

BAKER PRAISES WILSON POLICY IN MAINE TALK

Sec'y of War Declares President Combines Declaration of Independence and Golden Rule.

WATERVILLE, Me., Aug. 25.—Vigorous praise for the administration's European and Mexican policies was the outstanding feature of an address here last night by Sec'y of War Newton D. Baker, principal speaker at a meeting held in connection with the democratic campaign in Maine in behalf of Pres't Wilson. The president's course, Mr. Baker said, "has infused the spirit of the Declaration of Independence and of the Golden Rule." Into this country's foreign relations.

"I have shown that the administration of Pres't Wilson has followed a consistent program in its domestic legislation," Mr. Baker declared, toward the end of his address. "It has procured the enactment of laws more wholesome and beneficial than perhaps can be credited to the administrations which have intervened since the Civil war. It is inspired by a philosophy which is an expression of the longing of mankind in this day and generation. It has refused to allow itself to be turned aside by foreign violence from the accomplishment of its great program."

Has Kept Peace.

"The administration has kept the peace. It has done unto Mexico as we would be done by and has infused the spirit of the Declaration of Independence and the Golden Rule into its foreign relations. It has maintained friendly relations with European belligerents and placed this country in a position from which, when the end of the great European struggle comes, the moral forces of the United States can be exercised in the interests of justice and humanity."

"Large problems lay before us in the next four years. The reconstruction must take place. No unfamiliar hand should be put into the course of our nation during that period. No uncertain voice should be permitted to speak our spirit at the council table that reorganizes the universe. This is a time when, having pressed forward nobly on a high and difficult course, the finish should be left to those who have demonstrated their ability by the work already done."

During his discussion of European policies, Mr. Baker said:

Raps Cheap Eloquence.

"There are those who hint, but dare not say, that if they had been in the place of responsibility they would have involved us in that maelstrom. They indulge in a cheap form of eloquence about what they would have done, and affect to believe that in some obscure way we are hurt in our self pride because all the rest of the world is thus engaged while we are preserving our peaceful relations."

"The United States is today the friend of each of the belligerent nations. Our fields are growing the crops that are to feed the multitudes whose hands have been withdrawn from the plow to be given to the sword. Our workshops and factories are making the implements of rehabilitation which will make life possible again in Europe when this great scourge is passed. We have preserved peace with justice and have saved to ourselves an opportunity far larger than any participation in this struggle could have given. We want no territory, we seek no advantage, we desire but an opportunity to help restore the balance with friendship and prosperity and opportunity for the people of the old world."

Taft Blind to Huerta.

After reviewing the developments of Mexican unrest, which he pointed out began to manifest itself long before Woodrow Wilson became president, Mr. Baker continued:

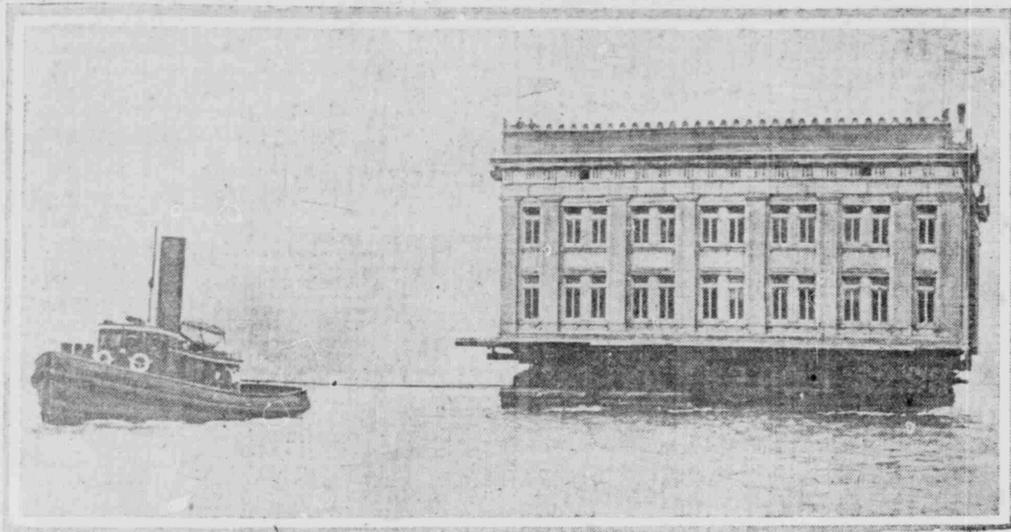

"Pres't Taft declined to recognize the dissolute monster (Huerta), Sec'y of State Knox withheld the approval of the United States from that sort of treachery. Pres't Wilson withheld recognition from Huerta, and the long and troubled course of our dealing with Mexico has been, in part at least, because both Pres't Taft and Pres't Wilson believed that a nation loving justice, as I hope we love it, could not extend its favor to this medieval despot cast up with all of his villainies upon his head, as fogs from the waters of a revolution otherwise hopeful and pure as its object."

