ALLEY IMPROVEMENTS ARE WELL UNDERWAY

Roof Will Be Placed on New Addition Within 10 Days if Weather Holds Out—May Organize Bowling League.

If fair weather will develop for the next ten days, it is all probability the six new additional bowling alleys to the Elmsworth bowling hall will be completed by the first of the year. The contractor on the job has been pushing work as fast as possible and says that if the roof can be placed on the new addition by the first of the year, the new part will be ready to be used. Workmen have been busy the past two days tearing away partitions in the old part of the building to make the new bowling hall on the second floor an exact duplicate of the hall in the basement. Several rooms on the second floor have been opened to make way for the alleys. The north half in the front of the building will be used as an office by Mr. Edinger, while the south half will be used for lounging rooms and meeting purposes. This room will be installed with furniture, rugs and draperies. Directly in the rear of the alleys a large room with lockers will be built.

After the roof has been placed over the new addition the 11-inch foundations, which is an extra requirement in placing alleys above the ground, will be installed. The foundations of the new addition and to deaden the sound of rolling balls and falling pins.

BARNHART RAPS SENATE AS GRAND STAND PLAYERS

Sees No Cause For Talk That Congressmen Must Remain in Washington For Legislation Not Ready.

Special to News-Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—"I'm going home and renew my acquaintance with my family and friends and have a little surcease from humdrum official life in Washington before the next long session commences in December," said Cong. H. A. Barnhart, as he was leaving the capitol Tuesday for his home at Rochester, Ind.

"The legislation asked of the house in the special session by the president has been completed months ago, but the senate management has dilly-dallied along through the spring, summer and fall trying to pass two bills.

"Such delay, occasioned by precedents that ought to be relegated to the junk heap, can in no way be attributed to the house of representatives, which did its work with promptness and evident satisfaction to the president and the country.

"If there be congressmen who think it possible to fool their people with the grand-stand bunk that they are anxious to be kept in Washington waiting on the senate when there is absolutely no legislation ready for the house to take up before the regular session, they may do so but I am going to join the majority of our delegation and mingle with my home people and try to ascertain home district sentiment and come back in December refreshed and re-inforced for effective work by up-to-date opinion of those whom I represent.

Says Its Hypocrisy.
"I personally know that this is the president's idea of consistency. It may be statesmanship to pose as holier-than-thou pretenders in matters of cheap economy and rampant cravering to work where there is nothing to be done, but politicians who practice this deception are usually found out by an intelligent and discriminating public.

"So me for good old Indiana, where I can be among my constituents for a month and find out what they want and deserve, and if senate skirt procedure and house political buncombe want to stay in Washington to let the cold November winds blow requirements to their do-nothing days, why let 'er blow!"

ELKHART, Ind., Oct. 23.—The evidence with which the prosecution expects to convict Mrs. Jennie May Eaton of the murder of her husband, Rear Admiral Joseph G. Eaton, was practically concluded Wednesday when the government rested its case.

As some witnesses desired by the defense will not be ready in the morning, court adjourned until tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock when the defense will begin to say.

Attorneys for Mrs. May Eaton, on trial for the murder of her husband, Rear Admiral Jos. G. Eaton, brought out a striking point Wednesday in their closing address.

Witness State Detective John H. Scott, a witness for the prosecution, they forced him to admit that, although he had made a thorough search of Boston, he had failed to discover any place where a purchase of poison by Mrs. Eaton had been recorded.

On direct examination Scott gave the first testimony that had been heard in reference to Mrs. Eaton's own story of the illness and death of her husband.

Detective Scott said the accused widow had told him the admiral, then on his death bed, and a few hours before the end came, had entreated her with this plea:

"Oh, send for a doctor. Oh, I am so sick.

The state detective testified further that Mrs. Eaton told him she had sent for a physician after she had awakened and found the admiral dead, his arm clasped about her shoulder and her arms embracing him.

Witnessed On Him Alone.

Detective Scott said Mrs. Eaton had declared:

"Nobody gave him anything but myse. Dorothy did not give him anything nor did my brother. I gave him the first dose of medicine left by the doctor in hot water. He threw it up. I gave him another dose later in water not quite so hot. He threw that up. Then I took some milk, he could not stand that. The next dose with water I mixed a small pinch of soda. He did not leave his bed from Thursday, he was too weak."

"I asked her where she got the box which contained the soda she gave the admiral. She answered that she got it from the shelf in the pantry and pointed out the box, she said she gave him a pinch of soda, she indicated on the end of a case knife how much soda she gave him.

"I am sure from which box I took the soda," she said. "He threw it up as soon as taken. The doctor gave him a dose of soda about noon and I gave him one about 3 o'clock."

Mysterious Note Appears.
A mysterious typewritten note again figured in the trial Wednesday. Detective Scott declared this note was "Mrs. Eaton's will bequeathing all her property to her daughter June."

Detective Scott testified this paper was in a typewriter in the Eaton home at Assinippi March 11, the third day after the admiral died. He could not tell whether it bore a date.

Chief Justice Aiken ordered the statement of Scott stricken out.

Scott said Mrs. Eaton told him that "admiral was the kind of a man that would come to her with neckties in one hand and poison in the other."

Scott said the widow accused her husband of smoking opium in a pipe. He said Mrs. Eaton had said to him when he told her he was beginning an inquiry into her husband's death:

"I don't see the need of anything of this kind. The doctors have already said that the admiral died a natural death."

