

HAPPENINGS IN AND ABOUT TOWN

WARMER UPHOLD BY JUDGE FUNK

Circuit Court Judge Refuses 'Writ of Mandate in Klettke Case.

The very fact that counsel for Otto Klettke failed to tender an appeal bond for City Judge Herbert D. Warner, will make it impossible for Klettke to be brought back to South Bend from the state penal farm for a hearing in the higher court as to whether he was intoxicated on May 19.

Judge Funk gave his decision Tuesday morning on the mandamus proceedings filed against Judge Warner by George Sands, attorney for Klettke. Judge Funk said that a judge of city court could not be mandated except for non-performance of duty. In this instance, Atty. Sands asked Judge Warner for an appeal bond, praying an appeal to the circuit court, a court of higher jurisdiction.

On May 20, Klettke was sentenced to the penal farm on his plea of guilt. The following week through counsel he asked for an appeal. Klettke at that time was already at the farm, his sentence of 140 days having begun.

Judge Warner was asked to fix an appeal bond, which he refused to do. Had Klettke's attorney tendered the bond and it was then refused, Judge Funk held, this slight technicality might have placed a different aspect on the matter. The circuit judge refused to commend on this in advance, although he said he had a very decided opinion on the subject.

Judgment on the verdict was not pronounced, the case being held open several days to permit of filing of an amended complaint.

PAT CROWE ONCE MORE LANDS IN COUNTY JAIL

Judge Warner Revokes Suspended Fine Given on Intoxication Charge.

After discharging Pat Crowe for vagrancy after hearing evidence of the state, Judge Warner Tuesday morning revoked a suspended fine of $1 and costs for intoxication and Crowe was sent to the county jail for another 11 days. Crowe was defended by Atty. Frank Glimmer, while Deputy Pros. Schwartz conducted the prosecution on the vagrancy charge.

Several police officers testified that Crowe had been loitering around saloons in the city for three or four weeks. One of the state's witnesses, E. P. Dailey, manager of Sprinkbrook park, stated that Crowe had worked for him for two days and a half. He quit on account of a sore arm, which Mr. Dailey said appeared to be in rather serious condition. Two days later Crowe was arrested while watching a Central league ball game. Crowe had a book in which was listed the names of the people he had worked for in South Bend, which he read to the court.

During the cross examination of the defendant Deputy Pros. Schwartz revealed the criminal record of the witness. He asked him about each case but Crowe declared himself innocent in every instance.

GOOD MILK IS REPORTED

All of Fourteen Samples Come Up to Requirements.

All of the samples of milk examined by the South Bend medical laboratory during the week came up to requirements according to the report made at the health office Tuesday. The result of the examination follows:

Table with 2 columns: Name and Milk Co. with numerical values for various samples.

The Child's Nurse.

That is, indeed, an important part of the household establishment. In selecting this domestic helper, one must use great care, not only to get an honest and efficient person, but one who is physically well and cleanly about her person.

These nurses are to be had for the asking in the News-Times Want Columns. Just look there now and see how many mothers are appealing for such help and how many nurses are asking for such places.

Mother and Nurse, you had better get together through the medium of the News-Times Want Ads.

FUNERALS

Funeral services for Joseph Archambeault, who died Monday afternoon, will be held Wednesday morning from St. Joseph's Catholic church at 9 o'clock, Rev. P. J. Carroll, C. S. C. officiating. Burial will follow in Cedar Grove cemetery.

Says Wife's Parents Broke Up His Home; Sues For $5,000

Is a wife worth $5,000 a year to her husband. This is the question raised in a complaint filed by Joe Sabash in the superior court Tuesday morning.

Sabash alleges on Jan. 7, 1915, he married Teresa Kosras of this city. He says that the girl's parents, Joseph and Teresa Kosras, the defendants in the present suit, induced his wife to leave the home he had provided in Bremen, Ind.

In spite of his remonstrances the plaintiff alleges, his wife, through undue influence and coercion exercised by her parents, remained in South Bend. All the while, he maintains he had provided a comfortable home in Bremen, the expense of which, he says, without a wife, was considerable.

The husband further alleges that his wife promised to return to the Bremen home but was prevented from doing so because of the influence exerted over her by her parents. He asks $5,000 damages.

WARNER SCORES BOARD PRESIDENT

City Judge and E. M. Morris in Lively Tilt Over Speeding Case.

"I am surprised that the president of the board of works would come down to the city court to defend a speeder." Judge Herbert Warner told E. M. Morris in city court Tuesday morning when the latter appeared to defend Sam Hildebrand on a charge of exceeding the speed limit.

"I am a lawyer and have a right to practice at the bar," replied Morris.

"Well, I consider it very unethical," declared the judge. The trouble originated when Morris filed an affidavit for change of venue. Warner refused to grant the change and Morris contended that Warner had no jurisdiction in view of the filing of the affidavit. He refused to put up any defense and after Officer Wesolok testified that Hildebrand was traveling 30 miles an hour, Warner fined the defendant $1 and costs.

Morris refused to permit his client to pay the fine and Warner left the court room without setting an appeal bond. The police were ready to lock Hildebrand in a cell until he paid the fine.

