

TWO EX-SOLDIERS ON POLICE FORCE

Steve Gorka and Otto Dietl Are Appointed to Fill Vacancies—Safety Board Hears Reports for Month.

BULLETIN.
Three more new policemen were named shortly after noon today by the board of safety, they being Justus C. Bloom, Joseph Chesnar and Alfred Leusch.

The regular meeting of the board of safety was held Friday morning, featured by the submission of monthly reports and the appointment of two new policemen. The two new "cops" are Steve Gorka, 1419 W. Ford st., and Otto Dietl, 914 E. Miner st. Both men are ex-soldiers. Gorka was honorably discharged from Battery D in 1911, while Dietl received his honorable discharge papers from Co. D of the 21st Infantry in 1908. Dietl at present is first lieutenant of the local Co. F of militia.

The report of the detective department showed a total of 49 arrests and the recovery of $224 of lost and stolen property. In the Bertillon system established at the beginning of the year it is reported 5,000 records. Of this number 600 outside and 54 local records were entered during February.

A total of 154 arrests were made by the police during the month. At the "Hotel de Gink" 830 lodgers were kept, 107 patrol calls were made, 23 auxiliary calls, eight ambulance calls. A distance of 438 miles was covered in 138 runs. Merchandise and money to the amount of $895.40 that was reported lost or stolen was recovered and returned to proper owners.

The fire department reported 159 runs for a distance of 297 1/2 miles. This work necessitated the laying of 19,150 feet of hose and the raising of 1,642 feet of ladder and 917 gallons of chemicals.

Roy N. Dickey, city electrician reported a total of 176 inspections, 13 condemnations and the issuing of 86 permits.

Eyron B. Miller, scaler of weights and measures, reported a total of 32 inspections. Public scales collections amounted to $37.90, while the total receipts were $39.40. The number of producers on the market was 97.

"TOM" O'CONNELL, FORMER PATROLMAN, IS DEAD AFTER SHORT ILLNESS

Thomas O'Connell, 31 years old, an ex-member of the South Bend police department, died Friday morning at 8 o'clock at St. Joseph's hospital following a short illness of pneumonia. O'Connell was born in Limerick, Ireland, in 1883 and came to America in 1909. He came to South Bend shortly after and has lived here since.

Surviving him are two brothers, John in Limerick, Ireland, Patrick of New York, a sister, Marie, of South Bend, and his mother in Ireland. He was appointed a patrolman on July 6, 1911 serving in the downtown business district during the greater part of his three and a half years of service. He was considered to be one of the most efficient officers following charges preferred by J. H. Quilhot.

About a week ago he was taken to St. Joseph's hospital to be treated for lung trouble, with which he had been suffering for some time. He formerly roomed at 224 N. St. Peter st.

TAX COLLECTORS SEND OUT LAST NOTICES

The delinquent tax collectors, working from the office of County Treasurer Martin, have sent out notices to the delinquent tax payers calling attention to the fact that taxes are due and that said notices is the last warning before the wagon is sent out to take away property. There was approximately $12,000 due on last year's tax list and of this amount there has been $1,000 collected by the special collectors.

An investigation showed that the number of delinquents to be collected from was less than at first it was expected there would be. This is due to the fact that many persons have moved from the county or cannot be found to be levied upon. There arises also cases of persons so poverty stricken that no attempt is made to collect taxes from them.

However, a large per cent of the delinquents are those persons who believe that they should beat the county out of all that they can and also who believe that they cannot be forced to pay their taxes. When the delinquent collectors start forth with their wagon it will be for the purpose of taking in charge pianos, sewing machines, horses or whatever of value can be found to satisfy the claims of the county.

FINE TWO CAUGHT IN RAID NEXT CITY HALL

In the very shadow of the city hall a raid was made early last night and five negroes were taken from the second floor of the building at 208 N. Main st. These arrests were made by Marie Jones, charged with conducting a house of ill fame; James Brooks, Marlon Bailey and Bain Asbrook, charged with frequenting, and Vivian Grady, charged with intoxication.

All five were arraigned in police court this morning. The case against Marie Jones was dismissed. Brooks and Bailey were fined $10 and costs and 10 days in jail. The sentence was suspended. Asbrook's case was continued to March 8. One charge against Vivian Grady was dismissed while on the charge of intoxication she was fined $1 and costs.

The raid was conducted by Chief Kuespert and Ser't William Barnhart.

