

South Bend Team Defeats Fort Wayne Squad—Bowlers Plan Big Season

MANAGERS HAVE BEEN KNOWN TO TALK TOO MUCH

James C. Moffat, an Old-Timer, Pulls Surprise on Himself When He Sent George Ryan to Sleep.

By Ed. W. Smith.

There are times in the boxing game when a manager can be too all-fired smart. There are times when they overreach themselves and scramble the financial eggs beyond all hope.

Do you remember James C. Moffat in the ring? Of course you don't, but if you date back a little way you will smile with satisfaction when you read the name of Jack Moffat, the old north side midget, who was one of the hardest and by long odds the most satisfactory scrapper we had around Chicago in the old days.

Jack was named James C. long before he had any voice in the matter at all and because he found that his folks objected some to his boxing he decided the first time he was introduced in the ring that he would call himself Jack Moffat or something of the sort. But the announcement bungled and he became Jack Moffat.

It wasn't long before Jack became quite a fellow around Chicago, but this little story has to do with the days when he wasn't so much, as Jack himself freely admits.

George Ryan, the Milwaukee middle weight, was to have boxed some body in the beer city—they call it cream city, for much the same reason perhaps—one night and the opponent fell down at the last moment. The promoter wired to Chicago for a substitute and Al Shroesbree, then one of the best boxers we had around here, got hold of it.

Sought a Substitute.

He was in no shape to take it himself but he sought Moffat.

"Here's a $250 for you," Al said. "I'll be your manager and we'll try and make Ryan split it. What do you say?"

"But I can't beat Ryan," Moffat protested modestly, for at that time he didn't overestimate himself or have anything approaching a swollen cranium.

To the dogs with that, it's the coin we want," answered Shroesbree, who proceeded to wire for the match. He got it and with Moffat and a few friends they boarded a train.

Ryan kicked about a split of the coin. It must be a winner's and a loser's end, he said, $2,000 and $50. Nothing doing with Shroesbree. He insisted the fight be a draw if both men were there and also a draw if the police interfered. You see, in those days the referees gave regular decisions in Milwaukee.

Ryan and the promoter finally agreed to this on Moffat's plea that he wasn't in shape and he had taken the fight on twenty-four hours' notice. Well, they went at it and sure enough, Moffat, who hadn't done a minute's training for the match, was completely spent at the end of the first round. Shroesbree, who was seconding him, tried to keep him going, Moffat, who was the gamiest of the game, tried his best but at the end of the second round, Jack was so tired he couldn't hold his hands up.

"I'm done," he said as he sat in his corner.

"Go in and throw him over the ropes and maybe the police will stop it," advised Shroesbree, who had visions of a split of that $250 going glimmering.

Moffat Gets an Idea.

The third round started and Ryan, seeing he had Moffat to the bad, started after him wildly. Moffat staggered hither and yon, trying to dodge the awful belts Ryan was aiming at him and trying his best to stay, suddenly it occurred to Moffat to do something himself and getting a fine opening on the intruding Ryan, he shot out his right plumb on Ryan's jaw.

With a moan George fell at full length on his back and was counted out without making as much as a tremor.

The tired Moffat, who wanted to lie down beside Ryan and have a snooze, stared in amazement at his work. Then he turned to his corner and when he saw Shroesbree the money end of it came back to him.

"You're a fine manager," he laughed.

"Yes, and you're a fine fighter," retorted Shroesbree. "You just double crossed yourself out of $75, that's all."

But Jack didn't care as it gave him plenty of reputation and got him some pretty good battles in Chicago.

Jack now is a detective sergeant at the sheriff's station and the decidedly happy father of a family of nine children. And Jack doesn't look a bit different, with the exception of a little added poundage, than he did the day he sucker-punched George Ryan that awful one on the chin.

FOUR MORE CARS ENTERED
Elgin Road Races Expected to Produce Fast Time.

ELGIN, Ill., Aug. 16.—With 27 cars the eyes of the automobile world is being focused on the Elgin National road races over the Kane county course Friday and Saturday. Four new entries were received over night by the committee, including two Dusenbergs which will be at the direction of Ralph Mulford and Pete Henderson. An average speed of more than 80 miles an hour is predicted for this year's races.

