

MISS MAIRE O'NEILL, IRISH ACTRESS, MAKING HER AMERICAN DEBUT IN "GENERAL JOHN REGAN."

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—Seems as if it would be a fine thing for the stage if more preachers would write plays.

Maybe not—maybe only once in a cycle of preachers is there one who would write such a play as "General John Regan." It is the work of Rev. Jas. Owen Hannay, who has written fiction under the pen name of Geo. A. Birmingham. It was the biggest success of the London theatrical season of 1912-13, and the Liebbers have brought it to the Hudson theater.

Into the little Irish village of Ballymoy comes an American tourist with a taste for jokes. The place is sleepy, and he decides to stir it up. He inquires for the statue of General John Regan, that famous patriot and soldier, who was born in Ballymoy, and later became "the immortal founder of the liberties of the Republic of Bolivia."

There is no statue, because there never was any General John Regan. But there is a clever village doctor who sees a fine opportunity to bring renown and currency to Ballymoy. The doctor knows quite well that the American is "kidding." But he doesn't say so. He enlists the landlord of the village inn, the editor of the local paper, the parish priest, and a country squire. They invent a birthplace for the general, they discover a surviving grandniece in the person of the landlord's slatternly servant girl.

The villagers subscribe a few pounds toward a statue. The American subscribes 100 pounds. They buy a second-hand effigy of some singular-looking being from the landlord's nephew, a tombstone dealer, for 50 pounds, which lets them out of their subscriptions and leaves them 20 pounds profit. The lord lieutenant of Ireland is invited to the unveiling, with other notables. The occasion

Wednesday 68 people including the High School band, left on a special car at 1 o'clock for Mentone, Indiana, to attend the evangelistic service being held by Rev. George T. Stephens in that place. At Warsaw they were met by Evangelist "Bob" Jones of Alabama, who is holding revival services in that city and taken to the tabernacle, where a short service was held. When they reached Mentone, the Stephens party were at the car to meet them and gave them a royal welcome. Most of our party carried their lunches and hot coffee was served at the tabernacle. Alvin Willis gave a trombone solo at the evening service. The return car reached home about 2 o'clock in the morning, containing tired but happy people.

Thomas McNally and family visited friends in South Bend Thursday. Miss Alice Richardson has returned from a two weeks' visit with friends in South Bend.

Rev. Mr. Maynard of Three Oaks and Mrs. N. A. McCune of Benton Harbor have been assisting Rev. H. A. Carr in the revival service at Hinchman this week.

The pastors of the four local churches received a letter from Rev. George T. Stephens, who recently conducted a very successful religious campaign in this place, enclosing a check for $100.00 each. The revival finance committee has reported a balance of $44.25 on hand which has been divided among the four churches.

Michigan News In Brief.

SAGINAW.—There are 90 men after 15 jobs in this city. Petitions for mayor, the four commissioners and the ten places as supervisors who will become vacant soon, have been filed by 90 applicants. Five candidates are running for mayor.

KALAMAZOO.—Gov. Ferris has directed Atty. Gen. G. Fellows to appoint Atty. Fred C. Nichols of Lansing, an assistant attorney general to appear for the state in the Michigan Bugby Co. probe being made by the special state grand jury.

KALAMAZOO.—John Holland was among the crowd that watched the military parade at the dedication of the armistice and after it was finished he walked to the jail, told the sheriff he was a deserter from the regular army and wanted to go back and take his medicine.

ESCANABA.—John Terry of Water-villet, 22 years old, who has been missing in the woods near Northland since Sunday, is believed to have been shot either with his own gun or by some hunter.

BATTLE CREEK.—The whipping post is being seriously advocated here for the solution of the wife-deserted problem.

OWOSSO.—Bert Jenkins, who was burned at the power house several months ago, when struck by lightning, is still in serious condition. Three attempts to graft skin on his injured arm have failed.

Indiana News In Brief.

