

Eichenlaub Will Make Love to Captain Rockne

President's day, Thursday, Dec. 11, will mark the first appearance of the Notre Dame students' dramatic association this year. Shakespeare's "As You Like It" has been chosen for the dramatic director, Charlemagne Koehler, as the play for the occasion.

The presentation of a Shakespearean play this year marks a change in the policy of late years, when they have been playing the works of modern authors. Such popular successes as "Alias Jimmy Valentine," "The Boss," and "The Dictator," have been done very well, but the success of "David Garrick" last fall induced Shakespearean performers to attempt a Shakespearean performance.

Cecil Birder, star feminine impersonator, will take the part of Rosalind, while Joseph Stack, as Orlando, will have the leading male role. Two of this year's champion football team will be seen in "As You Like It." Eichenlaub, the big fullback, is to play William, a country fellow in love with Audrey, another rustic, whose part will be taken by Capt. Rockne.

Prof. Koehler has had wide experience as a Shakespearean actor. He played one year with Thomas Keene and worked with Booth, Barrett and Madame Modjeska for six years. Before coming to Notre Dame in 1912 he was prominent in Cincinnati as a teacher of elocution.

The cast for "As You Like It" follows:

Duke, living in exile..... Rupert Mills
Duke Frederick, the usurper.....
Amiens..... Joseph Smith
Jacques..... Gratian Wallis
Le Beau..... William Meuser
Oliver..... Mark L. Duncan
Orlando..... Joseph Stack

START NEXT WEEK TO RAISE $50,000 FOR HOSPITAL FUND

Daily bulletins concerning the Epworth hospital campaign for $50,000 will be sent out beginning Thursday from headquarters in the Y. M. C. A. building to all prospective donors.

Miss Annie B. Coughaline, in charge of the work, has prepared a mailing list of over 15,000, including not only the business men, but the poorer man as well. The actual soliciting begins next week.

The names of the prospects will be divided among the 39 teams, giving each member names of people he is acquainted with.

It is planned to hold daily luncheons in the Y. M. C. A. dining room beginning about the last of the week and each captain will report the results of his personal work until the campaign closes at the last of the month. Miss Coughaline as well as several local women are giving talks at the various clubs and special meetings are being held daily at which the organization plans are laid before the women of the community.

Miss Coughaline will talk Thursday at 3 o'clock at the home of Mrs. W. S. Robertson of the Robertson flats, corner of Wayne and St. Joseph sts. Mrs. C. A. Carlisle and Mrs. C. M. R. Haeske are taking active part, both giving talks. At a session at Temple Beth-El the need of a better hospital equipment was presented to the congregation Tuesday night and a committee to work with the women's organization is being made up.

Churches to Help.

Practically every church in the city will endorse the campaign Sunday. The pastors will announce the project at the services and committees will be arranged in many churches to cooperate. Several teams have been completed, the first of which is headed by Mrs. Harry Cadet with the following workers: Mrs. Milburn Stuebaker, Mrs. Clem Shidler, Mrs. C. C. Shafer, Mrs. George Mayr, Miss Anne Carlisle, Miss Fanny Hardy, Miss Merle McNeill and Miss Edna Place. Miss Helen Dougherty has arranged her team as follows: Mrs. Merle Shidler, Miss Marjorie Warner, Miss Margaret Meyers, Miss Learn, Miss Laura Harris, Miss Lent, Miss Marguerite Haeske and Miss Eva Varies.

Mrs. C. M. R. Haeske has the following team: Mrs. A. N. Shidler, Mrs. R. C. Stephenson, and Mrs. J. R. Kerr. The women workers will hold a luncheon at the Oliver as soon as the committees have been formed. Friday about 100 men will meet at the hotel to lay their plans. James Schuler, Dr. H. M. Miller, Dr. Stanley Clark, L. P. Hardy and Dr. W. A. Haeger have been appointed by Miss Coughaline to act as additional committee chairman.