Mr. Baker expressed the hope that American soldiers on the Texas border may not be required to fire another shot "but that their ultimate victory and restoration of peace and contentment and prosperity in northern Mexico may come as the climax to a series of bloodless victories."

Urges Wilson to Hold Principle Of Arbitration

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 25.—Pres't Wilson urged in a telegram dispatched Thursday by B. A. Vanwinkle, president of the Indiana Manufacturers' association, "to maintain at all hazards the fundamental righteous principle of arbitration in settling disputes between employers and employees."

The association also protests against the stand the president has taken in the controversy between the railroad brotherhood men and the roads, the telegram saying: "If in the settlement of the present railroad controversy there shall result an increased cost to the carriers, to be met by an increase in the freight rates, then we manufacturers of Indiana are vitally concerned in the outcome of the matter because the increased rates must be exacted from the consuming public and consequently further increase the cost of living."

The telegram adds that the association believes if the president strongly used the influence of his position for the recognition of the principle of arbitration, it will be maintained. A similar message in substance was dispatched to Hale Holden, spokesman of the railroad presidents now in Washington.

Clark Pays His Own Expenses While on Stump

CHAMP CLARK

Speaker Champ Clark is going to make an extended stump tour for the candidacy of Woodrow Wilson, but he is not going to let the democratic party pay even his traveling expenses. This surprising news was made public when the democratic national committee received from Speaker Clark a check which had been sent him to defray his expenses on a speaking trip to Maine.

"Making speeches for the party, and paying my own expenses, is the only way I can contribute to the cause," said the democratic chief.

OWENS DECLARES HIS BILL BEING HELD BY G. O. P.

Says Deliberate Effort on to Keep Corrupt Practices Measure Down Before November Election.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—Republican senators were accused Thursday by Sen. Owen, democrat, of a deliberate effort to prevent action before the November election on his corrupt practices bill which would put a strict limitation on campaign contributions.

Then the Oklahoma senator announced that he would make an insistent fight to bring up the measure at this session of congress regardless of consequences to early adjournment plans. He declared the existing campaign contributions law was a fraud upon the American people, charged that the so-called lumber trust had sent $40,000 into Oklahoma to defeat his nomination, because he voted to deny William Lorimer a seat in the senate and precipitated a lively debate in which republican and democratic senators bitterly accused each other of planning to buy the approaching election.

Ready to Stay 'Till Winter.

All the carefully laid plans of senate leaders to make possible an adjournment of congress late next week were threatened when Sen. Owen announced that he was ready to stay here until winter to pass the bill, if republicans attempted a filibuster.

Sen. Owen made his announcement that he would ask his bill be taken up as soon as the revenue bill is passed, after his request for unanimous consent to take up the bill immediately after passage of the revenue bill had been objected to by Sen. Smoot. When the Oklahoma senator declared the so-called lumber trust had used a $40,000 fund against him, Sen. Penrose, republican, interjected:

"It is reported it cost the democratic party $1,000,000,000 to elect Woodrow Wilson."

"How about the $2,500,000 spent to elect William McKinley in 1896?" Queried Sen. O'Gorman, democrat.

"That might have been so," Sen. Penrose replied.

Resuming his speech, Sen. Owen said he had figures showing that Myron T. Herrick, recently nominated for senator by the republicans in Ohio, had personally expended $22,175 in his primary campaign, and that the Herrick voters league had spent $29,000.

"I have heard," said Sen. Penrose, "that the democrats already have an enormous corruption fund, and that they want to lock the door."

"The people of the United States are not going to stand any more the buying of elections," Sen. Owen contended.

"The people are demanding this law because the existing statute does not protect them. Reports of campaign contributions and expenditures sent to the secretary of the senate are ridiculous. They do not include money expended for elections. I know that to be an absolute fact."

"Republicans in the senate under cover of debate may carry on a filibuster against this bill until after election, but they cannot fool the American people as to their motives."

BEARD OF FRENCH SOLDIER IS DOOMED

PARIS, Aug. 25.—The beard of the French soldier is doomed in an army order directing that the men at the front shave all but mustaches. The order brought an outburst of humorous and ironic discussion in the trench newspapers to which some of the most famous French artists, philosophers and literary men have contributed.

Jean Richepin, the dramatist, writing in the Fuse says: "The beard has gone, but what is the difference to us? In place of it, it is courage that grows. Let the beard fall and French courage grow."

Gen. Pierre Cherils, reasoning technically, excuses the measure because "the beard of a trooper weighs on an average 60 grammes. With two million men at the front this brings the aggregate weight to 120 tons. It was natural that the staff should think of relieving the army of this considerable and useless weight. It was reasonable in creating heavy material to make in compensation light infantry."
