133 INDICTMENTS ARE FOUND VALID

Pleas in Abatement Are Withdrawn When Grand Juror Fack Is Found O. K.

The 133 indictments returned by the grand jury in its investigation into the so called cleanup staged by the Keller administration vice sleuths, will stand. Pleas in abatement, filed by the defense counsel in the gambling and frequenting cases, challenging the validity of the indictments on the grounds that a juror, Edward Fack, was disqualified, were withdrawn yesterday afternoon.

Prosecutor Chester R. Montgomery filed affidavits showing that the grand juror who sat in the February session was really the right party, a freholder and householder. It was also shown in the affidavit that Fack's name appeared in the tax duplicates and that no other man by the same name lived in the township. This further disclosed that the summons made by Sheriff Bailey or one of his deputies had been up to the proper party.

The defendants charged that the wrong Edward Fack had been secured for jury service.

The cases will be set down this morning for trial. The first to be heard will be next Monday.

Attorneys for the alleged liquor law violators, gamblers and the like, after withdrawing their pleas, permitted the court to enter an order on the docket overruling the abatement pleas.

HARRY DEJAEGERS GETS SUSPENDED SENTENCE

Judge Lets Kansas City Youth Off on Promise That He Go to Sanitarium.

Harry De Jaegers, the man arrested 10 days ago on a charge of entering the office of Dr. William B. McKinstry and stealing five morphine syringes and a bottle containing five codine tablets, was given a suspended sentence yesterday in circuit court.

Judge Funk gave him from one to eight years at the Jeffersonville reformatory, but suspended the sentence with the understanding that the defendant was to return to his home in Kansas City to be placed there in a sanitarium for treatment.

De Jaegers' parents were in South Bend yesterday and pleaded for the boy's liberty. According to their story, he contracted the "dope" habit while taking medicine for a toothache. He had never been in trouble before.

The value of the articles taken from the physician's office was placed at $3. The sentence imposed by the court was the maximum for petit larceny. De Jaegers is 22 years old.

MAY ORDER GATES FOR HIGHWAY CROSSING

Fail to Compromise on Lincoln Highway Grade Over New York Central at New Carlisle.

According to reports from Indianapolis St. Joseph county commissioners and officials of the New York Central have failed to reach a compromise on the proposed change in the Lincoln highway crossing near New Carlisle. It is stated, however, that the state public service commission will soon order a flagman or gates installed at the crossing. The crossing in question is held exceedingly dangerous, owing to the extreme angle at which the highway crosses the railway tracks. County officials have sought a viaduct to eliminate the danger.

TODAY'S BEAUTY HELP

You can keep your hair at its very best by washing it with this simple, inexpensive shampoo, which cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly of all the dandruff and dirt and leaves a clean, wholesome feeling. Just use a teaspoonful on cantbrox dissolved in a cup of hot water, afterwards rinsing thoroughly with clean water. One finds that the hair dries quickly and evenly, is unstreaked, bright soft and fluffy, so fluffy in fact that it looks more abundant than it is, and so soft that arranging it becomes a pleasure. All scalp irritation will disappear and the hair will be brighter than ever before.—Adv't.

Backward Party Is Enjoyed At High School

Thirty members of the household management class and two of their friends each enjoyed a "backward" party at the high school last night.

Everything was backward, from the writing of the program cards, to the movement of the clock in the room. The party began promptly at 10 o'clock and was over by 8.

Principal F. L. Sims created the most amusement of the evening when he appeared in the "ball room" with his shirt, collar, tie, vest and coat all on backwards. He remained so throughout the evening. Mrs. Sims was also present as a guest of honor. A number of the faculty also attended.

Dr. John Talbot Smith of New York, closed his series of lectures to the students of the university and St. Mary's academy, Tuesday, in the morning he addressed the students of journalism on "Dramatic Criticism," and in the afternoon closed his series at St. Mary's. "Commercialism has conquered the dramatic critic of our larger papers and dictates plays that shall live and those that shall just exist," said the speaker. "At the present time we have only a very few really good dramatic critics and a dismal future is ahead, for the larger papers are making dramatic criticism a job for the cub."

BOOM PARADE ON PREPAREDNESS

Mass Meeting at Chamber of Commerce Monday Is to Sound Out Sentiment.