The first of the daily bulletins to be dated Thursday sets forth the cost of the equipment needed for the hospital including the following:

Memorial Requests

The new maternity ward, $10,000; $5,000 to build, equip and furnish the children's ward. A new building can be named as memorial for $25,000; a room can be endowed for $10,000; a bed can be endowed in the children's department for $5,000; a ward can be endowed for $2,500; a room can be endowed in the children's ward for $1,000; a room can be furnished and named for $250 and $100 will name a bed.

According to the bulletin there are 80,000 people in this city and vicinity from which patients are brought and to which the committee workers will go for funds. There are now 100 beds in St. Joseph hospital and practically 145 in Epworth, which the bulletin points out is a bad outlook in case of an epidemic.

The aim of the campaign is to secure in cash or in pledges payable in quarterly installments as follows: on Jan. 15, 1914; May 15, 1914; Sept. 15, 1914; and Jan. 15 of 1915.

As a slogan Miss Coughaline has prepared these: "Rich and poor, both must loyally lend a hand," "$50,000 for Epworth" and "Bear Ye One another's Burdens."

REPORT URRUTIA WILL RE-ENTER HUERTA CABINET

Came an appeal signed by all the foreign consuls in Chihuahua calling upon Villa to give police protection to the citizens of Chihuahua.

Necessary to Evacuate.

Gen. Mercado's proclamation said: "Under the circumstances which have existed in Chihuahua it has been deemed necessary for the federal troops to evacuate. I leave in charge Federico Moya, a person who is not mixed with politics and who is therefore qualified to give full protection to foreigners. It is impossible to remain here longer, as there is no money with which to pay the troops." The generals who have signified, through their unwillingness to surrender, but who nevertheless are fleeing to the United States border, are: Gen. Salvador Mercado, Gen. Pascual Orozco, Gen. Jose Ynez Salazar, Gen. Marcelino Caraveo, Gen. Jose Manzanilla, Gen. Blas Ornela, Gen. Landa.

The peace commission, proposed to Gen. Villa that all non-combatants who might safely be passing to the border be permitted to go without being fired on and all the federals, including 200 soldiers left on police duty in Chihuahua City be pardoned. It also asked clemency for federal officials, but it thought the federals would seek safety by crossing the border into the United States, possibly near Ojinaga.

The peace commission stated that before leaving Chihuahua the federals destroyed all the postage and government revenue stamps; that there existed practically no money in the city, and that 2,000 citizens had left with their lives, most of them being those who were rich and who feared harsh treatment by the rebels.

The commission started back for Chihuahua tonight with Gen. Villa's assurances that people of all classes in the city, and including the individual police would be protected, and that he would dispatch troops to garrison the place as soon as possible.

Notwithstanding the action of the federals, Gen. Villa himself was preparing for departure southward. He said Chihuahua would be only a stopping place on his southward march, as he was determined to continue on to Mexico City.

Carlos A. Heberlein of Los Angeles, Calif., a mining engineer, accompanied the peace commissioners, who traveled in an automobile by way of Ojinaga.

BEAUTIFUL LIBRARIES WASTE OF SPACE OFTEN

Theodore Koch, librarian of the University of Michigan, speaking at Notre Dame Tuesday, explained the students how much is often wasted in libraries because of a striving after architectural effect. Modern librarians, he said, try to utilize every inch of available room.

Members of the faculty of many universities, he asserted, often do not cooperate with the librarians in having the students get the greatest good out of their libraries.

Mr. Koch is a librarian of national prominence and came to Notre Dame on the invitation of Dr. Paul J. Feik, librarian there. He offered several valuable criticisms on the tentative plans for the proposed library at Notre Dame.

MRS. DAVID H. KEEFER.

Mrs. David H. Keefe, 54 years old, of 723 W. Colfax av., for a number of years active in social affairs of the city and nearly all her life a resident of South Bend, died at her residence Wednesday morning at 8 o'clock, after an illness of several years.

