The afternoon was spent with social diversions and music and refreshments were served. Carnations and smilax were used for decorating. The out-of-town guests were, Mrs. Laura J. Davis of Niles and Miss Ruth Bursing of Evansville, Ill. On Thursday evening, Miss Ethel Cordray entertained in her honor. Music and games with refreshments featured the entertainment.

With the pre-lenten season about to close, the sophomore class of the University of Notre Dame gave its annual cotillion last night at the Oliver hotel. The dance was held in the tapestry room which was appropriately decorated for the occasion. On the west wall was placed a large "18" as the class will graduate in 1918. The numerals were artistically made out of natural flowers and small electric bulbs added a bright effect, which made the numbers paramount among the decorations. Pennants, blankets, smilax and swansonia completed the decorations.

There were 75 couples present, and this number proving too great for the capacity of the tapestry room, the doors were thrown open and the dancers were permitted to dance in the adjoining rooms. The grand march was led by the president of the class, Thomas King and Miss Ruth-Baker of 146 Laporte av. The programs for the occasion were an artistic combination of the colors of the university, which have always been the gold and blue. Several features were introduced into the dancing by the presence of many of the latest steps. These new features in the program made it original and out of the regular class of dance program. The program of 18 dances was played by the Messick 12-piece orchestra.

The patrons and patronesses of the affair were Dr. and Mrs. F. J. Powers, Judge and Mrs. T. E. Howard, Judge and Mrs. F. J. Vurpillat, Prof. and Mrs. W. L. Benitz and Prof. and Mrs. John T. Tiernan. The class officers for the sophomore are: Thomas King, president; E. J. Ronchetti, vice-president; J. W. McKenna, secretary; J. E. Murphy, treasurer; J. L. Sweeney, sergeant-at-arms. Tea Table Talks

By May De Witt Talmage

SELF RELIANCE. Self reliance is the motor power that has taken multitudes over the road of success. The machinery is sometimes clogged by interference from outside forces, but if you have sufficient supply of self reliance it will carry you through in spite of everything.

Self reliance lies behind the world's work. All our modern improvements, changes economic, or the inventions, that have revolutionized the world are the result of the self reliance and confidence of some man who felt that some condition could be bettered and that his ideas would give existence to something that did not exist.

It is the man who puts off all foreign support and who stands alone that has accomplished the great, the new things, in the world. The development of the race has entirely depended on the individual.

Behind the world's work is always the single plan of the individual. There is one man behind the appearance of a new political party, plans for social betterment, new spiritual philosophy. Much of the power of the individual is lost when men look away from themselves, when they depend too much on others, when they think of what each man has, or is, and not enough of what they themselves are, or could be in the scheme of existence.

Epictetus wrote: "When it is in our power to take care of one thing we choose rather to take care of many, and to encumber ourselves with many, and by this multiplicity of encumbrances we are bowed down."

We have all our own destiny to make as well as our part to play in the scheme of life. Nobody can ever do another's real work, and if it is not done it is likely it will remain undone forever. Whenever we try to do anything in a certain way it is always easier to do it the next time, and a trifle easier the next, until that which was difficult at first becomes easier to accomplish and with scarcely any effort on our part.

"Surrounded, surrounded, in measureless oceans of space, 'Ceaselessly musing, venturing, throwing, seeking the spheres to connect them; 'Till the bridges you will need, be formed; till the ductile anchor hold; 'Till the gossamer thread you ding, catch somewhere, O my soul!"
