TODAY'S DAINTIEST DISH
"COOKERY IS BECOME A NOBLE SCIENCE"

Veal Loaf

By CONSTANCE CLARKE.

TAKE four pounds of the shoulder of veal and put the meat into a stewpan with the knucklebones and sufficient water to cover; two onions, two blades of mace, two bay leaves, a little whole white pepper, six whole allspice, one bunch of savory herbs and one saltspoonful of salt. Let it gradually come to a boil; then put it over a slow fire and let it simmer very gently for three hours, or until the meat leaves the bones; skim off the grease from the liquid and mince the meat finely; oil a plain mould, press the meat into it, pressing it down tightly. When cold turn out on a chop dish and serve with cucumber slices; garnish with parsley and lemon quarters. This dish is a little tedious to prepare, but will amply repay one with its appetizing delicacy.

(To-morrow—Asparagus Vinaigrette.)
