"Five O'clock Tea Veil" the Latest

By La Racontense.

The five o'clock tea veil is the newest and smartest thing. Here it is shown in black, the foundation being a hexagon mesh.

The Opposition club met Monday evening with Mrs. Lloyd Beyer, Leland av. The time was spent with needlework and socially.

Thirty-five members of the Phila-thea class of Westminster Presbyterian church were entertained at a Washington's birthday party Monday evening at the home of Miss Maude Beckford, 707 Lindsey av.

The members of Portage Park Bible class met for their regular meeting Monday afternoon with Mrs. R. W. Hewson, 1161 Woodward av.

Employees of the Wyman store enjoyed with a dancing and card party at Byler hall Monday evening.

In celebration of the birthday of George Washington the pupils of the seventh and eighth grades of St. Joseph's academy entertained their parents and guests yesterday afternoon with a program in the school auditorium.

The feature of the entertainment was a lecture by Sister Superior M. Antonine, a former teacher at Washington, D. C., who gave a stereoscopic lecture on Mount Vernon. She very entertainingly described the life of George Washington as he dwelt in the quaint Virginia village.

The heart-shaped program cards, with a small picture of the tree and hatchet, with a tiny American flag, which will be held at the Aulen W. R. C., No. 14. The minut will also be given there. There is also a possibility of its being given at the county infirmary.

The entire program was as follows: "Washington," by Helene Felix; chorus, "Indiana," by both grades; pantomime, by girls; piano duet, "Valse Belue," by Mary Rose Butler and Florence Guthrie; "The Ballad of the Sweet Pea," by Margaret McClane; song, "The Sweetest Story Ever Told," by Frances Ziegler; minuet, by the Misses Bennett, Esther Cutting, Rose Mary Bliss, Loverna Schilling, Lucille Witamyer, Charlotte Jordan, Edith Bogner, Annette Crockett and Catherine Hall Smith.

The young people are both well known here in social circles. Miss Bogue having been employed as bookkeeper for the past three years at the Leehr and Ransberger Wall Paper Co., N. Michigan st., and Mr. Keir having been employed for the past 17 years as commercial traveler for E. B. Rupel. The wedding will take place in the early spring.

Games, contests and music featured the evening's entertainment. The hostesses for the evening were Miss Helen Adams, Miss Margaret McGill, Miss Ruth Liggett and Mrs. Lela Miranda. An especially interesting feature was the reading of original biographies of other members of the class entitled "Martyrdom."

The engagement of Miss Norene Sherr and Mr. Golinck, both of this city, was also made known. At the business session the annual election of officers was held and resulted as follows: Miss Maude Oko, president; Miss Edna Schafer, vice-president; Mrs. Clarence Fike, secretary; Mrs. James Frame, treasurer; and Miss Florence Beard, missionary secretary.

Secrecy of femininity in South Bend caused the Notre Dame day students to inaugurate a unique feature in their colonial dancing party which was given in Place hall last night. Zeimer Finch, the assistant athletic manager, was the mysterious lady in red who led the grand march with the president of the association, Edward N. Marcus. The makeup for the leading lady was furnished by the Ellsworth store, and because of the excellent resemblance, no one was able to find the name of the charming young lady.

The patrons and patronesses of the dancing party were Prof. and Mrs. J. Tiernan, Prof. and Mrs. J. Hines, Prof. and Mrs. J. M. Cooney, Prof. and Mrs. W. L. Benitz, Prof. and Mrs. J. Plante, and Hon. and Mrs. F. J. Varrillat. The committee of local boys in charge of the affair were Vincent D. Vaughan, Otto T. Kuhle, Donald M. Lower, Joseph A. LaFortune, Robert C. Carr, Emmett A. Rohyans, Melvin G. Brentlinger, Lewis B. Lang and Clifford D. Eden. The president and secretary, Edward N. Marcus and Leo Berger, were also ex-officio members of the committee.

American flags and patriotic bunting was used profusely in the decorating of the hall. In one corner an artistic pergola was made out of bunting and swansons. In one corner of the hall was a picture of the father of our country and several hundred large American flags were used around the picture. The music for the program of 15 dances was played by the full Collegians' orchestra under the direction of John Minavio.

Miss Minnie French, 293 E. Marion st., was hostess Monday evening to members of the As You Like It club. The program for the evening, in charge of Miss Addie Reade, consisted of readings on the life of Lincoln. Refreshments were served during a pleasant social time. Miss Grace Cady, S. William st., will entertain the club on March 6.

Miss Edna Blood of Chicago, who is the guest of Mrs. Victor Jones, W. Washington av., gave an informal talk Monday afternoon at a meeting of the department of current events of the Progress club.

George Walter of Niles spent Sunday with his son, George Walter, Jr., 1045 N. O'Brien st. Miss Helen Carten, 362 W. Washington st., has returned from a visit in Chicago.

Edward LaFortune, 908 E. Howard st., has returned from a visit in Detroit. Fred Sack, 222 St. Louis st., has gone to Chicago for a few days' visit.

Tea Table Talks

WOMEN'S FEELINGS. After reading some letters the other day, I thought how much a letter can visualize characteristics.

The one I had just read was so much like the writer: so full of long description, details of interesting things, people and what things cost. Like a badly painted picture it was all out of focus, with no perspective, lacking in color, so blurred and with no definite outline, that it left no distinct impression of anything or anybody.

Another letter was so full of the personality of the writer, so full of charm and grace, that I could see her, I felt that I was with her, seeing and doing all that she was doing. She conveyed to me the atmosphere of the places she was visiting. Her buoyant, idealistic nature was revealed in every line.

Have you not noticed how easy it is to understand people through their writings. The correspondence of celebrated women keep their interest long after they are dead. It is because of reading their letters, those pedants, those witty or sentimental women clearly reveal themselves. Women rarely write letters, except to speak of themselves and their own little of their personality into every word.

A woman does not elaborate her periods. Emotion, pure emotion dictates her phrases. When she feels strongly she writes expressively without any trouble, aided by the sincerity of her nature. With her wicker word one and hawdler, deceive or dazzle because we watch the eyes and lips. They please, and allure, but the black words on the white paper betray their naked soul.

Men, on the other hand, are diplomats when they write. By the constant use of the pen in the affairs of life, they are able to disguise their natures as well as their thoughts, either in impersonal, utitarian or literary prose.

Through his cunning use of rhetoric and professional dexterity you can often find anything you want in a man's letter, whether it is personal or business. Still it is so diplomatically phrased that he can give another interpretation of his phrases if called upon to do so. Yes, a man's letter seldom reveals anything of his personality unless it be extreme caution or insincerity.
