IN MILADY'S BOUDOIR

BY GWEN SEARS.

HOUSEWORK AS A BEAUTIFIER. Among the many duties of the housewife who does her own work, none of these equals sweeping as an exercise and a general vitalizer of the whole body. To gain the most benefit from the exercise, the shoulders should be well thrown back and the hands should grasp the broom firmly. With each stroke the whole body should sway, which movement will add grace to the figure. In fact, in performing housework, one may so direct her efforts that the labor becomes a body-builder, and besides one has the satisfaction of knowing that the home is spick and span. It is quite true that tight lacing of the waist is responsible for many cases of indigestion. The necessity for tight lacing is an ill proportion-

What the French Maid Told Marjorie

BY JANE LOWELL.

SAVING THE LEAVINGS. "Whatever do you save all those things for?" questioned Marjorie of Marie as the French maid showed her a great many piles of seemingly useless stuff in the cellar of her aunt's home. "They are all of use," replied Marie, "and you have no idea how much can be saved in household bills by utilizing many things that are ordinarily thrown away. In ninety-nine households out of a hundred potato parings, orange peel, apple cores, coffee grounds, soot ashes and half a dozen similar products get to swell the pile in the garbage pail or dust bin. Potato parings and orange peel, dried make excellent fire lighters and save wood. To dry them put them in a bag or piece of newspaper and lay them on the kitchen range rack or in the oven. Tea leaves have a small fertilizing value if thrown on the garden, but a better use for them is to mix them with coal dust and use them for fire backing. In the cellar or shed there is quite certain to be some coal dust. This can be mixed with the tea leaves and burned in the kitchen fire. Coffee grounds are an excellent substitute for knife cleaning powder. There is nothing better than ashes for polishing brass, steel and copper. Newspapers, envelopes and paper, of every description should never be thrown away. Waste paper is eagerly bought. Get a sack which any waste paper house will furnish you, and stuff every bit into it."