Scott testified that on the day before the admiral's funeral Mrs. Scott became so excited that she almost pushed the coffin over twice. Scott said Mrs. Eaton told him she had searched the admiral's deathbed for traces of poison but in vain and she wanted to hire some "Sherlock Holmes or a noted detective."

COST NOT QUITE ONE CENT TO SEND SINGLE PARCEL

The average cost to deliver each of the 7,755 packages received in the parcels post at the South Bend office during the first half of October was nine-tenths of a cent. These figures have been compiled as the result of a count of all parcels entering and leaving the local office from Oct. 1 to 15.

The count was made at the request of the department at Washington and on the figures obtained throughout the country the department will base its rearrangement of zones and postage charges.

An excess of receipts over expenditures at the local office in a ratio of nearly seven to one is an outstanding feature of the local report. It is believed that this is due to the fact that the postage received on parcels dispatched was $14,614.64. The total cost in carrier's time and increased clerk hire will not exceed $239 for the period. The parcels dispatched weighed over 11 tons, 23,299 pounds, the average weight being one and one-half pounds. There were 15,379 packages, however, which weighed less than one pound.

Of the parcels received 5,471 were delivered by the regular carriers and the remainder in the following manner: By auto, 239; by horse drawn vehicles, 1,014; by express, 1,014; in business district, 831. The average postage paid on parcels dispatched was seven cents.

It is notable that more than half of the parcels dispatched were sent distances of 600 to 1,000 miles. There were but 70 local packages. Should the reports from other cities show the bulk of the business in the fourth and fifth zones the postage will probably be reduced in the reorganization of the zone system.

Here are the numbers of packages dispatched to the respective zones: First zone, 50 miles, 2,892; second zone, 150 miles; 3,098; third zone, 300 miles; 5,238; fourth zone, 600 miles; 5,730; fifth zone, 1,000 miles; 1,382; sixth zone, 1,400 miles; 263; seventh zone, 1,800 miles; 419; eighth zone, over 1,800 miles.

PLANS UNDER WAY TO HELP DEDICATE LINCOLN HIGHWAY

South Bend Among Two Thousand Cities to Participate in Nation-wide Celebration on Night of Oct. 31.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—"I'm glad to take part in the country wide dedication celebrations of the Lincoln Highway to be held on the night of Friday, Oct. 31. From New York to San Francisco, in more than 2,000 cities, towns and villages, the selection of the great trans-continental thoroughfare will be dedicated to the emancipator—Abraham Lincoln.

Interest in the highway in South Bend increased with the reorganization of the Northern Indiana Highway association in a complete merger with the Lincoln association. A committee has been appointed to determine the part if any, South Bend shall take in the celebration.

Cities on the route will naturally have the greatest part in these celebrations, but there will be many programs carried out at other points where good roads enthusiasts gather. The Lincoln Highway is to be placed on the map for all time with bonfires, speeches, parades, meetings, red firecrackers, fireworks and every form of outdoor and indoor jubilation fetes, New York, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Canton, Mansfield, Gallon, Wooster, South Bend, Fort Wayne, Joliet, De Kalb, Clinton, Omaha, Denver, Cheyenne, Salt Lake City, Rawlins, Reno, Fallon, Sacramento, Oakland, San Francisco, these and hundreds of other points have all perfected arrangements. The programs will be in charge either of the Lincoln Highway association, local societies or of the boards of trade, automobile clubs or other social and business organizations.

Subscriptions Come In.
Reports made by the national headquarters show that the sale of contributor's certificates is rapidly growing. The Lincoln Highway is to be built by popular subscription, no aid being asked of congress in its financing. Every class of citizenship is responding and from many other parts besides those on or contiguous to the highway.

The organization of local associations for the improvement of highways and the enforcement of road laws will be a feature of the reorganized Lincoln Highway association of northern Indiana.

An association will be formed in each of the cities affiliated with the organization and after the completion of these local bodies the central organization will be completed by the election of officers.

The governing body of the organization will be a board of directors, one director to be chosen from each of the various local associations. Of the dues 25 percent will go to the support of the state organization. Five standing committees were also provided for as follows: Finance, new roads, maintenance, road marking, laws and ordinances.

MRS. MILLER WONT BE CANDIDATE FOR FEDERATION HEAD

Mrs. Clark Fairbanks and Dr. Baumgartner Only Nominees of Club Women at Indianapolis.

BY MARGARET TOBIN.

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 23.—Mrs. W. E. Miller is not going to be a candidate for the presidency of the State Federation of Women's clubs.

So she continues to assert, but her chances for selection as leader would consent to run, appeared stronger than any other candidate among the delegates who were gathered for the convention Tuesday.

The list of eligibles had decreased to two at three o'clock. Mrs. Albion Fellows Bacon of Evansville declines to be a candidate. So does Mrs. U. O. Cox of Terre Haute. Mrs. Bacon says she is not strong enough to be president, and Mrs. Cox is going abroad.

Mrs. Clark Fairbanks of Ft. Wayne has let it be known that she is "willin'", and Mrs. Helen M. Baumgartner of Rockport, chairman of the First district, is spoken of as a candidate.

Will Be Nominated.
It will probably be between one of the two if Mrs. Miller persists in refusing to be president. Mrs. Miller's name will go before the convention Wednesday morning when nominations are called, her friends say.

Delegates from Hammond and from other northern towns have come to the convention instructed to support Mrs. Miller, and they were wandering disconsolately about the Claypool hotel Tuesday wondering whom