Following the suggestion made yesterday at the Rotary club luncheon for a preparedness parade in South Bend on lines similar to the one recently held in New York and now being planned in Chicago, officials of the Rotary club immediately got busy with the Chamber of Commerce and Mayor Keller with the result that a mass meeting to sound out sentiment will be called for next Monday night. An invitation will be extended to all leading business and professional men of the city to attend. The call signed by Mayor Keller, Otto M. Knoblock, president of the Rotary club, and E. Louis Kuhns, president of the Chamber of Commerce, is as follows:

Here is Call, May 18, 1916. At the suggestion of many citizens the undersigned are calling a public meeting of representative citizens and organizations to consider the question of a public parade in the interest of preparedness in line with the action of other leading cities. The meeting will be held in the Chamber of Commerce, Monday, May 22, at 7:30 p. m. Kindly be present. See that your organization is represented. (Signed) F. W. Keller, Mayor. E. Louis Kuhns, President Chamber of Commerce. Otto M. Knoblock, President Rotary Club.

Third One in Line. New York held a giant demonstration and Chicago plans to hold a parade that will in numbers eclipse that of its easter rival. South Bend is believed to be the third city to seriously consider any such demonstration of the public sentiment. Since the meeting which is to be held next Monday will be truly representative of all the best interests of the city it will be possible for the first time to accurately estimate the local feeling toward the all-important question of preparedness.

UNIQUE DISTINCTION OF MINNEAPOLIS ORCHESTRA. The Minneapolis Symphony orchestra, which is to be heard at the Oliver opera house on Friday, is unique in that it is the only one of the great American orchestras which has grown to its present maturity under the conductor which formed it, and still continues under his baton. Emil Oberhofer has been the conductor of the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra from its inception 12 years ago, and the unprecedented development of this orchestra from its beginning to its present position as one of the greatest symphony bodies in the world, is due largely to his genius, tact, and magnetic personality. Mr. Oberhofer has been called the "poet-conductor" and his interpretations are remarkable for their verity, unusual musical insight, and a temperamental warmth which lends a peculiar charm and reveals new and unsuspected beauties, even in familiar works.

Mr. Oberhofer comes from a musical family and was born in Munich. He has had a wide musical experience as an operatic, choral and orchestral conductor, and has been in this country about 20 years.

HIGH SCHOOL FACULTY IN ANNUAL PICNIC

Members of the high school faculty, their wives and friends, enjoyed their annual "picnic" yesterday afternoon and evening at Chain lakes. About 40 were in the party, which left about 3 o'clock and returned about 8 o'clock, due to the coldness of the weather.

It was reported that the men of the faculty lost to the lady members in a game of indoor baseball. It was reported also that the game was lost due to the stellar twirling of Miss Hupp, who is librarian. The committee in charge was O. C. Osborne, P. W. Wilson, Miss Hardman and Miss Clark. Miss E. Montgomery had charge of the "eats."

IRELAND LAND OF INTERNAL STRIFE

Earliest Rebellions Part of Legendary Love of the Emerald Isle.

WASHINGTON, May 18.—While the eyes of the world were turned toward Ireland and the centers of the Sinn Fein revolt, officials of the National Geographic society, familiar with every detail of Irish history recounted stories of former internal strife on the island.

They point out that there have been many stormy scenes in Dublin, the Irish capital, even in its legendary history as far back as the third century of the Christian era, being filled with stories of conflict. One of the earliest episodes was the defeat of the people of the surrounding province by the inhabitants of the town in 291 A. D.

One of the most tragic events of Dublin's early history is an echo of the hatred of the people of the country districts for those of the city. The occurrence is commemorated in Irish chronicles as the Black Monday of 1309. It was during the Easter holidays of that year, strangely paralleling the time of the present revolt, that the Irish of the surrounding mountains rushed down into the valley of the Liffey river, on whose banks Dublin is situated, and while the inhabitants were celebrating the religious holiday, 500 were killed. The place of the massacre is still known as "Bloody Fields," and for many years, in order to keep alive the sense of outrage against the hill people, the citizens on each anniversary of Black Monday would march to the scene of the massacre, bearing banners inscribed with the legend, "A terror to the native Irish!"

Tear Down Churches.

Even in the early days the vigor with which the people of Dublin waged their internecine strife did not lessen the impetuosity with which they entered upon any conflict with a foreign invader. They tore down their churches to secure stones for their walls when preparing for the defense of their city against Edward Bruce in 1315, and when the Irish governor, who had yielded to the enemy, fell into the hands of the defenders, he was brought to Dublin and starved to death.

One of the most spectacular outbreaks of the 16th century was that by Silken Thomas (Sir Thomas Fitzgerald) a daring young nobleman, who, upon hearing that his father had been beheaded in the tower of London, raised a large army and marched to the gates of Dublin, where he was admitted by the intimidated citizens. Shortly afterward, however, when he endeavored to leave the city, he found the gates locked. He made his escape, carrying with him some of the children of the city, and with these as hostages he managed to secure the release of all his followers. Subsequently this rebellion was quelled and the leaders were executed at Tyburn in 1556.