FORT WAYNE IS EASILY DOWNED BY LOCAL BAND

Printers are Walloped to Score of Nine to Two While Fisher Holds Them to Trio of Swats.

Eddie Coffey and Ben Koehler returned to the ranks of South Bend baseball yesterday afternoon at Springbrook park. Incidentally, the Independents took an easy game from the Fort Wayne Printers, the locals playing most of the baseball. Fisher, the South Bend hurler, was responsible for this, for he gave the club five scattered hits and pitched very good ball with men on the bases. A sensational running catch by P. Jacobs and a three bagger with men on second and third by W. Hostiser featured the contest. Next Sunday the Specials will meet Wakarusa at Wakarusa.

The Billy DeRose Specials won from the Sunnysides Sunday afternoon at Kaley park by the score of 5 to 0. J. Taberski held the Sunnysides to five scattered hits and pitched very good ball with men on the bases. A sensational running catch by P. Jacobs and a three bagger with men on second and third by W. Hostiser featured the contest. Next Sunday the Specials will meet Wakarusa at Wakarusa.

Oliver school won from the Prairie Coats Sunday afternoon in indoor by the score of 12 to 0 on the Oliver grounds. The Oliver school club would like to arrange games with any team averaging 16 years. Call between 6 and 7 o'clock on Joe Benko, 805 W. Indiana av., or Mike Priner, 1614 Kendall st.

Coffey has not been in a regular game since South Bend closed its doors on the Central league—or vice versa, as the case may be—at the end of the 1912 season. But in spite of this, he beat out a bunt, got a scratch hit, scored a run and stole himself a base. All of this was done out of five appearances.

Koehler was robbed of two chances to hit safely, he having been hit himself on two different occasions. He scored a run, landed one safety and went out to the infield with nobody on the other time started by Benko and Watt, two lads who tried out with Smith in the Southern Michigan, were on the Fort Wayne lineup.

South Bend did its first scoring in the second round, getting a pair of runs with many a hit. They started it with a walk. He went to third when Tegtmeier made his first boot on Williams' grounder. It was an overthrow that allowed Williams to go to second. Casey grounded to C. McKee, Touhey scoring and Williams going to third. Fish fled to C. McKee, who threw high to the plate to get Williams, giving South Bend another run.

Broder and Coffey each got two bats in the third when the Independents batted all around and got seven counters. Broder was first up and drove a double to the extreme left field. Coffey beat out a safety and landed right in front of the plate, sending Broder to third. "Turk" stole and Francis filled the bases when he drew a pass. Koehler was hit, forcing in Broder. Touhey drove in Coffey and Francis with his hit on second, going to second himself. He scored on Williams' bang through short and the hitter went to second on the throw.

Casey and Fish each were easy outs to first, but Fisher got around to second and scored. Williams when Tegtmeier heaved low on his grounder. Tegtmeier did the same thing with Broder's rap and Fisher, who was left ended it with a grounder to L. McKee.

From there in, the Independents left it to Fisher, for they only got three more hits after that. The thrower was capable of the best, taking the majority of the Fort Wayne boys himself. He fanned 14 in two, took one on a fly and mixed up in two other plays. He fanned the first three men who faced him.

The Printers got two hits in the second and got their first run. C. McKee hit through Casey and Touhey and went to third on Henline's single to center. Henline started a steal and Fish pegged high to Koehler, allowing C. McKee to count. The other came in the eighth. Tegtmeier walked and Watt singled. Williams dropped L. McKee's hard fly to center, filling the bases. C. McKee fled to Fisher. With the bases crowded, Henline walked, forcing in a run.

GOOD SEASON IS ANTICIPATED BY LOCAL BOWLERS

New Leagues Are Forming and Much Activity is Being Shown by Older Bodies.

Every indication points to the coming bowling season of being the most prosperous in local history. There is considerable activity in all of the old established leagues and there are several new ones forming.