She was born July 2, 1859, and is survived by her husband, a brother, H. Weaver, of Cleveland, and a sister, Mrs. Alice Shero of New York. Two nieces, Miss Bessie Weaver of this city and Miss Francis Blair of San Francisco, survive her.

ASSERTS IN MANS BETTER TREATED THAN OUR WOMEN

Helen Gardiner Opens Hot Fire on House at Opening Session of Fight for Suffrage Amendment.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—Nearly 2,000 suffragists and anti-suffragists crowded into the great caucus room in the house building Wednesday and corridors primed for their fight before the house rules committee for and against a house committee on woman suffrage.

Two hours were allotted the suffragists to present their claims, and two hours to the anti's to answer the arguments of their opponents.

After several parliamentary rulings, Chairman Henry turned the session over to Dr. Anna Howard Shaw, who introduced various speakers, cautioning her women friends to restrain their enthusiasm.

Dr. Shaw then introduced Helen Gardiner of Washington as the first speaker.

Says Indians Better Treated.

Mrs. Gardiner argued that congress had treated the Indians better than the women of the country.

"At any one time," there was no Indian committee in this house. One was created and since then the Indians have been getting schools and other things they deserved.

"Are these Indians any more important to you legislators than your wives, sisters and mothers? We want a committee of our own to which we can go at any time with absolute freedom."

She concluded by saying: "Patrick Henry once said 'Give me liberty or give me death,' and he meant what he said. The women of this country meant the same thing today."

Mrs. Ida Husted Harper of New York pleaded earnestly with the committee for a favorable report on the suffrage committee resolution. "You have not forgotten the woman suffrage parade in Washington last spring," she said.

Recalls Washington Parade.

"When troops from Fort Myer had to be summoned to protect the women from the mob which closed in on them. If you could have been in that procession and could have looked into the faces of the individual women, you would have realized what the mothers, daughters and wives of this country are subjected to when they are compelled to plead with the individual voters to grant them the suffrage.

"You permit everybody to vote except prisoners, imbeciles and women," she said.

Miss Addams cited the case of Miss Susan B. Anthony, who went to the halls of Rochester and voted. "She was arrested by federal officers."

* GOOD MORNING YOUR HONOR *

John Daugherty was awakened from a sleep in a police cell Wednesday morning at 8:20 o'clock and told about him at the walls of the cell and asked the officer how he got there.

Then he came in court with one shoe on and his collar and tie in his hand. He said he got out with the boys the day before and the first thing he knew he did not know anything. Daugherty had never been arrested before and the judge fined him $1 and costs and suspended sentence providing the man would keep sober in the future.

Gibbons Fitz, known in police court as Fitz Gibbons, was in again on a charge of being drunk Wednesday. He was charged by an officer with breaking the windows of his home in order to get in, as his wife had locked the door. The judge told him he evidently did not appreciate the chance he had been given about two weeks ago when he was released on probation. He will stay in jail ten days and work out a fine of $10 and costs.

George Blankenship was released from the county jail Tuesday morning after serving a sentence of 11 days for being drunk. At night he was arrested on the same charge and Judge Farabaugh sent him back for 30 days more. Blankenship said he just wanted to celebrate his freedom.

Martin Doud, who was charged with snatching $2 from Frank Brown, while Brown was drunk, last week, was given ten minutes to leave the city. Doud it is alleged grabbed the bill from Brown after asking him to give him a dime with which to buy something to eat.

leg. Whorton was arrested. There were several other minor disorders, but no one was seriously injured.

The police continued making numerous arrests. Among those taken in custody Tuesday was Henry Friedman, a prominent leader in political leader and wealthy. He was charged with interfering with an officer. The cases of all the persons arrested yesterday were continued in police court today until next Monday, so that the arresting officers could appear.

