

HAPPENINGS IN AND ABOUT TOWN

ADAM WEAVER IS 85 YEARS OLD

Pioneer Resident of City Celebrates Anniversary at Son's Home Tuesday.

Adam Weaver, a resident of this city since 1856, and well known as one of the city's pioneers, is today observing his 85th birthday.

Not only is he celebrating his birthday today, but this week, Mr. Weaver, if the physicians permit, may leave his bed.

But more remarkable than the mending of the fractured hip, his friends believe, is the cheerful view with which the venerable pioneer regards all aspects of life.

Mr. Weaver is a staunch democrat. His father, then a resident of Virginia, voted for Thomas Jefferson, and Madison and Monroe, and again for Jackson in 1832.

Mr. Weaver was employed with the Singer Mfg. Co. for 29 years, Tuesday morning, just after the immediate members of his family gathered around his bedside to wish him happiness on his birthday.

Mr. Weaver's mind is active, his hearing remains perfect, and eye responsive so that he requires little attention. He reads the papers, devoting every bit of news that comes from the warring nations.

Mr. Weaver retired from active service when, as he puts it, he was a comparatively young man, 79 years old. His advice to the young man of today is to do a little more work than is naturally expected of him.

Mr. Weaver also has implicit faith in South Bend and the St. Joseph valley. He has watched its growth from a small struggling community with 5,000 inhabitants in 1856 up to the present time.

Mr. Sophia Kirkpatrick of Springfield, O., a sister of Mr. Weaver, who has been spending her time in South Bend at the bedside of her brother during his convalescence, will leave Wednesday for her home.

AGENTS OF PLOW REPUTATION

Says South Bend Product Was Hard to Place on "Repeat" Orders.

An element of surprise crept into the suit of Maria Casaday and others against W. G. McMillen of Indianapolis, formerly central agent of the corporation, to testify. It was not expected by the defense that he would be used as a witness in the case.

His testimony dealt with the reputation of the plows constructed by the South Bend concern. Introduction of this evidence was combated by attorneys for the defense on the grounds that the general reputation of an inanimate object could not be given and for the further reason that this evidence arose only from hearsay.

This contention was met by a statement from Atty. Marshall Howell, one of the plaintiff's lawyers, that in the Wine of Cardui case, now occupying the attention of the courts in Chicago, the reputation of the medicine was being established in the same way.

"Yes, but they can taste the stuff," retorted Atty. Sam Parker. "That is entirely different."

Judge Walter A. Funk allowed the introduction of the evidence. Mr. McMillen said that the South Bend company's plow had a good reputation as far as running and abilities were concerned, but was poor in regard to the material used in its construction.

The witness also told of his experiences in trying to sell plows in the central territory and stated that because of the heavy breakage of the "shares" and "standards" it was impossible to get dealers to renew orders after one season's trial.

The examination of G. Oliver Casaday was completed Tuesday morning. He had been on the stand two days detailing the mechanical arrangement and make-up of the corporation's factory. Representatives of the accounting firm of Chicago will be placed on the stand about Thursday, it is expected, to give testimony on an audit of books taken recently.

The version, as brought to official quarters here, follows: Pancho Villa, fresh from his easy victory at Guerrero, descended on Minaca in a gay mood. He swaggered into town at the head of his Dorados (golden ones), gleeful at the memory of how he had forced Gen. Cavazos and his staff to leap from a dance hall window and flee before his attack.

NUNER NAMED AS SOUTH BEND SCHOOL HEAD

It was very glad to receive the South Bend appointment. Nothing whatever has been done by the board on the appointment of the principal of the high school to succeed F. L. Sims, whose resignation will take effect during the summer.

IMEL AN ASPIRANT?

It is understood that H. G. Imel, the acting superintendent, is looking toward the principalship. Ernest I. Kizer, who is now the assistant principal of the high school, is also said to be a possibility for the high school position.

South Bend's school controversy started during the winter when E. B. Rupel and William Clem, who were appointed to the board by Mayor Keller, refused to renew Mr. Montgomery's contract. This action was taken after a committee composed of prominent citizens had been assured that Mr. Montgomery would be retained. When these assurances were given it was said that Mr. Nuner was to be made principal of the high school.

Men of every walk of life took an interest in the trouble and many committee meetings were held to get Messrs. Rupel and Clem to reconsider their action or give some reasons for refusing to reappoint the superintendent. Mr. Rupel issued a statement which was considered as damaging to Mr. Montgomery's character. Requests were made by several organizations that Rupel and Clem resign from the board. A. L. Hubbard, who was president of the board and favored Mr. Montgomery, resigned, but the other two failed to do so. Mayor Keller was asked to remove the other two members of the board, but he would take no action.