Of the leagues that already set for the ensuing season are The News-Times league, the Printers, Olivers, Singers, Tribune and Postoffice leagues. The old City league is in process of reorganization, which will probably have a compliment of eight instead of six clubs as last year.

It is very likely that the Oliver and Singers' leagues will be increased in the number of clubs this season. Both of these organizations carried eight teams last year, but there are so many new recruits asked for positions on teams that it is quite probable that both of them will carry either 12 clubs, which may be distributed in two separate leagues.

SOME CHANGES.
At the Elks' temple the committee in charge expects to make considerable changes in the three leagues, which operated last year. There is a great deal of enthusiasm among the antlered herd and the prospects are very bright for four leagues this year as against three of last season.

The United league also promises to increase their membership over last year, when that organization carried eight teams. Because of the limited capacity the management of the Elks' and Singers' leagues is in dire straits as to the disposition of the number of applicants for membership in this organization.

Much of the increased interest in the great indoor sport is due to the installation of new public allies, which have found enormous play in the one part of a season since they have been installed. It is really remarkable how the game has grown in such short space of time.

At the Orpheum allies alone there are now 84 teams, which are all set or in process of formation for league play during the ensuing season, for which dates and schedules have already been allotted for that period. This does not include of several fraternal organizations, which have signified their intentions of forming organizations for bowling.

There is also a movement on foot for thorough local organization for the bowlers of South Bend. The primary motive therefore is the prospects of landing the national tournament of the American Bowling congress for South Bend for the immediate future. An important meeting will be held for that purpose some day next week.

One of the principal requisites for the bringing of the big national event to this city will be the obtaining of a building large enough, which also will be within easy access of the business center, to hold such an event. But local men connected with big pub-

Would Be Boom.

Holdings a bowling tournament of such magnitude would mean considerable for South Bend in a business way as well as from an advertising standpoint. The big A. B. C. classic means the bringing into a city of from 3,500 to 5,000 people during a course of three or four weeks. There coming and stay are different from an ordinary convention in that the throng is scheduled to come and go from time to time as not over 400 people would be in the city at any one time, making it rather easy to care for them in the matter of hotel accommodations, etc.

The class of men who attend big bowling classics, many of them with their wives and families, usually do so for more than just competition for the sport and glory to be gained at play, but are as a rule the better class of people who take these trips for pleasure and recreation. Consequently they are not confined to spend a certain prescribed sum of money but are apt to prove very good customers in a business way in the cities they may visit.

ANOTHER ONE JUMPS
PROVIDENCE, R. I., Aug. 16.—Ralph Comstock, sold to Cincinnati during the past week by Owner Lannin of the Providence Internationals, Sunday jumped to the Pittsburgh Federals.

Two agents of the outlaws met Comstock here and closed the deal for his services.

The purchase price given by Cincinnati is said to be $5,200 and Comstock demanded $1,000 before he would sign.

When this was refused he joined the Federals. His contract with the Pittsburgh Federals is for two years.

YOUR DECISION IN SELECTING A DOCTOR MAY MEAN YOUR FUTURE HEALTH AND HAPPINESS.
DIRECT MEDICATION
The Most Important Medical Achievement of the 20th Century.

For the past fifty years medical scientists have worked steadily, with the view of devising a method of direct medication, that is, a method by which medicinal substances could be administered directly into the blood, the part or organ diseased. First came the hypodermic syringe and the administration of curative agents under the skin or directly into the diseased organs. Some ten years ago the administration of saline solutions directly into the blood stream was advocated and practiced. Since this time medical science has gradually progressed until at the present time the direct method of medication has been perfected and has about taken the place of the old quackish way of treating many of the vital diseases. And why not? It is the more exact, safe and rational way of combating diseases, especially those caused by germs circulating in the blood.

Always Up-to-the-Minute
Talent and service is the kind you get when you doctor with me. This method will cure in from a half to a third the time required by the old, by the mouth method of administration. It is easier, safer and surer. No weary weeks and months of waiting, dosing and drugging with nauseous mixtures which only upset your stomach and destroy your appetite.