BLOOMFIELD.—Joseph P. Wright, 60, after addressing a note to his wife requesting that she pay all his debts and saying that he had decided to die with their daughter who died several days ago, committed suicide by drinking acid. He was a successful gravel road contractor.

TIPTON.—George Off, of Liberty township, has received $10 for five bushels of burr oak acorns he gathered here and shipped to the state forestry headquarters. The acorns are to be used in Clarke county for planting in the state forest reservation.

JEFFERSONVILLE.—The report of Harry Ferguson, mail clerk at the Indiana reformatory, shows that during the year the inmates wrote 13,516 letters and received 8,890. Each of these incoming and outgoing letters has to be censored by the mail clerk and his assistants. In addition thousands of magazines and newspapers were received. Nearly three Bibles were in the incoming mail.

PRINCETON.—Marion King, of Francisco, as an act of good Samaritanism, sought to pick a cockle burr from his mule's tail. Maud was feeling only fairly jovial and put steam enough into her kick to break King's right arm.

EVANSVILLE.—George W. Stout, formerly of an Indianapolis paper, will revive the Municipal Reporter, a weekly newspaper which recently suspended publication. The paper will be named the Indiana Citizen and will lean to the progressive party.

CONNERSVILLE.—Esther Manna-fie, a waitress in a restaurant here, fell ten feet down cellar stairs, wrenched her spine and was knocked unconscious. Not one of the 34 pieces of china she was carrying on a tray was unbroken.

MUNCIE.—Mrs. Thomas F. Hart, wife of a manufacturer, says when she assumes her police position in the next city administration she will be a "polly woman," not a police matron. Although her attention will be principally directed toward girls and women she will not hesitate to arrest male offenders, Mrs. Hart declares.

EVANSVILLE.—Bartlett Wiley, 45, a prominent clubman and broker, committed suicide at a sanitarium by shooting himself. A week ago Wiley told police with suicidal intent, but his life was saved.

MUNCIE.—Since Andrew Huffman, a wealthy resident of Whitley, has been declared insane and it is known that he did not trust banks with his money, the lots in the vicinity of his home are being plowed up by treasure seekers who hope to find boxes of money he is supposed to have buried.

EVANSVILLE.—William Sills evolved an original plan for hatching turtles when he set an old hen on six turtle eggs. The hen now maintains a strict watch over her "brood" but nearly eckled her head off in consternation when the turtles swam about in a pond. She tried to get in with them and was nearly drowned.

"THE OLD FOLKS AT HOME." The whole adventure was started by a picture a "snap-shot" fiend took. It showed the old folks in their simple old-home garb, and they sent it to their son in the city. He was wealthy and didn't like to see his parents dressed that way. He brought them on to his fashionable city home and into fashionable city dress, and then the blow-off came.

"THE QUAKER GIRL." The offering at the Oliver next Saturday, matinee and night, Nov. 29, will be "The Quaker Girl," the musical comedy. The cast is headed by Victor Morley, who is supported by such well known players as Harry Short, Bernice McCabe, William Blaisdell, Dixie Girard, Murray Stephen, Connie Mack, Phil J. Moore, Mlle. Corday, Carol Farnon and Harry Sinclair.

SCOTT PICTURES. The forthcoming week at the Oliver will bring to this city the complete and vivid animated record of the late Capt. R. F. Scott's memorable antarctic expedition. The engagement is for one week, with daily matinees, beginning Monday afternoon, and should prove more than ordinarily interesting, inasmuch as it is being presented for the benefit of the widows and orphans of the ill-fated explorers.

W. O. W. DANCE. In celebration of a year's successful business Fidelity Camp No. 28, W. O. W., will give a dance in their hall, 116-118 E. Jefferson Blvd., Monday evening, Nov. 24, 8:30 to 11:30. All W. O. W. and W. C. members and their friends cordially invited. Old time dances for old time members. Admission free. Committee, Advt.
