SOCIETY

Mr. and Mrs. Gabriel Summers announce the engagement of their daughter, Alice Gabrielle, to Joseph Maxwell Stephenson of Gary, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rouse C. Stephenson of this city. The wedding will take place in the early fall.

An interesting meeting of the Chapin Park W. C. T. U. was held Friday afternoon at the Y. W. C. A. where Mrs. Ada Barnard was hostess. Devotional exercises were led by Mrs. C. C. Beyer, followed by a business meeting during which it was decided that the union would visit the county infirmary some time in the near future. An invitation which was received by the union from the Negroes' W. C. T. U. for next Wednesday afternoon was considered and accepted. The following officers for the coming season were elected: Mrs. I. H. Scofield, president; Mrs. J. W. Woodward, vice president; Mrs. Frank Childer, secretary; Mrs. Ada Barnard, treasurer. The business meeting was followed by an interesting program. Mrs. C. C. Warner gave a discussion of the attitude and great advancement of the press toward prohibition. Mrs. T. C. Barnes gave a paper entitled "Obstacles in the Way of the Ballot for Women." Mrs. I. H. Scofield gave a reading "Yawcob and de American Wimmins." Miss Mary Millhouse gave a paper "As the Men on the Street Sees It," and Mrs. C. C. Beyer read an article entitled "As An Ex-Saloon Keeper Sees Prohibition." Mrs. Jennie Sharpless, who is working with Clifford Row, the Chicago reformer, for a higher standard of morals among fallen girls, gave an interesting account of the work. She said that at least 50 per cent of such evils may be attributed to liquor. The meeting closed with a social hour. The next meeting will be held in one month with Mrs. T. C. Barnes, 464 Vista av.

The fourth annual reunion of the Whitmer family will be held Wednesday, Sept. 2, at the home of Mrs. Ann Lammedee, Sumption Prairie. All relatives are expected to be present.

The Tuesday club will open its season with a meeting next Tuesday afternoon, Sept. 1, at the home of Mrs. John Inwood, 511 S. Main st.

Miss Una Camp, 510 W. Colfax av., was hostess Friday evening to 11 members of the Quixote club. During the business meeting plans were made for a picnic to be held Labor day at Helman's grove. It will be in the nature of a "weenie" and marshmallow roast. The evening was pleasantly spent with games and musical and instrumental. A color scheme of black and gold was maintained in the refreshments. The next regular meeting of the club will be held the last Friday in September, the place to be announced later.

The Aid society of the Quincy St. Baptist church was pleasantly entertained Friday afternoon by Mrs. A. C. Ogg, Portage av. A short business session was held, followed by a social time during which refreshments were served. The society will meet the last Friday in September with Mrs. Levi Shetterly, 1024 Sherman av.

Mrs. Fred Loughman and Mrs. C. B. Steed were hostesses to the Norman Eddy Sewing circle Friday afternoon at the G. A. R. hall. Officers for the ensuing season were elected as follows: Mrs. Steed, president; Mrs. Wm. Hege, vice president; Mrs. E. LaHomedieu, secretary. The next regular meeting of the circle will be held in two weeks, the place to be decided later. Twenty members and two visitors were present at Friday's meeting.

Miss Florence Creiger, 429 N. Lafayette st., has issued invitations for a tea to be given Tuesday evening honoring her guest, Miss Jessie Orff of Ft. Wayne, Ind. ## English Actress Succeeds Marlowe Little Points for In Classic Roles. The Dressmaker

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—Julia Marlowe will be missing when the roll is called for the new theatrical season, and in her place comes Phyllis Neilson-Terry, niece of Ellen Terry, a young woman of dramatic gifts, rare beauty and queenly stature.

Unless it's Marlowe herself, no other actress, so the critics say, brings to the Shakespearean heroines, Rosalind, Viola and Juliet the poetic charm with which the young English player endows them. Miss Terry is 22 years old; she is the daughter of Fred Terry and Julia Neilson, English playerfolk, well known in America.

Phyllis Neilson-Terry

In all the long line of people who form the actual chain between the manufacture of the fabric and its ultimate completion into the costume, it is the dressmaker who has the most difficult place to fill, for she must not only know the trend of fashion in fabrics, trimmings, line, drapery, color and effect, but she must know how to select from each and all just the little points that will give her creations the stamp of individuality, without departing from the general lines of the prevailing season's demand.

