Thursday evening, the opening evening of the annual bazaar given under the auspices of the ladies and young ladies of St. Joseph's congregation in St. Joseph's hall, proved to be a success and was largely attended.

The hall was very prettily decorated for the occasion, attractive booths being erected in various places in the hall. The chief feature was "The Trip Around the World," at which booth supper was served. This booth included various countries among them being the United States, "Germany," "Ireland," "Japan," "Italy," and "Iceland." BLIND LECTURER IN TALK AT ASSEMBLY

Dr. E. A. Hayes Gives Interesting Address to the Students of the Local High School.

E. R. Hayes, of South Carolina, who is totally blind, and who has been lecturing in the various high schools of Northern Indiana, addressed the students of the Mishawaka High school in the Assembly Friday morning.

He spoke of the education of Miss Helen Keller. Dr. Hayes said that Miss Sullivan, who is Miss Keller's teacher, had invented ways of educating her, but learned of Dr. Howe, who educated the first blind person by the present method, Miss Laura Bridgeman. Dr. Howe's first method was to print a word in letters and having Miss Bridgeman feel the word and then the object the word represented. Miss Sullivan lived in the same house that Dr. Howe lived in and watched and learned his methods of educating a blind person.

When Miss Sullivan heard of Helen Keller she immediately undertook the task of educating her, using Dr. Howe's methods. Helen's mind, while a baby, was very active and diligent in control.

At the age of 10, Helen Keller wrote the "Frost King," such a remarkable story that it started Europe and America. In the year of 1890 she entered the college of Radcliffe, from where she graduated writing her examinations on a typewriter. Miss Sarah Fuller taught Miss Keller how to speak by having her feel her lips and throat while she talked. Helen made slow progress but succeeded and just this winter made a tour of the world.

Mr. Hayes closed his speech by inspiring the students of what fields of success they could conquer.

A liberal collection was offered to Mr. Hayes by the students of the high school.

 LETTERS TO THE PEOPLE ***

Mishawaka, Ind., Dec. 12, 1913.
To the Editor News-Times:

"I pledge myself to appoint on all public boards a real representative of the working people—men who actually toil."

The above is one of the pledges made by Mr. R. W. Gaylor in his keynote speech shortly after he was nominated at the primary. It is evident from a glance at his announced proposed appointments that Mr. Gaylor is a firm believer in the true political saying, "that a platform is merely to get in on, not to stand on."

Messrs. Warner, Tupper, and McDonough to be members of the board of public works. How does that strike the average independent party supporter? A superintendent of the Rubber Co., a chief engineer at the Dodge Co., and a superintendent at the Dodge Co. are the men who are to be in charge of the city.

There are your tollers, each of these "working men" will be enabled to ride to the city hall in their own automobile. How does this comport with the pledge to the workman? Retrenchment and reform was the slogan of the independent party during the last municipal campaign. If what Mr. Gaylor has already announced is a criterion, the hopes of those who supported that party will have gone glimmering long before the "letting period" in the life of the incoming administration has arrived.

The first real evidence of retrenchment is the appointment of three members of the board of public works at a salary of $500 each per annum, and a city controller at $200 per annum, with a possibility of $1,500, which is permissible under the law; thus the salary list is boosted $3,000 a year at the very outset of the "retrenchment and economic administration."

The cardinal tenet of the independent party was "no city controller," the "deplorable conditions" mentioned by Mr. Gaylor in his platform pledge is being obviated by installing an additional burden of $3,000 a year on the taxpayer. No wonder of the speculation whether or not the city would leap over the $344 tax rate, which is so often referred to by the mayor-elect in his campaign speeches.

At the present time it is impossible to predict what the outcome will be as to the numerous other promises, such as the enforcing of laws, and various other promises, which contribute to better government. How does the foregoing brother taxpayer measure up with conditions under the present administration, namely: The mayor, street commissioner and city engineer comprising the board of public works, with no cost to the city other than the regular salary, and the city clerk and his deputy discharging the duties of city controller without additional expense. A TAXPAYER.

LOCAL ORDER ATTENDS JOINT MEETING

A number of members of the K. O. T. M. No. 19 of this city and a number of the K. O. T. M. No. 1, of South Bend went to Elkhart Thursday evening where they attended a meeting of the K. O. T. M. No. 3 in that city. D. P. Markley, supreme commander of the order, was present and gave an address. Ralph Smith, supreme finance keeper, Laporte, was present and also gave a short address.

After the business session a social hour was enjoyed during which refreshments were served. This was followed by a smoker.

SUPT. OF WOMAN'S PRISON IS "FIRED"

Special to News-Times.
INDIANAPOLIS, Dec. 12.—Following an exposure of conditions at the Indiana Women's prison by the state board of accounts Friday, Gov. Ralston has demanded and received the resignation of Miss Emily E. Rhodes, for years superintendent of the institution.

The board finds a shortage of $4,000 in her accounts in settlement of which she has paid the state $1,000 and turned over all the chickens on the prison grounds. A system of selling chickens and eggs by taking a share for her own profit has been going on for years.

Miss Addie Bond has been appointed to fill the superintendency temporarily.

SALVATION ARMY IN MOVE FOR XMAS DINNERS

Many letters are being mailed by the Salvation Army to the business men of South Bend making a plea for assistance in furnishing the poor of the city with a big Christmas dinner and to provide them with relief such as clothing and fuel.

Besides providing that will help make the big dinner, Christmas day, funds are being sent to the institution, Capt. F. W. Jewell, of Detroit, who recently took charge of the new institution, is making a big effort to make the event the biggest success of its kind in the history of the city. Several large donations of $25 have been furnished and many smaller ones are coming in daily.

DIME DAY IS BIG HELP TO CAMPAIGN

The Studebaker Corporation's executive building, the bank which had been placed at the door entrance had been crammed to bursting before 10 o'clock in the morning and a second bank was sent to the building.

Largely through the efforts of Miss Martha Ruffer, the pretty stenographer for Councilman Arthur H. Rice, the money was gathered up in the building. With one of the tiny banks and a small display card as had been posted up over the city, Miss Ruffer visited nearly every clerk in the office. The bank will be left in her charge Saturday.

Promising results were turned in from the high school, where over 500 envelopes were distributed. Professor F. L. Sims reported at noon that practically every envelope had been taken by volunteers and that by night the entire number would be taken up.

At the Y. M. C. A. similar results were forthcoming. Over 100 envelopes were given out there. The dormitory men will all contribute in an effort to raise $10 in the building and outside Y. M. C. A. men are taking an active part. Assurance has been received from General Secy. J. Q. Ames that the subscriptions from the building will be large.

The South Bend Business college has 200 envelopes and will furnish their report Saturday. The night school as well as the day pupils will take part and all will have a chance to give. The management is taking an active part.

The Thomas School of Stenography and Typewriting will distribute the envelopes to every one of its members although no report will be made for a few days, as many of the pupils only attend two or three days a week. A stack of envelopes have been placed at the desk in the Y. W. C. A. and assurance has been received that a large number of dimes will be secured there.

Three contributions Thursday evening raised the fund to $443.21. The Women's Literary club contributed $10, the Ladies' Aid society of the First Church of the Brethren, $5, and a friend $1.

PATROLMAN WILSON QUILTS

The resignation of Patrolman Clyde N. Wilson, filed with the board of public safety Friday, has been accepted. No reason for his quitting was assigned. It is understood that he is going north on a hunt, and will engage in business for himself on his return.

It was rumored about the city hall Friday that there might be a number of resignations from the police and fire departments before the end of the present administration. The exodus it is expected will be confined to those who think they see the handwriting on the wall when the new officials come in.
