RE-ARRANGE ROUTES FOR MAIL CARRIERS

Collection Time on 162 Mail Boxes Also Changed to Better Service.

A rearrangement of the routes for the mail carriers of the city has just been completed by George A. Swintz, assistant superintendent of mails. The work has covered 162 mail boxes scattered throughout the city.

In this connection there are several rules of the service which it is well for the patrons of the postoffice to keep in mind. All of the rules applying to the delivery and collection of mail are made with the simple view of bettering the service. One of the most important aids to the carriers, and one which the public is perhaps the most neglectful of, is the matter of house numbers.

Mail Boxes Urged. According to postal rules one of the greatest aids to the service is the placing of mail boxes at the entrance to each house.

According to postal rules one of the greatest aids to the service is the placing of mail boxes at the entrance to each house. Carriers are not permitted to put mail under a door nor are they supposed to wait more than 30 seconds after making their presence at the door known.

Property of the approximate value of $20,000 is disposed of by the will of George Cutter which was entered for probate Tuesday morning.

TUESDAY FRONT YARD DAY IN CLEAN-UP

Wednesday Will Be Observed as Repair Day and Thursday as Paint Day.

If you failed to tidy up your front lawn today you were out of accord with the rest of the city. Today was "front yard" day, the second of clean-up week, and the day in which the lawn, walks and other portions of the city's front yards should have received the attention of their owners.

From the scrubby dandelion plants up to the hedges, lawns and flower gardens—all should have been made ready for the summer season.

School children, housewives and citizens in general united with the committee of the Chamber of Commerce which had the plans for the week in charge, and endeavored to "tidy up" in all ways their premises.

Wednesday will be repair day. Citizens on that day will be expected insofar as possible to repair dilapidated buildings, do any minor remodeling their residences might need and build up and repair broken down fences.

Thursday is to be paint day, and all citizens of the city will be expected to paint the outside and interior of their homes and to treat similarly all outhouses, fences and other structures where that improvement is needed.

DISMISSES OLDEST CASE

Action Started When Superior Court Was Organized Is Disposed Of.

In addition to rapidly disposing of divan cases in the superior court docket, Judge Ford is making an especial effort to have old cases of every sort disposed of. Among several other cases which were dismissed Tuesday morning was the oldest case on the docket. This case was dismissed by the plaintiff. The case was that of the International Harvester Co. against Jacob W. Mixell and was a suit to collect $45 on account. A judgment against the plaintiff was returned in court of Justice Enos Long, in Penn township, in September, 1907. An appeal was taken to the superior court soon after that court was organized.

POFF SUES RAILROAD FOR $25,000 DAMAGES

Former Car Inspector for Lake Shore Charges That Carelessness Caused Injuries.

Suit for $25,000 for alleged personal injuries was filed in the circuit court Tuesday morning by Charles E. Poff against the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern Railroad Co.

It is alleged in the complaint that the defendant was scalded by steam from a steam hose while he was acting in the capacity of car inspector in the South Bend yards on Dec. 6, 1914.

It is said that as he was uncoupling cars from a Chicago-New York train a switchman, by the name of Cook, carelessly turned on the steam which the steam hose was open and that, as a result, Poff was scalded and permanently injured about the lower part of the body.

ONCE WEALTHY REALTY DEALER OF CHICAGO PLUNGES TO DEATH. CHICAGO, May 4.—The final chapter in the career of Charles H. Rounds was written today when preparations were made for his burial. "Charley," as he was known to thousands, ended his life last yesterday by plunging off the roof of the Auditorium hotel, 399 feet to the pavement. About the time of the world's fair in Chicago, "Charley" Rounds was a typical broad shouldered, popular, jovial "good fellow" and bon vivant. He was then the largest individual factor in the real estate trade of Chicago. It was said that his good fellowship, as represented in his inclination to follow the booze route, proved his undoing. Of late years, his business activities dwindled, and he was seldom sought any more by prospective purchasers or sellers of real estate. Before plunging to his death Rounds wrote a note outlining plans for his burial. CALLS LAW INVALID. COLUMBUS, O., May 4.—The state supreme court today declared unconstitutional the state law which provides a $100 fine or six months' imprisonment for discharging an employe because of membership in a labor union.