Just now the most important lines of costume designs are the tailored and demi styles; and as if to encourage us for the coming months, fashion has treated these with a boldness of innovation and contrast to last season which afford many fine opportunities for the dressmaker.

The empire note is strong; indeed, one might almost say that it is the real foundation of most of the smartest suits and street costumes, and it follows that, even when the costume is ostensibly tailored, it is quite within the dressmaker's province, for the dainty, truly feminine atmosphere, which is the most marked characteristic of empire costumes, is essentially her field. Many coats follow faithfully the long-tailed, short-fronted designs worn by the dandies, with the important exception of the waistcoat, which fits like a glove, and often takes the form of the all-pervading basque.

Another very popular empire coat is the "citoyenne," and consists of a basque body with long light sleeves, with a full, long skirt, confined by a broad fitted sash with long ends. The empire cape and cloak also appear; indeed, it is quite possible to get any good illustrated book of the empire period and follow the countless suggestions offered in the exaggerated but always charming figures. In the matter of collars, revers, pockets, vests, waistcoats, girdles and sashes, they will suggest infinite and valuable variety.

Outside of the realm of the empire, fashion has also decreed one of the most decided departures of the season in the new coats and suits with high necks. A typical example is of striped mustard and blue duvetine, with scanty "trouser-leg" skirt of black satin. The long loose "citoyenne" coat has high collar and close cuffs of black skunk fur. The girde belt is of folded patent leather. The most important change in effect lies in the tight, inset sleeves and the defined normal waist line, affording a distinct contrast to the kimono shoulders and loose "elephant's skin" underarm of last season.

HOW TO LIVE WELL AND SAVE THE PENNIES DURING THE WAR

CHEESE AS MEAT SUBSTITUTE

Meat is wholesome and relished by most persons, yet it is not essential to a well-balanced meal and there are many housekeepers who for one reason or another are interested in lessening the amount of meat which they provide or to substitute some other foods for it. The problem with the average family is undoubtedly more often the occasional substitution of other palatable dishes for the sake of variety, for reasons of economy or for some other reason than general replacement of meat dishes by other things.

Foods which are to be served in place of meat should be rich in protein and fat and should also be satisfactory. Cheese naturally suggests itself as a substitute for meat, since it is rich in the same kinds of nutrients which meat supplies, is a staple food with which everyone is familiar, and is one which can be used in a great variety of ways.

BY A FOOD EXPERT OF THE UNITED STATES DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE.

MILK AND CHEESE SOUP.

Three cups of milk, or part milk and part stock, one and one-half tablespoons of flour, one cupful of grated cheese, salt and paprika.

Thicken the milk with the flour, cooking thoroughly. This is best done in a double boiler, with frequent stirring. When ready to serve, add the cheese and the seasoning.

The proteid in this soup are equal in amount to those in five-sixths of a pound of beef of average composition; its fuel value is higher than that of a pound of beef.

CHEESE AND VEGETABLE SOUP.

Two cups of stock, two tablespoons of finely chopped carrots, one tablespoonful of butter, two tablespoons of flour, one and one-half teaspoonfuls of salt, one cupful of scalded milk, one-half cupful of grated cheese.

Cook the vegetables a short time in one-half of the butter, add the stock and the mace, boiling 15 or 20 minutes. Strain and add the milk. Thicken with flour cooked in the remaining butter. Just before serving, stir in the cheese and cook until it is melted.

TOMATO RABBIT.

Two tablespoonfuls of butter, two tablespoonfuls of flour, three-quarters of a cupful of milk, three-quarters of a cupful of stewed and strained tomatoes, one-eighth teaspoonful of soda, one pound of cheese, two eggs, slightly beaten, salt, mustard, cayenne pepper.

Cook the butter and the flour together, add the milk, and as soon as the mixture thickens add tomatoes and soda. Then add cheese, eggs and seasoning. Serve on toasted whole wheat or Graham bread.

CHEESE AND MACARONI LOAF.

One cupful of macaroni broken into small pieces, one cupful of milk, one tablespoonful of butter, one tablespoonful of chopped green pepper, one teaspoonful each of chopped onion and parsley, three eggs, one teaspoonful of salt, one-half cupful of grated cheese.

