

DANDRUFFY HEADS BECOME HAIRLESS

Scalp Dries—Chokes out the Hair and Prevents Its Growth.

If you want plenty of thick, beautiful glossy, silky hair, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for it will starve your hair and ruin it if you don't. It doesn't do much good to try to brush or wash it out. The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to destroy it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, mix about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips. By morning most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it. You will find, too, that all itching and itching of the scalp will stop, and your hair will be silky, fluffy, lustrous, soft and look and feel a hundred times better. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and four ounces is all you will need, no matter how much dandruff you have. This simple remedy never fails.

AT THE ORPHEUM.

The American people have become so accustomed to mystifying stage tricks that it takes a good deal to surprise them, but the audacious at the Orpheum beginning Thursday will have an opportunity of seeing a novelty in the extraordinary performance of "Onaip," who has something absolutely new in stage business. "Onaip's" performance is simple enough. With a few passes of his hands he raises a piano off the floor some three feet in the air, where it remains suspended without support, and also without any support the player remains in a sitting posture before the instrument. Then "Onaip" whisks the instrument around in the air and the player, sometimes suspended head downward, at other times in a horizontal position, continues to play as if nothing was happening. The management of the Orpheum offer $10.00 in gold for the best solution of the mystery and season passes and numerous other tickets for those solving the mystery. Others on the bill beginning Thursday are Mattie Choate & Co., who have a novelty comedy playlet entitled, "Outclassed." Miss Choate has the assistance of three other players and as the story deals with a burlesque queen, and other stage characters, promise to be interesting. Bob Hall, who has been one of the big hits over the Orpheum circuit offers an original performance and is a genuine comedian. He thinks quickly, talks quickly and gives most of his patter in rhyme, gathering material from current topics and incidents happening in the theater. Oldfield and Drew, billed as the Sunshine Duo offer a program of songs and dances, and Frawley and Hunt will be seen in a sensational and comedy gymnastic act. A Keystone comedy picture completes the bill.

NEEDS MONEY.

"If you haven't any money, you shouldn't come 'round the stage," Jessie Bruce, who is to be heard here with the New York Grand Opera company on Thursday night, Nov. 5, at the Oliver opera house in "Faust," and is one of the youngest and prettiest women to win operatic fame, smiled at the interviewer, then continued: "I don't mean that money will even help you land a good part, but I do mean that it is foolish to face the long search for that part without enough money to live comfortably. More failures on the stage can be attributed to a lack of bread than to a lack of talent. "While the glamour of the stage was entirely responsible for the opera-struck girl of yesterday, it is the glamour of big salaries that is responsible today. The press agents have written so many stories about the enormous sums their stars are supposed to make, that the public has come to believe the stages are carpeted with greenbacks. And when 'Sweet Sixteen' gets a tiny part in some company at $60 a week she thinks she is rolling in riches, and tells all of her amazed friends about it, and they spread the wonderful tale."

acts entitled, "When Broadway Was a Trail." It is a story of old Amsterdam and deals with incidents and characters of the early days before Manhattan island was thickly inhabited. The heroine is a maiden named Priscilla and the story is a romance. It is one of interest and filled with thrilling incidents. There are war scenes before the days of the Revolution and the scenic effects, costumes and happenings are of the time of our forefathers. Miss Barbara Tennant is featured in the leading role and her excellent work in featuring is a guarantee of her painstaking efforts and likeable impersonations as depicted in this late release. A laughable Sterling comedy, "Heine's Outing," dealing with the absurd incidents of happenings at a genuine Dutch picnic, will afford amusement on account of the excellent mixture of suspense and humor. It is lively and consistent and an excellent contrast to the dramatic feature which precedes it.

Care About the Girls." Billie Glynn introduces "Nancy Lee" and special chorus affects will add interest to the big numbers. A new wardrobe has been secured for this production and comedy motion pictures will also be shown.

AT THE SURPRISE.

"The Sands of Fate," a dramatic story of a romance of the desert is told in two parts at the Surprise today. Many interesting events are shown and there is a splendid arrangement of scenes interesting and logical in the land of the desert. The suspense continues to the closing scene which develop pleasantly. "In Danger's Hour," a Thanhouser drama, tells a simple but interesting story of two girls and an almost human dog. A thrilling rescue is made by the animal and he saves one of the girls from drowning. It is a story full of sweet sentiment, is well played and has a good idea of it.

AT THE COLONIAL.

Frank Bailey is offering an original specialty of songs and Italian impersonations. Four reels of feature pictures are also being shown at each performance at the Colonial and the program is changed daily.

NEWMAN TRAVELTALK.

A good sized audience attended the interesting illustrated traveltalk of E. M. Newman at the Oliver last evening. His subject was "The Riviera to Paris" with many current pictures of the present war and the devastated cities of northern France. Absorbing, as always, his talk was even more interesting than any of those that had preceded it, on account of the more general interest in his subjects. The tour began with splendid views, but in colored slides and motion pictures of the beautiful resorts along the northern coast of Italy and the southern coast of France. From Genoa to Marseilles, no interesting spot was omitted. His exclusive views of the renowned Monte Carlo were particularly interesting. Pleasure resorts with their gardens, fashionable promenades, casinos and carnivals were shown in charming detail. In the valley of the Rhone quaint cities were visited, then Paris was visited and found to be no longer gay, but very grave. New impressions were gained from the pictures of the French capital in times of war. Military maneuvers were shown and vast armies in action. A particularly striking series of pictures taken from a dirigible balloon were repeated from a former lecture. Recently taken scenes that depict the horrors of conflict were shown and interestingly elaborated upon. Incidental views of the great conflict now raging had come within the range of Mr. Newman's camera and shown here for the first time. In every respect the talk was most instructive and entertaining. Next Tuesday the fifth and final talk will be given, his subjects being "Berlin, the war center" and he promises down-to-the-minute views and motion pictures of actual scenes and operations on the battlefields and in the cities of the war zone.
