NEWS OF INTEREST TO POLISH CITIZENS

Turn To Page 5 For the Complete News Ransack Sale Begins Tuesday

It's a short story—this Ransack Sale News. The important part—the bargain part of it—you will find on page 8 of this paper. It's been a good many years now that this Ransack Sale first began. It means cleaning house—ransacking the entire store for merchandise that can't be carried into the next season. This has been an unusual season—summer has really just begun. But that doesn't keep us from getting rid of our summer goods. We've "ransacked" good this time—"left no stone unturned" for odds and ends, short lengths and other desirable goods that must be sold during this sale. Therefore, come to this sale beginning tomorrow. If you want to make your money go farthest—the Ransack Sale is what you need.

Good Reasons for You to Buy Quotations From Trade Papers Cottons

Enormous quantities of raw cotton are being used by this and other governments for ammunition. When we bought our cotton goods, raw cotton was selling for 17c a lb., today's price on raw cotton is 26c a lb. The prices that we name at retail are based on these early purchases. (We advise you to buy your requirements of sheets, pillow cases, bed spreads, sheeting, hosiery, underwear, towels, etc.)

Linens

Linens manufacturers of Ireland and Scotland are having a hard time securing Flax, therefore prices on linens are advancing rapidly. (Nothing will really take the place of a beautiful double satin damask table cloth, so we advise you to fill your requirements for the next two years, as prices will not come down in that time. We have just received a big shipment of Genuine Old Bleach Table Cloths and Napkins that were bought over a year ago. If we bought them today the price would have to be much higher.)

Your Wedding Day

And the Famous Men and Women Who Have Shared It With You. By Mary Marshall. Mrs. Porter, and after a few days more they set out on horseback to Derby, where they were married away from home. Although Mrs. Johnson brought her husband a "fortune" of 800 pounds, Johnson was penniless, and their first venture at making a living was in opening a school for young boys. The school was a failure, and it is notable chiefly because, among the 12 pupils that attended it, was young David Garrick, the great actor. Later that distinguished man described Mrs. Johnson in not very flattering terms: "She was very fat," he said, "with a bosom of more than ordinary protuberance; her swelled cheeks were of a florid red, produced by thick painting and increased by the liberal use of cosmetics; flaring and fantastic in dress and affected both in her speech and her behavior." It has been said that Johnson's had eyesight probably helped him in his belief that his "pretty charmer," as he called her, was not lacking in feminine daintiness. And for the 17 years of their married life perhaps the only real source of annoyance with her was due to her "particular reverence for cleanliness." (Copyright, 1917.)

The Housewife's Economy Calendar

BROWN-BREAD THIRTY. Boston brown bread is an admirable form of war-bread for it utilizes two white-flour substitutes—corn meal and rye—and sometimes a third—graham flour. There are recipes for Boston brown bread that call for no wheat flour, either white or graham. If you find these palatable they will form an admirable addition to your war-time cookery recipes. Here is one that does not call for wheat flour of any sort. The recipe calls for thin cream but milk and a tablespoonful of lard could be substituted. One cup rye meal, 1 cup corn meal, 1 teaspoon salt, 1/2 cup molasses, 2 eggs, 1/2 cup thin cream. Sift the dry ingredients. Add molasses, yolks of eggs well beaten, and cream; lightly fold in the whites of eggs beaten stiff. Pour mixture into buttered mold, steam three hours; then bake one hour in a moderate oven. The following recipe calls for sour milk, and is economical when you happen to have some of that commodity on hand; 1 cup corn meal, 1 cup rye meal, 1 cup graham flour, 2 1/2 teaspoons soda, 1 teaspoonful salt, 3/4 cup molasses, 2 cups sour milk. Mix and sift the dry ingredients and add molasses and milk. Beat thoroughly and steam 2 1/2 hours in well-buttered, covered molds. Remove the covers and bake the bread long enough to dry the top. This may be made also with 1 1/2 cups corn meal and rye meal and no graham flour. Brown bread sandwiches are much liked by nearly every one. To make a very fine-grained Boston brown bread, take one cup each of white flour, graham flour, and corn meal; 1 1/2 cups sour milk, 3/4 cup of molasses, 1 teaspoon of soda and 1 of salt; Mix the dry ingredients, add the molasses and sour milk in which the soda has been thoroughly dissolved. Put into baking powder cans to have the small rounds for slicing. Boil for three hours. Make the day before so as to have well-cooled. Slice as thin as possible, butter well and add lettuce or cucumbers with mayonnaise or not, as preferred. (Copyright, 1917.)

LONDON, July 9. — Apparently alarmed over the entrance of the United States in the war, Germany is making desperate efforts to increase her army. A Stockholm dispatch in the Morning Post today said that 1,000,000 more German men and boys have been called to the colors during the past month and 2,000,000 additional mobilized. The general staff is even withdrawing workers from ammunition plants and mines, giving their places to women. Indian Ornaments. It was to be supposed that when oriental novelties that were introduced from China and Japan some clever person would look up our Indian work and bring it out as a rival. There are now Indian beads from Arizona used as trimming for hats and gowns, and the Indian embroidery, as well as the beaded work, tassels with queer Indian ornaments strung together, and sweaters made of Navajo blankets, are among the things offered and accepted.