A proposed parade of strikers did not materialize. Mayor Wallace, as soon as he heard of the plan, issued a proclamation ordering the police to stop any attempted demonstration. The police kept the crowd constantly on the move and did not give the parade a chance to form.

More Wagons Operate.

According to employers of teamsters, more wagons were operating Tuesday than Monday and there was little interference.

Thomas J. Farrell, general organizer of the union, contends, however, that the union ranks are holding firm and that more than 3,000 men are still out.

While food supplies are still plentiful, as retail merchants anticipated the strike and stocked up their stores liberally, the accumulation of garbage is becoming a serious question. No garbage trucks had been collected in the city since Saturday.

One hotel notified the city board of health Tuesday that it had 100 barrels of garbage on hand and asked what to do with it. City sanitarian Herman Morgan has asked that all residents sprinkle lime over the garbage to prevent the possible outbreak of disease.

Fire business men, with horses, were enrolled in the citizens' cavalry Tuesday. They volunteered to assist the mounted police. Thus far the regular police have been able to handle the situation without calling out the business men's reserve, numbering more than 700 who were sworn in Sunday night and Monday.

Trouble was started at the traction terminal station late Tuesday when a truck of a grocery firm drove up to the building to unload a shipment. The employees closed the doors to the receiving room and refused to accept the goods. A large crowd collected and missiles were thrown but the police arrived and dispersed the crowd before any great damage was done. The crowd a few minutes later surrounded a milk wagon but the presence of armed guards kept the crowd at a distance.

"If organized labor will get together and all stand together we will put the city in darkness as a protest to this slaughter on the streets," Mr. Farrell said. "The governor and mayor will be appealed to for rightful protection but if these executives do not insure us justice then I am sure it is up to the laborer to get that justice himself."

NOTRE DAME CATTLE TAKE THREE FIRTS

CHICAGO, Ill., Dec. 3.—Notre Dame University to-day won first prize for two Year Old Car Lot Cattle Stock Shows.

From the record that Brother Leo's prize heaves and fattings are making in the Chicago live stock show, it appears that Coach Harper is not the only successful general at Notre Dame, nor is the football team the only organization to bring championships to the local university. In yesterday's exhibits the Notre Dame cattle took three first places and one second.

Brother Leo's cattle won first medal in the Hereford special class and premium honors in two other classes. His prize two-year-old was second only to the champion two-year-old of the show. This is a remarkable record because of the fact that there are 150 carloads of cattle from the United States and Canada, competing in this show.

BOSTON FIRE CLAIMS TWNTY-SEVEN LIVES

arrivals were striving to rescue others from the flames.

Rush All Doctors.

Every available ambulance in the city was rushed to the scene and all manner of conveyances were pressed into service to take the injured to the hospital. A special staff of doctors and nurses were in readiness at the city hospital when the first ambulances arrived with ten people. This was quickly followed by others. Physicians were driven in automobiles to the seat of the fire and attended many of the victims on the street and in nearby houses thus relieving the work at the hospital. The meager fire escapes on the rear of the building offered escape to only a few.

Those occupying rooms in the front of the building were cut off by a wall of fire which soared up the stairway and drove them to the windows to escape suffocation. There were no fire escapes on the front or side of the building and most of the dead were found near the windows.

The great rapidity with which the fire leaped from floor to floor caught the lodgers unawares and scores awoke to find their beds hemmed in by flames.

Suffocated in Sleep.

There they clung as the flames belched from windows beneath them and crept across the beds they had vacated to the sills of the windows.

Several narrowly escaped being hurled from the coping into the street in the rush for the ladders, which fell just short of coping on which they were clinging. The firemen ascended as far as they could and caught the lodgers as they jumped to the tops of the ladders four stories in the air. Eight of the dead were found on the top floor, 11 on the fourth and five on the third floor. A large number of those who lost their lives never knew how they met their fate. The majority are believed to have suffocated in their sleep.