VILLA WOUNDED BY A MEXICAN

Reports to Army Headquarters Say Father of Pretty Girl Shot Bandit.

International News Service: EL PASO, Texas, April 11.—Further confirmation of reports that Pancho Villa was wounded was brought to army headquarters today. And with it came one of the blackest stories of the bandit's escapades yet told to concern the killings at Minaca.

The version, as brought to official quarters here, follows: Pancho Villa, fresh from his easy victory at Guerrero, descended on Minaca in a gay mood. He swaggered into town at the head of his Dorados (golden ones), gleeful at the memory of how he had forced Gen. Cavazos and his staff to leap from a dance hall window and flee before his attack.

Sympathizers told him that fresh mounts were to be had at the stables of George Locke, a horse dealer. They were badly needed. With a few of his men, Villa went to the stables to find Locke had fled and the buildings in charge of his coachman, Andreas Rehaza. In a nearby adobe hut was Rehaza's pretty young daughter, Adelita.

Rehaza, a big, broad-shouldered fellow, stood in the doorway as Villa approached, barring the way. "Do not fear, Amigo," grinned Villa. "We kill only gringos and false ones. Why do you bar the door?"

TRAPSHOOTING IS POPULAR SPORT

Devotees Increase Year by Year—Investment Totals Over $38,000,000.

International News Service: NEW YORK, Apr. 11.—Trapshooting is another one of those nice young sports that have come along during the past few years and wandered away many of the dyed-in-wool baseball fans.

The popularity of the target game has increased by leaps and bounds during the past few years. There are at least 300,000 active trapshooters in the country today, men who indulge in the sport regularly. There are almost as many more who have a fondness for busting the clays but who cannot find enough leisure to permit them to engage in more than five or six shots a year.

Statistics recently compiled show that there are in the United States at the present time approximately 3,000 registered clubs. The total outlay for these clubs for clubhouses, grounds, automatic traps and other devices is far beyond the $3,000,000 mark.

Investment Totals $38,000,000. The average expenditure for guns, gun cases, glasses, cleaning rods, shooting jackets and other trap clothing is about $50 per man, which means that the trapshooters of the country have laid out approximately $35,000,000 for their equipment.

This, added to the $3,000,000 for clubhouses, etc., shows that $38,000,000 has been expended in the sport. About 80,000,000 shots were fired during the 1915 season. Each cost an average of five cents. That means that trapshooters spend $3,000,000 annually for ammunition. Add to this the sums paid out for railroad fare, bus hire, hotel bills, etc.,—approximately $12,000,000—and you find that the lovers of the clay busting game spent $50,000,000 yearly in following their sport.

There will be 412 shooting tournaments during the season beginning in April and every community of any size will stage one or another of the shoots.

Sport Appeals to All. The beauty of the trap shooting sport is that it appeals to women as well as men, that it is a game for the very old and very young, as well as the middle-aged. It is not a game that calls for strenuous exercise; it doesn't tire the muscles. It's one that develops the keenness of the eye, speeds up the brain and aids health generally because it brings its devotees out into the open.

Probably the oldest trapshooter in the country is "Uncle Joe" Heinman of Wausau, Wis. He is 91 years old—and he never misses a shot in his particular section. "Uncle Joe" bangs the targets with astonishing regularity and his hitting average is far beyond that of the bulk of the ordinary shooters who are only one-half or one-third as old as "Uncle Joe."

There are on the list of registered trapshooters scores of men over the age of 80 year mark. Thousands are over 60. There are tens of thousands who are still in their teens. One of the real clever shooters is a 12-year-old youth who seems to have inherited the skill from his father who always ranked high in the tournaments.

Increased Year by Year. The number of women who are finding great pleasure in the great outdoor sport is increasing steadily. A few years ago there were only a scattering few. Today the feminine shooters total well along in the thousands. Many of them compete with the male persons in the various shoots and the averages turned in by the fair sex is surprisingly high.

Statistics covering the sport show that the number of enthusiasts has increased every year during the past 15 years. Never once has it showed up. There were only a scattering few tournaments back in 1901 to 1905. In 1913, however, the shoots numbered 286, in 1914 they jumped to 314 and last year 323 tournaments were staged. The number this year is nearly 100 beyond that of 1915.

"And the game is just hitting its stride," the trapshooters just say. "The public is just awakening to the pleasure that one gets in following the sport. When it fully realizes all the advantages of the game, there trapshooting army will number 2 to the millions."
