Tea Table Talks

By May De Witt Talmage

WE ALL NEED THIS. Waiting in an office for a salesman the other day, my attention was attracted by the tinkling of the telephone bell...

Later in the day while in the midst of a perplexity that phrase came back to me and I wished it were possible to pick up some wireless telephone, tell all of life's troubles, worries and anxieties and hear a voice say: "We'll fix it all right." Children do this when they run and tell mother. The fact that she is there to take the responsibility...

We must all have some wireless telephone that will connect us somewhere in times of anxiety, trouble and great stress, or life would be pretty hopeless at times. If mother and father have gone, and we stand at the head of the line, it may be a friend or a member of the family who will ask, "What's the trouble?"

Before we have an emergency call it would be well to get the number of the station we want. We may have mental or spiritual help that we hear from every day. So much the better, but there are others of us who at times feel the need of the telephone where we can tell our problems, or worry and we long to hear a voice at the other end say: "Don't worry, I'll fix it."

Don't imagine there is medical virtue in an old sock or piece of red flannel. Don't believe superstitious. A sore throat is a serious matter and is not to be healed by such make-believe remedies.