Started in Rubbish.

The blaze is believed to have started among some rubbish in a rear hallway on the first floor. The first floor was taken up by the main entrance of the building, a shooting gallery, and a liquor store. The second, third and fourth floors were a labyrinth of rooms, hardly bigger than cells and sparsely furnished.

The top floor was a dormitory. Each of the rooms was separated by a thin wooden partition.

Night clerk William Walsh had just finished up his books when the fire was discovered. He escaped and disappeared. The work of rescue was carried on under severe handicaps. The elevated railroad structure on Washington street delayed the raising of ladders in the front of the building where the two men who jumped lost their lives. Laconia street was also too narrow for the firemen to do effective work on such an emergency. The air was filled with the cries of the injured or shouts for help of the panic stricken people at the windows. Life nets were unfurled and spread, but so many people missed the nets when they jumped into them that they were abandoned.

Perish on Brink of Safety.

Harrowing tales of those left behind in the building and the horror and peril of their escape were told by those carried to the street. In many cases the rescuers were successful but several times firemen were reaching grasp at man pleading for assistance only to see him slip back into the flames and perish.

Medical Examiner Leary after an examination at the scene of the fire declared:

"I am going at this matter with an axe. This is one of the greatest crimes ever committed in this city. An inquest will be started today. I think we have taken a heavy toll from the ruins. Boston is nearly a dozen such fire traps. It is a crime to allow them to exist. This building looked like a slaughter house. There is no good explanation for such a condition of affairs."

"THE RED ROSE."

P. M. H., dramatic critic for the Grand Rapids Press, writing of "The Red Rose," which appears at the Oliver Friday, says as follows:

The Red Rose, as she appeared last night, proved to be a large, winsome flower, raised under the glass of a Parisian studio, and guaranteed without a thorn. She is the brightest particular star in a musical show which depends for its success chiefly on the quality which Hughie Jennings calls "Lotta pep" and which is by no means weak in nimble feet and clear voices.

"The Red Rose" is not new, but it never had a more conscientious production than the one given by the present company. Henri LaBatiste, a care-free painter of portraits or houses or something, sang a song called "Bohemia" in crystalline voice which is exceptional in musical comedy, and his diminutive side partner, Miss Sylvia Jason, shared the real honors of the evening with him by giving a consistent performance of a soubrette's part, when every woman knows that it's awfully hard for a soubrette to be content.

Miss Lottie Kendall was the Red Rose—a model who is in and out of love with a young American student, and who eventually marries him after the plot has been tangled up with the rubber industry in the United States, which the young man's father is interested in, and in which the youth is not interested at all. She is infinitely more wholesome than the notorious Valeska Surratt, who originally had the part. Her performance was augmented by the amusing acting of George Williams, as a crochety American rubber magnate, with funny noises going round inside his head, and by earnest though burlesque performance of Carl George, as an occasionally crooked picture dealer, who palms her off as the daughter of an unscrupulous old baron, who needs her to pay his gambling debt.

The music is lively, and the numbers are well staged, particularly a

TRIED SEVEN DOCTORS

My Life Saved by Pe-ru-na.

Mr. S. S. Johnson, St. Elmo, Ill., writes:

"I was for five years troubled with catarrh. Two years ago I had one foot in the grave. I had tried seven doctors and a catarrh specialist in St. Louis, and took several kinds of medicine a day. I could not walk more than a hundred yards without resting.

"My friends told me to take Pe-ru-na, and I did so. I now feel that Pe-ru-na has saved my life. It is the best medicine on earth and I would not be without it."

Those who object to liquid medicines can now procure Pe-ru-na Tablets.

song called "Men, Men, Men" and another called "Come Along, Ma Cherie." The costumes do not show the effects of a road tour, and the scenery is clever without being offensively garish. Of music there is plenty and of comedy enough, so this surfeit shall be called musical comedy.
