JAMES K. HACKETT.
Thursday and Friday Daniel Frohman presents James K. Hackett in a five-reel production of Anthony Hope's story, "The Prisoner of Zenda". This magnificent production was recently shown at the American theater to capacity houses for four days and those who did not have opportunity to see it then will undoubtedly welcome the return engagement.

"CHINESE STORY."
"The Heart of the Heathen"—Powers. Edwin August here gives a convincing characterization of a Chinaman in a two-reel offering. The white man befriends him when his laundry burns, by saving his sacred horn from the flames. Wood becomes his faithful slave and later saves the daughter of the woman he loves from the Chinese Tong. The story moves along quietly until toward the last and holds the interest nicely. At Surprise theater today with a good Thanhouser comedy, "An Unromantic Maiden".

"OFFICER 666."
"Officer 666" does not succeed in capturing the picture thief in the play of that name, but his efforts to do so carry him through three of the funniest acts that have ever been devised by an American playwright, and over so many laughing bundles that this particular sleuth is voted the finest blue coat that ever swung a night stick.

"Officer 666" is a big play hit and it will be presented at the Oliver on Saturday matinee and night.

"THE COMMON LAW."
"The Common Law", a dramatization of the book of that name by Robert W. Chambers, will be brought to the Oliver Friday evening. The story of the play is well known from the popularity of the book.

Louis Neville, the artist, is a man of high quality. He wants to marry the girl and tells her many times that he cares nothing for the fables of society, and he means it. He wants her and declares she is better than the vacuous maids of the higher society to which he is born, but she is obstinate in her refusal, and persuades him to the belief that the simple mumping of a clerkman has nothing to do with the sacredness of marriage when two people are wholly in love. She contends that marriage is an obstacle to true love and he finally comes to her way of thinking, but only for a time. When he has fought for the girl and suffered for her and embittered his feelings trying to live up to her false ideas, she slowly begins to see where she is wrong and at length they are married and their troubles ended.

AT THE ORPHEUM.
The bill of advanced vaudeville scheduled to open at the Orpheum this afternoon, contains a number of acts of recognized ability and two of which have head-lined at some of the most important vaudeville theaters in the country. Lydell, Conley and Lydell are one of the features. They present a novel offering in black face under the title of "Darktown Oddities."

Another feature that will please is the ventriloquist offering of the Great Howard, who hails from bonny Scotland and gives his original conception of the humorous incidents of a day at the dentist.

The Rossdell singers, billed as vaudeville's classiest trio, have a varied program of vocal selections. Their wardrobe is excellent and their songs all bright, catchy and appropriate.

Ross and Sherman, rathskeller entertainers, have a lively act patterned along the lines that the big city after-theater diners enjoy. That means plenty of speed and an ability to put over popular songs in an original manner.

The bill will close with Charles Larlos' dog and pony circus full of novelties and showing the little dumb actors in a number of interesting tricks.

THE EDISON TALKING PICTURES.
The kinetophone, or talking pictures, will be seen here for the second time at the Oliver all next week.

Just as wonderful as was his invention of the original moving picture, is the latest discovery of the great wizard Edison. It is predicted for the kinetophone that real flesh and blood actors, on many stages in the various theaters throughout the country, may be a thing of the past. To judge from the little gasps of astonishment and the chorus of "Isn't that something wonderful," that one hears on all sides, wherever the pictures are exhibited, the kinetophone may be called an immense success.

MAN WHO ELOPED WITH HEIRESS DEAD
Samuel Clarkson Was Son of English Brewer and Squandered Inheritance.

LONDON, Sept. 25.—Samuel Clarkson, whose elopement with Helen Maloney, daughter of Martin Maloney of Philadelphia, Pa., a millionaire, created a big sensation in Oct., 1906, died Wednesday, according to an announcement printed in the Evening News.

Miss Maloney was reported missing from her father's country estate at Spring Lake, N. J., in Oct., 1906, and later turned up in England. The case was complicated by an announcement of Arthur H. Osborne, a young Princeton graduate, that he had been secretly married to Miss Maloney shortly before that date during an automobile "joy ride."

Clarkson was the son of an English brewer and inherited $200,000 which he soon squandered. He and Miss Maloney separated after the Maloney family had journeyed to England to have the elopement wedding recognized by the Roman Catholic church.

SEVERAL CHANGES ARE MADE AT HIGH SCHOOL

Regular Routine is Expected to be Begun Friday—Gym Classes to Begin.

With entanglements and difficulties in the program of studies being gradually worked out, affairs at the high school are slowly assuming the routine. By Friday it is expected that every difficulty will have been adjusted and recitations can begin in earnest.

Several changes were necessary in the program owing to the crowded conditions of some of the classes, and part of the students in these classes will be shifted to some other.

Gymnasium work will be taken up Thursday and from then on will take its place on the regular program. Gymnasium classes are an innovation in the school and it is expected that they will be largely attended. Privileges of the swimming pool are also attached to "gym" work and this will also attract the students.

The enrollment list was augmented Wednesday by the names of about 25 or 30 new students, many of them from out of town.
