CHUBBY LITTLE YOUNGSTER IS MRS. JOHN JACOB ASTOR'S SON.

The 17-month-old son of Mrs. John Jacob Astor, as happy and chubby as any healthy young man of his age, is the sixth Astor to bear the name John Jacob Astor. Repeated attempts of photographers who have camped on the trail of Mrs. Astor (with the death of whose husband aboard the Titanic the entire world is familiar) were unavailing, and this photograph by Lillian Baynes Griffin was made under the personal direction of the youngster's mother, the former Miss Madeline Force. He is a very pretty child, with curly, golden hair and big blue eyes. His cheeks are pink with the glow of health. He looks very much like his mother, but his chin and mouth are very much like those of his father. He sleeps in the open, and it is due to this outdoor existence that he is so wonderfully healthy and rugged. He walks all over the place and talks and carries on the liveliest day, and truly is king supreme of the Astor house.

CAROLINE COE'S TESTED RECIPES.

PORK LEFT-OVERS.
Cold roast pork, in the estimation of many persons, is far better than when served hot. Cut in small thin slices and serve with apple sauce.

The tender white meat of a roast of pork may be made into a salad, which many persons tell from chicken salad, with celery, a few olives and use any cooked dressing and cream.

One cup of diced cold pork added to the gravy that was left over (after carefully removing fat) may be heated and turned over toast and served for breakfast.

PORK CROQUETTES.
Pork croquettes are most delicious if made with a cup of mashed potatoes to each cup of diced pork. Mix together and add one or two drops of onion juice, a little minced pepper or pimento, and salt to taste. Use one-half cup of very thick sauce or pork gravy. Mix all together. Form into shape and set in cold place for three or four hours. Slice and dip in eggs and roll in fine bread crumbs an hour before ready to fry. Drop in wire basket and fry in deep fat until golden brown. Serve with baked apples.

DR. THOMSON'S EYE TALK
(TALK NO. 230.)

Kryptok Bifocals.
The invisible Kryptok bifocal is the nearest to the natural eye of boyhood and girlhood of anything that has been invented in recent years. There is no ugly dividing line for the eyes to jump across. The reading segment is invisible when you have the glasses on. It is not only invisible to your friends but invisible to yourself. When you look at a distance your eyes are in perfect focus. When you pick up a newspaper they are in just as perfect focus. You see far or near just as you did in school. Yet the lenses are made of one solid piece of glass, without seam or joint to catch dirt and appear unsightly. If you should ask me what is the lens of very highest perfection in the optician's art today, the lens that is the very best thing for the eyes that is made, I should surely say Kryptoks. They cost a good deal more than the ordinary kinds but they are worth all they cost.

Spring Ready-Wearables now on display here suggest the Glorious Colors of May and June.

They are also strongly suggestive of the style changes that have taken place—in Fashion they are distinctly of 1914.

Suits—Short coats are a natural result of the hip draperies. In many cases the coat is merely a bolero. Novel collars are important as giving an individual note. Sleeves are of various types, including the set-on, the raglan and the modified kimono. Skirts show the extended hip obtained by the use of tunics of various types. Bustle effects are employed to a limited extent.

Coats—The most notable change in separate coats is the flared effects, brought in by the new, extended-hip forms in dresses. Half and three-quarter lengths rule. Capes, in new forms will later have wide vogue. Collars often stand away slightly from the neck. The Japanese draped collar is expected to register strongly. Hood effects are a promising novelty.

Come and See the New Suits and the New Coats and Other Things New.

Waists
In separate waists the dress bodice indications are largely duplicated, with emphasis on transparency, simplicity and soft blouse effects. The outside finish in the form of coat-tails and girdles, will be a big feature. New collars are in modified Medicis and other shapes, either high or low, standing from the neck at the back.