It was more than a hundred years after the death of Sir Thomas that a conspiracy to seize Dublin castle was revealed by Owen Connolly on the day before the attempt was to have been made. This was during the rebellion of 1641, and it was Connolly's information that saved Dublin for the king. Cromwell, James II., and William III. in turn visited Dublin with armed forces.

Another Fitzgerald loomed up as a factor in Irish unrest about the time of the French revolution. He was Lord Edward Fitzgerald, a leader of the united Irishmen, who had received his military training in America, serving under Lord Rawdon in the revolutionary war. Lord Edward was one of the most picturesque Irish leaders of the 18th century and his beautiful wife, the famous Pamela, was an equally appealing figure in the revolution of 1798, during which Lord Edward was captured and thrown into prison where he died of wounds received in the struggle with the officers who arrested him while in bed.

Story of Robert Emmet.

A greatly-loved Irish patriot and orator, Robert Emmet, headed the revolution of 1802. Emmet, while trying to make his escape after an abortive attempt to seize Dublin castle, was apprehended as he was saying farewell to Judge Curran's daughter, to whom he was devoted. His speech delivered on the scaffold the following day is one of the best known examples of impassioned Irish oratory. William Smith O'Brien, from the south of Ireland, was the leader of the rebellion of 1848, in which Dublin took little part. The Fenian society's activities of 1867, both in Ireland and in America, kept the capital city in a turmoil for many weeks.

Dublin castle, which figures so conspicuously in the city's uprisings, is an unimposing structure built originally during the first quarter of the 13th century. It covers nearly three times as much ground as the United States capitol building in Washington. Another building of impressive size, covering five acres, is now occupied by the bank of Ireland but was formerly used as the house of parliament. The most famous institution of the city is Dublin university, or Trinity college, founded under charter from Queen Elizabeth in 1591.

Commercially Dublin is famous for its poplins, its whisky and its porter. At one time its woolen, cotton and linen manufactures were extensive. Huguenots fled to this city after the revocation of the Edict of Nantes.

Swine provided 50 per cent of the total meat consumed in the German empire last year.

HOUSE PASSES FLOOD MEASURE

$45,000,000 Is Provided for Mississippi and $5,600,000 for Sacramento.

WASHINGTON, May 18.—The flood-control bill, providing appropriations for the Mississippi and Sacramento rivers, was passed by the house late Wednesday by a vote of 186 to 33.

The bill now goes to the senate. It would authorize the expenditure of not exceeding $45,000,000 for flood control and general improvement of the Mississippi river under the Mississippi river commission, and $5,600,000 for flood control, removal of debris and general improvement of the Sacramento river, including continuance of the California debris commission's plans.

Spread Over Five Year Period. The expenditures are to be spread over a five year period. The Mississippi valley interests are to cooperate with an amount equal to one-half of the $45,000,000. The state of California is to match the $5,600,000 with an equal sum, while the Sacramento valley land owners are to build all river levees, but pass levees and by pass rights of way in a work estimated to cost them under the debris commission plans, approximately $30,000,000. The bill provides machinery under the war department by which any flood problems, other than the Mississippi and Sacramento, may be examined and reported on by army engineers.

There was no party division on the bill. Speaker Clark and Majority Leader Kitchin being joined by Minority Leader Mann in its support.

Reclaim Much Land.

Rep. Curry of California, told the house that the Mississippi and the Sacramento rivers were the only projects that have been thoroughly investigated and surveyed and reported on to congress by the chief of engineers. He explained that the Mississippi river project would make possible the reclamation of about 15,000,000 or 18,000,000 acres of land, while on the Sacramento river the bill would permit the reclamation of 1,000,000 by private enterprises.

Rep. Baker of California, declared that the $5,600,000 provided in the bill for the Sacramento was "only half of the actual cost of putting the river, its banks and its bed in the shape it was in before the government permitted hydraulic mining to such an extent that the river was made non-navigable."

RUNS SECRET STATION

U. S. Officer Ejects German from Government Postoffice.

TAMPA, Fla., May 18.—That a German spy has been operating a secret wireless station on United States government property here for a year was revealed Wednesday when Capt. Bie of the United States engineering corps ejected the spy from a shack he had been occupying on a government postoffice. In the shack was found a wireless outfit and two new army tents, telegraphic codes, with several messages and a photographic outfit. The man has disappeared. He was a German and had been permitted to occupy the shack in return for guarding the property.