Morris then got in touch with Warner over the telephone and after an extended conversation, the judge agreed to re-open the case if the affidavit for change of venue was withdrawn. This was agreed upon and Hildebrand will go on trial again Wednesday morning. The defendant was permitted to go free under the bond provided primarily.

NEW JERSEY DELEGATES MAKE ONLY MOVE TO HARMONIZE FACTIONS

canism which would satisfy the people. The progressive leaders were asked to read it carefully and accept it as an evidence of just where Hughes stands. But Victor Murdock, George W. Perkins, Henry Allen White, Johnson, Pinchot and the others scorned such a suggestion. They declared that if the justice could come through as far as he had with settled allusions, there was nothing in the way to prevent him openly setting his views before the convention. And they openly declared, with an emphasis that left little to the imagination, that they were unalterably opposed to the justice as a candidate.

Hughes still was the leading candidate. Unless the leaders shall be able to agree on a single candidate to oppose him within the next 25 hours, his nomination is secured. The delegates to the convention, the "band wagon" delegates are ready to jump. They are becoming convinced that Hughes is in the lead and are preparing to come out into the open for him.

The Oregon Hughes delegates say they have secured pledges from practically all of the northwestern states so that the most of the uninformed delegates from that section will go to Hughes on the first ballot. Sen. William E. Borah of Idaho, himself a candidate with his state delegation instructed for him, released all of his delegates from their instructions today. He declined to suggest who they should vote for, telling the Idaho leaders who conferred with him that they should follow their own choice, and that he did not desire to embarrass any of the candidates by coming out for an individual. But the Borah votes are to go for Hughes right from the outset, and while the senator declines to be interviewed, it is known that he considers the naming of Hughes as being a certainty.

Fairbanks Men Opposite. The Fairbanks followers still were claiming that their candidate will get the Roosevelt support finally. This too, in the face of the flat rejection by the colonel of the request that he come to the aid of the Hoosier statesman. Fairbanks leaders circulated mysteriously in the hotel rooms, while their delegates cheered and shouted in the lobbies. Burton managers also were working for second choice support in the matter of the avowed candidates.

Meanwhile William Draper Lewis, dean of the University of Pennsylvania law school, continued work on the tentative draft of the progressive platform. In the argument over Americanism the republican platform builders were inclined to be conservative. They inclined toward the ideas of Sen. Borah who proposed a general declaration of faith in the duties of all American citizens as a means of meeting the "hyphenate issue," and on the question of protecting American rights abroad they proposed to follow the form of former platforms, and said:

"We pledge ourselves to insist upon a just and equal protection of all our citizens abroad. It is the unquestioned duty of the government to procure for our citizens without distinction, right of travel and sojourn in friendly countries, and we declare ourselves in favor of all proper efforts tending to that end."

This declaration the conservative leaders contended would meet the present European situation without arousing any undue antagonism. Another plank put forward by the conservative leaders dealt with the merchant marine. They proposed to make the statement general and say:

"We adhere to the republican doctrine of encouragement to the American shipping and urge such legislation as will advance the merchant marine prestige of the country, so essential to the national defense, the enlargement of avenues of trade and the industrial prosperity of our own people."

This plan did not satisfy some of the republican advisers, however, and they demanded that the party flatly and unqualifiedly disown any sympathy with the democratic shipping bill now in congress with its government owned shipping lines.

CALL HIM "FATHER" (Spokane, Wash., Spokesman-Review) Review

Boys, when you speak of your father don't call him "the old man." Of course you are older now than when you were taught to call him father. You are much smarter than you were, then you are much more manly looking, your clothes fit you better, your hat has a modern shape and your hair is combed differently. In short, "fyer" than you were then. Your father has a last year's coat, a two-year-old hat and a vest of still older pattern. He can't write such an elegant note as you can and all that, but don't call him "the old man." Call him father. For years he has been rusting around to get things together. He has been held to the thorny path of uphill industry and the brightest half of life has gone from him forever. But he loves you, though he goes along without saying much about it, therefore be not so ungrateful.

GONE A-FISHING. Zane Grey, whose new novel, "The Border Legion," was published a few days ago, is now at his home in Lackawanna, Pa. His fishing rod is in his hands more often these spring days than his pen. For Mr. Grey is an angler of national renown.

PABLO LOPEZ PAYS PENALTY

Chief Villa Lieutenant Executed for Part in the Columbus Raid.

CHIHUAHUA CITY, June 6.—Pablo Lopez, Villa's chief lieutenant in the raid upon Columbus, N. M., Monday paid the penalty for his crimes, facing a firing squad of constitutional soldiers at Santa Rosa, Chihuahua's place of execution.

Lopez, who at the orders of Villa, massacred 18 American mining men at Santa Ysabel, Chihuahua, in January and who is said to have directed the movements of the Mexicans at Columbus, expressed no regret. The big clock in the Cuartel was booming 11 as he faced the firing squad. The officer in command gave the order to present arms. Lopez raised his head, smiled until his teeth showed and then looking directly at the soldiers said:

"In the breast, brothers; in the breast."

All of the shots fired struck in or near the heart of the bandit. Lopez left letters to his wife and father, urging them to believe that he was not a traitor to his country.

"Since my country needs my death, I give it willingly," he said.
