Symphony Orchestra With Local Soloist Makes Decided Hit

With a noticeable addition of confidence which gave an authority to the respective interpretations, the South Bend Symphony orchestra played again for a capacity audience in the second of the series of Sunday afternoon concerts being given in the Rotary room of the Oliver hotel. Prof. Ingersoll and his players made a distinct impression upon their first appearance the previous Sunday, and their second program increased that impression. The program, without exception, consisted of so-called "popular classics," rich in tone and tune and fascinating in rhythm.

The soloist was Miss Hazel Harris, soprano. Rarely, if ever, has Miss Harris been heard to better advantage than in her presentation of Charpentier's beautiful air from Louise, "E'er Since the Day." The orchestra provided an excellent background, and high notes abounding, the voice stood out in brilliant relief before the accompaniment. It was an impressive as well as a satisfying number and the audience insisted upon hearing Miss Harris again, being gratified with a charming little piece about Irish eyes of blue.

The orchestra's first number was an attractive waltz, "Unrequited Love" by Carl Linke was presented in pleasing style, the tuneful melody well marked by the cello section, throughout most of the piece. The second program number was composed of two delightful little concertos for string orchestra. The first "Air de Ballet" by Victor Herbert is a tuneful bit with melody for first violin and a delicate pizzicato accompaniment by the other strings; and the second, "The Mill," by Raff, was very like a descriptive number, simulating the rush of waters and the heavy droning of the great mill wheel as it slowly turns in its steady grind. The number was admirably done.

There followed the quite familiar Minuet and Barcarolle from Offenbach's "Tales of Hoffman" comprising an Intermzzo Elegante and the orchestra's presentation won enthusiastic approval. The three dances which comprised the orchestra's fifth group all are of marked individuality and Prof. Ingersoll's players gave each with a dash and verve and a variety of tone color surprising in an ensemble of no greater size. The Torch dance, particularly, is a thing of vivid colors, quite brilliantly portrayed. The closing overture, Suppe's "Pique Dame" was presented in a manner to do credit to a much larger ensemble and the audience was reluctant to leave without an encore. Tympni, added to the ensemble since the previous concert, heightened the effects immensely.

School district No. 6 had Christmas exercises Friday evening. The school will be closed ten days for the holiday season.

Kitchen Economies

DRIED PEAS AN EFFICIENT AID IN CUTTING SOME FOOD COSTS.

Do you know the many ways you can use dried peas as a substitute for foods that cost more? We use these legumes chiefly for a thick soup, but as a matter of fact they may be prepared as a vegetable side dish, as the main dish of the meal either in loaf form or a la Boston baked beans. The green pea loaf is a substantial meat substitute, and there is absolutely not a bit of waste. Left-over parts of the loaf may be sliced and fried as a breakfast or luncheon dish, and rivals the famous Philadelphia scrapple in flavor.

Green Peas a la Boston.
1 cupful of dried green peas,
1 cupful of dried salt pork,
1 cupful of tomatoes,
2 large onions,
4 tablespoonfuls of syrup,
2 teaspoonfuls of salt,
1-2 teaspoonful of pepper,
1-4 teaspoonful of thyme.

Soak the peas over night in cold water. In the morning cover with boiling water and boil for 10 minutes. Drain, rinse in cold water and repeat the process of covering with boiling water and cooking for 10 minutes. Then drain, rinse in cold water and place in a baking dish between layers of the diced salt pork. Add seasonings as above and cover with water. Bake in a slow oven for 3 hours.

Peas as Vegetable Side Dish.
1 cupful of dried peas,
1 tablespoonful of salt pork, chopped,
1 tablespoonful of butter,
1-8 teaspoonful of pepper,
2 onions.

Soak the peas in cold water over night. In the morning cover with hot water and cook until tender with the onion and salt pork. Run twice through the meat chopper, using the finest knife. Then mash and whip with fork until light and creamy, adding melted butter. If desired, this may be placed in a baking dish, covered with bits of butter and set in a hot oven a minute to brown on top.

Peas Salad.
2 cupfuls of cold, cooked peas,
1-2 cupful of mayonnaise dressing,
1-2 cupful of chopped celery,
1-2 cupful of canned pimento,
1-2 teaspoonful of salt.

Chop the pimento and mix with celery, peas and salad dressing and add salt. Mound on lettuce leaves. The mayonnaise. Mix other ingredients and serve separately with French dressing.

Peas Loaf.
2 cupfuls of cooked peas,
1 1-2 cupfuls of breadcrumbs,

2-4 cupful of milk,
2 tablespoonfuls of butter,
1 chopped onion,
3-4 teaspoonful of salt,
1-4 teaspoonful of pepper.
Run the peas and onion through strainer. Then add milk and crumbs and seasoning. Put in a greased baking dish, dot with butter and crumbs and bake in a moderate oven for 45 minutes. This may be served with tomato sauce or white sauce. If mushrooms are in season a few chopped mushrooms added to a white sauce makes a delicious gravy for this dish.

SELFISHNESS IS THEME OF SERMON

Rev. Rodney L. McQuary Delivers Stirring Lecture at Christian Church.

"Many of us, in some form the majority of us, are slaves to self. Consciously or unconsciously we allow ourselves to become the victims of some form of selfishness," was the declaration of Rev. Rodney L. McQuary, pastor of the First Christian church, in his Sunday evening sermon on "Getting Away from Ourselves."
"The votaries of self number not only the basely and greedily selfish," he continued. "The employer who uses cut-throat methods, the miser hoarding his gold, the despot, the dispenser of pure womanhood have long been known as slaves to self, but the good, the shy, the contemplative, the timid, may also be prey to the subtler forms of selfishness. Sufferers may be hemmed in by private worries, brooding, narrowed, self centered; people thinking only of their own plans and concerns—all these also worship self."
"Jesus opens the way of escape for the misery of brooding selfishness,—'whoever will save his life shall lose it; but whosoever will lose his life for my sake, the same shall save it.' Jesus' philosophy was that men are to lose themselves in some great human interest outside themselves, and thereby find emancipation from the seemingly hopeless conflict between self and humanity, between 'the one and the many,' by finding a higher unity which includes both. Any man who would work out his salvation must cast out self through the expulsive power of a new affection. Religion must express itself in humanitarian service if it is to save itself. Otherwise it is mere sanctified selfishness. Jesus never endured suffering or privation for the sake of winning personal piety. He was no ordinary ascetic. He mixed with men, ate and drank with the riff-raff that he might help them. When suffering and death came, it was not by way of ascetic flagellation but true service to others. This is the way of the cross today, the law of the cross expressing itself, and working itself out through social service. If persecution and death must come, let it be by way of fidelity to truth, not to be sought for its own sake or as a means for securing selfish piety for the individual."
