

GRAYCE SCOTT, WHO OPENS IN "THE MAN FROM HOME" THIS WEEK AT THE AUDITORIUM

Theatres

AT THE ORPHEUM.

A bill of good standard vaudeville acts is offered at the Orpheum this week and the variety is sufficient to please everybody.

The show opened with Charles Ledegar, with a German comedian's make up and dialect, on the bounding wire. The wire happens to be rope but that is probably one of the jokes. He talks continuously and somewhat more than necessary but keeps the audience interested and amused with this apparently awkward slips and falls and concludes with a few difficult tricks that win for him applause.

We are getting so used to seeing a piano rolled out when letter "C" goes up at the Orpheum that some day they will vary the program and the audience will rise up in indignation. While there is necessarily more or less sameness about these acts they are usually pleasing and the singing and piano act of Weston and Leon is no exception. The latter is a stunning looking girl and in one number "The Entertainer's Rage" demonstrates her ability with the ivory keys. Her partner puts considerable personality in her work, sings German and Italian songs with good expression and when the girls leave the stage the audience is clamoring for more.

Devin and Ellwood have a neat little comedy sketch in "The Girl from Yonkers" based on the idea of a female crook who steals everything she can get her hands on while in the guise of an innocent country maid. The action is fast, both show the proper conception of their respective characters and there are lots of humorous lines and situations.

Patsy Doyle is a man, even if the program does bill him as a "Droll Comedienne" and doesn't look a bit feminine. Patsy has a lot of them, and some original songs that he puts over in an inimitable way. If you like his style you'll like his act and most everybody present Sunday seemed to. The Kelsos boys close the show with an "Australian" club-juggling, hoop-rolling act that is neatly done but not startling. The eccentric member of the duo evokes a good many giggles with his stereotyped fooling and many in the audience laugh because he does.

scened to his home. Here she is soon disillusioned, but the Oriental servant Nagon, prevents her escaping.

Dr. Kalschian in the park observes a beautiful woman walking with her husband, William Armstrong. Contriving a ruse whereby he can scrape up acquaintance, he brushes rudely into the couple, and in profuse apology, tenders his card. When the Armstrongs return home, they find one of their children ill, and their regular physician being out on a call, they think of their chance acquaintance with Dr. Kalschian, who is summoned. The witty doctor loses no time to enmesh Mrs. Armstrong and before he leaves he has reduced her to a state of seivility by the exercise of his hypnotic talents. He compels her to follow him immediately from the house. She attempts to write a letter to her husband, stating that she is going against her will, and just has time to blot it, when the hypnotist tears it up, and forces her to inscribe another, stating that she is leaving voluntarily and that he will never see her again.

CHILDREN SEE PLAY.

One hundred children from the Orphans' home will be entertained on Tuesday afternoon at the Oliver theater to see the Edison talking pictures. The Edison talking pictures will be seen at the Oliver all this week, opening with a matinee today at 2:30 and two complete performances will be given each day, lasting two hours or possibly a little longer. It is said that in witnessing a performance of these truly marvelous pictures, one almost forgets that it is only a picture speaking.

"THE INVADERS"—AMERICAN

The American theater has secured a headline attraction for today when the two-part Kalem feature photoplay, "The Invaders" will be presented with Caryle Blackwell in the leading part. This spectacular motion picture is an adaptation of John Lloyd's famous novel dealing with one of the most sensational incidents in the history of the west, "The Rustler War," which was fought in "The Hole-in-the-Wall" country, Wyoming. At that time the large cattle interests became hostile toward the homesteaders whom they held responsible for the many cattle stealing outrages. The Kelsos boys close the show with an "Australian" club-juggling, hoop-rolling act that is neatly done but not startling. The eccentric member of the duo evokes a good many giggles with his stereotyped fooling and many in the audience laugh because he does.

"THE MAN FROM HOME."

The best production given thus far by the Grayce Scott players at the Auditorium is the presentation of "The Man From Home," well known play. "The Man From Home." Perhaps it is because it is an Indiana play with plenty of homey humor and hard done so far, and Miss Knott is particularly makes us like it, but there is something that wins the interest and attention right from the start and holds it until the final curtain.

William Hodge played this piece until he had repeated the lines so often he couldn't remember them and everybody and his brother has seen it at least once, but it's the sort of a play that will stand repetition and as for those who have been so unfortunate as to have missed it, well, there is only one thing to do—go.
