by the California land bill.

The professor, in a conversation a few days ago, voiced his conviction in

EARLY TO BED BEST SECRET OF LONG LIFE

John B. Lyons Quit Smoking Long Ago and Expects to Live Years to Come.

ALTON, Ill., Sept. 22.—John B. Lyons of Marissa, Ill., who is 99 years old, attributes his long life to the fact that he stopped smoking and chewing 40 years ago and always has gone to bed at 9 o'clock.

Being a strict observer of the Sabbath he celebrated his birthday Monday. Hundreds of persons accepted his invitation to call. He met them all and shook hands with them. The invitation was written by Lyons in a firm and even hand, which 99 years had not been able to make tremble, and sent it to the Searchlight-Messenger for publication. It said:

"Announcement.—In honor of the ninety-ninth anniversary of my birth which occurs on Sabbath, the 14th, I am pleased to say that in commemoration of same I will hold a reception at my home, Saturday, Sept. 13, and cordially invite as many of my friends and acquaintances as can conveniently do so to call upon me. Hours from 2 to 6 p. m. Respectfully, John B. Lyons."

Lyons' only habit is the 9-o'clock-to-bed habit. When the clock strikes 9 he goes to bed. If he has company, they may retire or his housekeeper as they please, but he goes to bed and to sleep. He has always risen early, but has not attempted to beat the sun up. He is wealthy and a philanthropist. Advances in land values contributed to his wealth.

Lyons was born in South Carolina in 1814. He was 23 years old when Van Buren became president. He has lived in the vicinity of Marissa since he was 19 years old, and has had an intimate personal acquaintance of 80 years of Illinois history.

Of his six children he has survived all but one. The one is M. K. Lyons, a druggist at Marissa.

Marissa's patriarch presents the appearance of a much younger man. He stands almost erect and walks with ease, but slowly. His sight is good in viewing distant objects but he can no longer see to read. Wherefore it is the weekly duty of his housekeeper to read to him the Marissa paper, and read it thoroughly—"patent insoles" page ads and all.

NEARLY MILLION BAD EGGS FOUND IN K. C.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 22.—Nearly a million dozen eggs totally unfit for food are lying in storage in Kansas City, all of them are of the same sort as 100,000 dozen recently examined, according to F. H. Fricke of St. Louis, state food and drug inspector, who has been making an investigation.

Mr. Fricke says he will soon begin proceedings against commission men who he declares can be prosecuted for the sale of the eggs under the Missouri pure food law.

Mr. Fricke, in a state, said that a ton of storage eggs are being sold daily to bakers, confectioners and other manufacturers of food products here. Under his supervision a force of men have been examining the stored eggs. Nearly a million eggs have been candled, he said, and of these 90 per cent were found bad.

"Big bakers and confectioners obtain their egg supplies from the commission houses. And some of the houses, in filling the orders, haven't attempted to furnish pure eggs," said Mr. Fricke.

"When a commission man puts his eggs in storage he candled them, and by this process sorts out all but the fresh eggs. The fresh eggs he sells to the better class of grocers. The others, spots and rots, he sells to cheap grocers, bakers, confectioners and to anyone who will buy them."

"I have no evidence that any combination or trust exists in the traffic here, but they're all friends—these men in the rotten-egg business. If one rises short he buys from his neighbor."

Commission men explain the situation by saying that because of the heat this has been an exceptionally hard summer on eggs.

Mr. Fricke says he has evidence to convict upward of 100 dealers.

the unity of mankind which he declared to be especially essential in these days, when every nation must pass from isolation into the great sphere of international relations.

Mercury Takes Sudden Drop And Out Come Overcoats

Winter overcoats, sweaters and fur gloves loomed into prominence for the first time Saturday night and all day Sunday. The dingy discarded straw hat which was kicked into the ash can on the 15th has now been replaced by the fur cap.

The introduction to fall weather was sudden and unannounced, the thermometer falling without warning. Whether to throw away "knee lengths" and don the longer and heavy kind is the perplexing question that faces the average man now.

Condition reached a climax Sunday night when the weather man predicted the first visit of Jack Frost before Monday morning, disregarding the fact that the sky was cloudy. To top off the entire affair a report came from Washington that we would have frosts and warmer weather during the week. By the middle of the week, according to this report, we will again be enjoying balmy summer.

Sunday the mercury dropped to the lowest average of the season when the silvery thread ranged between the 46 and 43 degree marks. The lowest of any day this season was on Friday when it averaged 61.

Continual rains and equally weather, according to the weather man, is keeping the frosts from capturing the farmers' produce this fall, and it is certain, he says, that the hoary fellow would have stepped into the limelight had not the cloudy heavens intervened.

DEDICATE TRINITY M. E. TABERNACLE

Dedication services were held for the new tabernacle at the Trinity M. E. church Sunday morning. The "Red Books" featured as the song service hymnal and the pastor, Rev. Blaine E. Kirkpatrick, officiated in the service. He used "The Duties of Privilege" as his subject and pointed out that every member was privileged to attend the services at the church and to take part in the worship in the new tabernacle. He said that when one is privileged to do a thing or had a right to do it it was his duty to do it.

As it was the first service in the new tabernacle the meeting was largely attended in spite of the stormy day. In the evening the services were again held in the tabernacle, and the pastor talked, using "My Prayer," as a subject.

UNVEIL MONUMENTS TO DEPARTED WOODMEN

As a memorial to the deceased members of Harmony camp, No. 78, of the Woodman lodge, a fitting tribute was made Sunday by the unveiling of three monuments. One was placed in the city and two in Riverview cemetery. E. H. Dean, commander of the camp, had charge of the ceremonies at both places. The party left Dr. E. G. Freyermuth's office on S. Michigan st. at 10 o'clock in the morning, going to the city cemetery and to Riverview afterward.