NAME MORE DIRECTORS FOR NURSE ASSOCIATION

Complying with an amendment to its constitution providing for a board of 15 trustees instead of 11, the Visiting Nurse association held a called meeting Friday morning at the Chamber of Commerce and elected four new trustees. Those named were Mrs. Otto Baestian, Mrs. H. H. Ginz, Mrs. M. Russell and Miss Mae White. The association membership and the amount of work done has increased to such an extent that a larger board was felt necessary.

The casualties in this "war" have been heavy so far but with the reinforcement, the sheriff expects to capture the band soon. Old Polk, father of Tee-Na-Gat, is shown in the picture.

FIVE PHYSICIANS HEARD BY JURORS

Testify Waldo R. Ballou Did Not Meet His Death Through Accident—Brain and Heart Were Normal.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., March 5.—Mrs. Helen Angele, authoress, divorcee and wealthy Bohemian leader, sat before a jury and forced a smile to her pallid lips Thursday while five physicians all but shattered her defense that Waldo R. Ballou, millionaire clubman, whose battered body was found in front of her fashionable apartments in Stamford, met his death through accident.

There was nothing forced about the plump little divorcee's smile when she entered the court room for the second day of her trial on a charge of manslaughter. Her attorneys were contending that Ballou, 69 years old, clubman and politician, had plunged down the stairway of the apartment house to his death either as a result of a stroke of apoplexy or heart disease. And seemingly there was no rebuttal to this contention—for a physician who performed an autopsy on the body swore that both the heart and the brain—the only organs by which the presence of either of the diseases could be determined, were missing.

But Thursday five physicians, led by Dr. Bruce Weaver of New York, took the stand and one after another swore that they had examined both heart and brain of the dead man and that neither showed the slightest evidence of either of the afflictions on which Mrs. Angele was pinning her faith. There was not the slightest abnormality, they swore, which should cause a fall such as Mrs. Angele has described. They declared that it would have been all but impossible for Ballou to have fallen in such a manner as to have landed on the back of his head and burst his skull at its base, at the very juncture of skull and neck. Finally State's Atty. Cummings brought out the fact that Ballou's knees and knuckles were battered and bruised, indicating that he was hurled head and face foremost down the stairway as a result of a terrific blow struck from behind.

When the physicians were through Mr. Cummings showed two diagrams of the apartments where the accident occurred. Step by step, exhibiting an uncanny picture of the blood-smeared halls, walls and floor, the corridors and rooms he had coached Harold A. Parsons, a civil engineer, to trace a course through the corridors and rooms of the apartment and designate here a pool of blood, there a deep red smear and all along the halls and down the stairs prints of a woman's bare feet crimson with the blood of the dead man. And all through this, her smile of defiance masking but thinly the struggle within her, Mrs. Angele, the worn-looking woman whom Ballou visited that night, sat at the side of her father.

Leonard Blondell, watching her lawyer. She is due to take the stand herself next Tuesday. She will be her own star witness. Then will come the test of the accused woman.

Cooperation for Safety

As a part of the safety first movement, which seems to have attained a firm hold upon the industrial world several large corporations employing many workmen have gone directly to the men for advice. At first the men were skeptical, believing that the efforts of employers to have them express their opinions was a scheme to introduce some new form of scientific management. But when, as happened in one large steel mill, a committee of workmen were called into the superintendent's office during working hours and asked to recommend devices for reducing the number of accidents in their various departments, they looked at what they had termed "meddling" from a new angle.

The result was that in this particular works the men entered so heartily into the new relation that the office was flooded with suggestions. Then a permanent committee was appointed to confer regularly with the superintendent. Through talking with him frankly and informally about their welfare, the men gained an insight into the problems and responsibilities of factory management. There had been a feeling of antagonism between the management and the men which the superintendent had tried in vain to eradicate. From their conferences the men returned to work and to talk. They told what had actually transpired in the conference and as the safety devices were installed the antagonism gave place to cooperation.

When a department was able to make an unusually good report concerning its reduction of accidents, the men employed therein were presented with small tokens such as combs or watch charms. Although at one time these presents would have been sneered at as a kind of petty bribe, they are now regarded with pride. Accidents have been reduced to an almost negligible number. In the early days it was customary for the foreman to reprimand a man who suffered from an accident due to his own carelessness. Now however, the reprimand comes from his fellow-workmen. The workmen consider it a disgrace to be injured in an avoidable accident, and they do not hesitate to express their displeasure over a piece of negligence serious enough to demand a written report from their department to the superintendent's