Cook the macaroni in boiling salted water until tender, and rinse in cold water. Cook the parsley, onion and pepper in a little water with the butter. Pour off the water or allow it to boil away. Beat the eggs, white and yolk separately. Mix all the ingredients, cutting and folding in the stiffly beaten whites at the last. Line a quart baking dish with buttered paper; turn the mixture into it, set the baking dish in a pan of hot water, and bake in a moderate oven from one-half to three-fourths of an hour. Serve with tomato sauce.

LITTLE ECONOMIES THAT COUNT.

By Caroline Coe.

Little economies count in these days of high prices—it pays to watch the little leaks in the household expenses.

What do you suppose your cheese cloth, dust cloths and window cloths cost a year? Whatever it is, it may be saved. Use all old soft curtains, cut these into squares, hem and find a dust cloth that will not shed lint and is soft enough to reach all cracks and corners.

Make your own "dustless dusters." Wring out clean dust cloths very dry from warm water. Turn onto it a little coal oil, cedar oil or any good polishing oil. Pat the cloth until every part has become slightly oiled, when it is ready to use. These dusters are sold on the market for a quarter, and the home-made kind are just as good.

Use old lace curtains for window cloths. They give the window an extra polish and are quickly dried.

Worn tea towels may do double duty by being made into dish cloths.

Flour sacks, if carefully ripped apart, make fine soft tea towels. Soak them in a little soda water to remove the color.

Necessity, the Mother of Invention

The war in Europe has practically shut off all kinds of importations. Sadly does a friend of ours assert that nominally 98 per cent of the dye-stuffs used in this country come from abroad. Mournfully he declares that soon we'll be handling nothing but blacks and whites.

Just as gloomy is the view of another who deals in drugs. Dejectedly he holds that practically the world's supply of this, that and the other thing comes from Germany.

Now, let all the sad, mournful, gloomy and dejected pause for a moment.

Chicago business men, as a result of a conference with the Chicago section of the American Chemical Society, discovered that in almost every instance this country has chemicals and extracts equal to the supposedly essential foreign products, or at least satisfactory as temporary substitutes.

An American chemist says: "The war has shown the great dependence which our manufacturers have placed on foreign chemists. Because they could buy cheaply abroad very little attention has been given to manufacturing chemists in this country. A recent government bulletin shows that we have in the United States deposits of practically every known mineral. The full extent of America's mineral resources is not realized by the general public."

Germany has practically the world's supply of potash—but some chemists hold that there are deposits of this mineral in Nevada and California.

And, it has been discovered that there are men working in the steel plants, just a few miles to the west of us, who have been employed by leading German synthetic colormakers, but who were unable to follow that trade here.

If we have the basic chemicals, the chemists and the artisans who knows but—well, what dire necessity may again bring forth.

We believe in American resourcefulness, American ingenuity, American ability, American pluck.

We have no time to waste listening to the wail of the wailful.

In The Realm Of Fashion

There is a rumor that we may expect crinoline skirts in the fall. The smart woman will have many strictly tailored suits this fall. The little girl must also wear white if she would be fashionable. The Paris dressmakers are combining light cotton goods with furs. The fact that skirts are growing wider is absolute and well established. Frocks of sheer linen or organdie are trimmed with spiral flounces of lace.

The smartest turbans are fashioned of white satin and trimmed with black.

The somber costume may be brightened by the parasol. It comes in vivid greens and yellows.

Adaptations of the old time princess model are being shown among the new gowns.

There is a satisfactory and pretty silk and wool crepe de chine being used for blouses.

There is a midsummer vogue for black velvet bodices, girdles, capes, and other accessories.

The fashion of smoking is coming back; it especially is noticed on soft crepe de chine.

The set-in sleeve is now considered as fashionable as the sleeve that is cut in one with the bodice.

For walking or motoring the combination capes and jackets are the thing.

Both figured and plain chiffons are used in making the handsomest blouses.

KITCHEN KINKS.

Before cleaning out a fireplace sprinkle a good handful of tea-leaves among the ashes. This makes the ashes lift more easily, and prevents the dust from flying about the room.

To clean lamp-glasses hold them over a jug of boiling water until well steamed, then polish with a dry duster. It is far less trouble than washing, and the glasses very rarely break.

There is often trouble in getting cream to whip properly, but if a few drops of lemon juice are added it will soon become thick. Care must be taken not to add too much, as that would make it curdle.
