NIGHT SHIFT IS PUT ON TO COMPLETE RACE JOB

Work Rapidly Going Ahead—$10,000 Worth of Working Machinery Now on Site—Coffer Dam Completed.

Day and night work to complete the repairs to the retaining walls of the south race along the city property at the water works plant was started Monday night. From now on it is expected that men will be found about the place 24 hours a day. Two shifts have been put on and Contractor Davis is confident that the job will be completed in the allotted time.

The coffer dam, which has been under construction since last Friday morning, is now nearly completed. The dam has been constructed across the entire race, a few feet below the head gates. The water which flows through the gates in small quantities will escape through a specially constructed flume. The other water which has collected below the dam will be pumped out as soon as the men are ready to start work removing the old walls.

The greater portion of the work at the present time is the removing and excavating of a stretch of earth along the south part of the walls. Two tracks have been placed and the work is being handled in a systematic and thorough manner. Over $10,000 worth of material, including derricks, donkey engines, pumps, single race railroad tracks, cars, conveyors, cement mixers and other necessary working materials have been provided to take care of the work.

The excavating is one of the principle items in the improvement, as about 12 feet of ground back from the walls is being taken out to a depth of about 14 feet. This is necessary so as to make the repairs to the base of the wall, which is nine feet across at the lower portion. It is expected that the work of excavating will be completed within the next few days when work on the repairs to the wall will be started. The foundations under the northeast wall of the old electric station will also come in for improvements. The walls and foundations will be strengthened as it is feared that the building might at any time slide into the river. This portion of the building has become entirely separated from the other part, and it is a mystery how the corner holds out.

It will be washing, ironing and house cleaning. Julia Szal, 615 S. Union st.

CHAMBER OF PROGRESS SECURE LEASE ON LAND

A splendid enthusiastic meeting of the directors and committees of the Mishawaka Chamber of Progress was held Monday evening in the office of a local professional man. Every member of the directorship staff and of all the committees was present. The most important committees to report were the committees on hitching racks and rest rooms. The committee on hitching racks reported that they had secured a lease on the property adjoining the Herzog coal office on S. Main st. The property is faced by over 200 feet of street frontage and the same amount of alley facing, while there is driveway through from street to alley.

Work will at once be taken up by the committee to have the property cleaned and prepared to install the racks and other necessary equipment. As to just what the equipment will comprise has not yet been decided by the committee. The report of the rest room committee was not given out, but it is understood that no suitable place has yet been secured, although several are under consideration.

BELGIAN CAPITAL ENDANGER BY GERMAN ADVANCE

The rain was a terrible thing also for the heaps of wounded, making their sufferings painfully slow.

Many of the German soldiers who were found on the field only slightly wounded, asked for food before having their wounds dressed. Some of them had fought for thirty-six hours without more than a biscuit or two.

Night Attack on Fort. Though the main attack did not begin until dawn, a night attack had been made upon Fort Seraling, south of Liege, where a severe conflict took place in the darkness; a German column was sent forward to take Fort Seraling at the point of the bayonet.

The advancing troops were revealed, however, by the flash lights upon the fort and the Belgian territory turned upon the German troops.

Bursting shells tore great gaps in the ranks of the advancing troops, but they continued to move forward, encouraged by their officers. The slopes leading to the glacis of the fort were quickly strewn with dead, the Belgian gunners having no difficulty to find the exact range under the glare of the searchlights.

The ramparts of the fort were aflame, but the only sounds which came from the German ranks were the battle cries of "fatherland" and "on war in the fatherland." It is estimated that at least 500 Germans fell within an area of half a square mile.

The German soldiers showed great gallantry. In the face of the terrific cannonading they moved forward without a falter.

Bridge Collapses.

It was necessary for the advancing troops to cross a bridge upon which some of the guns of the fort concentrated their fire. The structure, weakened by the salvoes, soon collapsed, carrying hundreds of soldiers into the water beneath.

The men who had succeeded in crossing before the bridge was torn away did not stay their advance, but moved steadily forward in the face of the withering fire. The vanguard gained the barbed wire abatis in front of the fort and were tearing it away when the Belgian machine guns were turned loose.

The vanguards of the Germans were quickly swept away and the troops were compelled to fall back.

At the head of 100 troops in the very vanguard of the assault was Prince William of Lippe. His body was identified by Belgians who left the fort after the Germans had retired in order to bury the dead.

By the side of the prince lay his son. Both had been killed in the machine gun fire. The bodies were buried with military honors under the walls of the fort.

Hot Weather Health

At this season of the year, when the appetite lags and you feel "fagged out," it is not strange that you do not feel your real self. Skipping from one light food to another, the stomach is rarely satisfied with whatever the palate selects, and draughts of chilly ice water often aid in retarding digestion to a point where food fails to nourish as it should. The success of every organization is largely due to a proper division of labor extending from the office boy to the president. And the efficiency of the human machine is highest when every organ is attending to its own work. Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey keeps up the essential functions of digestion by stimulating the mucous surface and little glands of the stomach to healthy action, thereby correcting faulty assimilation of food, and thus the body is furnished full proportion of nourishment. Since the starved tissues are rapidly fed, the blood enriched and the nervous system rehabilitated, Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey proves itself a food tonic upon which the strength and vigor of bodily vitality can depend at all times. Thousands "Get Duffy's and Keep Well." Why not you?
