Baby's Comfort In Summer

Mothers Should Dress the Infant Wisely During The Heated Season

"I shall be so thankful when the summer is over," wailed the young mother to the neighbor who had just dropped in. "Baby is so cross these hot days that my nerves are positively worn to shreds."

The caller being a mother herself, looked at the baby with intelligent eyes. Then she deliberately walked over and lifted him out of his carriage.

"I should think he would be cross," she said, as she sat down and began to strip off his clothes. "So would you be, if you were swathed in flannel and tied in a baby carriage, with the mercury at 98 in the shade and insects dancing all over you. There, little one, that's a good deal better, isn't it?" she asked the baby as she held him at arm's length minus his shoes, stockings and flannel skirts.

"But I'm afraid he will catch cold!" gasped the mother, horrified at such high-handed proceedings.

"Not while he has on his woolen shirt and band," replied the caller, "and he really needs but one of those. If it is as warm as this tomorrow morning you can omit the shirt. The knitted band, which is a sort of sleeveless shirt, is amply sufficient to protect the back, chest and abdomen.

"The arms do not need any other covering than the little sleeves of the frock. He is not fretting now, you see, but he is not quite comfortable yet. We will dust some talcum over those prickly heat spots, give him some dry underclothing, and then, if it isn't feeding time, let him take a little nap."

"But I can't get him to sleep in the afternoon."

"I think you can if he is not too warm. In weather like this every human being, old and young, ought to take an afternoon siesta, just as they do in the tropics. As for little children it is absolutely necessary for their health and their tempers that they be kept out of the heat during the middle of the day.

"Now," handing the cooling baby over to his mother, "just lay him down in that pleasant, airy bedroom of yours, draw down the shades and see if he won't fall asleep."

"You must pardon an old woman's impertinence," she resumed, when the baby's mother returned, "but I've been all through these experiences and I want to spare you some of my mistakes. That little frock that you are embroidering is very dainty and sweet, but the baby doesn't need it so badly that you should tax your nerves with it in the dog days. You are all tired out. Try a little idling once in a while."

"As for the baby, just keep him clean and cool and restful. Give him an alcohol sponge every night, and after his morning bath let him lie and kick for an hour or two with nothing on but his shorts. Put sandals on him instead of shoes, and dispense with stockings altogether. Let his clothing always be dry, and keep him well powdered to avoid chafing. Get him in the habit of regular naps twice a day, and don't leave him asleep in his carriage without a mosquito bar thrown over him.

"When he cries try giving him cool, clear water, instead of milk."

MANY WOMEN AT SPRINGBROOK

More Than Two Thousand Turn Out to be Guests on Women's Day.

That women of South Bend take an interest in things planned for their amusement and entertainment was demonstrated yesterday when despite threatening clouds between 2,500 and 3,000 women of South Bend and Mishawaka turned out for Women's day at Springbrook park.

Seventy-nine women registered in the old ladies' congress, for women over 70 years of age. The oldest woman on the grounds was Mrs. L. C. Conden, who was 83. The total age of all the women entered was 5,200 years, which if one woman could have lived that long would have taken her back nearly to the flood, or some ancient date in history. Each woman registered received a handsome work basket.

The hard-times parade featured the afternoon. Costumes worn were so startling, according to eye witnesses, that even the trees sat up and took notice. Mrs. Pankhurst earnestly soliciting votes had to compete with Gold Dust Twins and the Old Lady Who Lived in a Shoe for patronage. Every woman in the parade was presented with a souvenir basket.

Mrs. E. Susdorf, Huey st., proved to be the heavyweight of the day and easily carried off the prize for that division, tipping the beam at 262 pounds.

The tallest woman contest resulted in tie. Mrs. Harry Funk of Mishawaka and Mrs. Lulu Swartz both measured five feet 1-2 inches and each was awarded a prize.

The day was a great success drawing even better than the girls' and boys' days. Babies will hold sway at the park next Wednesday on the occasion of the annual baby show.

TO HOLD ANNUAL PICNIC

The annual picnic of the Loyal Americans, No. 1093, will be held Sunday at Hudson lake. Cars for the lake will leave South Bend at 8:30 but the tickets will be good on any car for the return trip. Non-members will be asked to pay 40c white children may go for 20c.

TOWNSHIP LEVIES ON CITY PROPERTY VOID

Ruling of State Board of Accounts Says Tax is Illegal.

Special Correspondence. INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 20.—Levies for taxation purposes on property located within the corporate limits of a city, made by a township advisory board, are illegal and hereafter will not be recognized by the state board of accounts, according to an announcement made by the state board today.

Practically every county in the state has within its boundaries which have made such levies and which contemplate making them. Under today's ruling of the state board all such levies are invalid and will be subject to the action of the state board wherever they are found to exist.

The decision came in response to inquiries from Field Examiners John H. Holtz and E. P. Brennan, who have been investigating the treasurer's office in Marion county. Center township, Marion county, has a levy of one cent on the $100 levied against property within the corporate limits of Indianapolis. It is reported. The state board ruled that this was illegal. Officials of the state board said the same condition exists in practically all counties of the state wherein townships have as a part of their territory the limits of an incorporated city.

The letter from the state board to the examiners, follows: "In reply to your inquiry, relative to the authority of a township advisory board to levy a tax upon property within the limits of and subject to taxation by an incorporated city, I beg to advise that it is the opinion of this department that the advisory board does not have such authority. "In the case of Kerib, vs. Reynolds et al., 142 Ind. 486, the appellant for himself and on behalf of the taxpayers of his city sued to enjoin the collection of taxes levied for township purposes upon property within the corporate limits of a city. The court in that case held that the levy was without authority of law, so far as it included property within such city. I do not find that this case has been modified or overruled by subsequent decisions, and it stands as the law governing this department. There is no statute permitting such a levy to be made. You will, therefore, regard all such levies as without authority of law and so notify the proper officials.

"Yours very truly,
"GILBERT H. HENDREN,
"State Examiner."

ATTENTION, T. R. H. No. 41. Every member of the court is honestly requested to meet at Eagle hall at 1:30 p. m., Thursday, to attend the funeral of Sister Esken in a body. Adv. Lillian Stockwell, Scriber.

America is Noted For Fat Women

Not because we are a lazy nation, nor because as a people we eat too much or too carelessly, nor because we are naturally given to overweight, have we attained the reputation of being a race of fat women. The reason is because we do not give our anatomy the attention necessary to keep flesh down. Women of other nations constantly fight the approach of overweight by every scientific means and in France, a nation of graceful women, this fight against flesh is especially strong. We have found the following recipe for flesh reduction is one of the most effective and economical treatments. It is easily made at home by mixing ounces baronius (all good druggists carry this) with 1-2 pints hot water. When cool strain and take 1 tablespoon before meals until weight is just where you want it. This is a safe, harmless method of fat-reduction and does not depend on dieting or unusual exercising.
