

SAY O'CALLAGHAN HAS LEFT COUNTRY

Lord Mayor is Under Orders to Leave U. S. or Surrender Today.

By International News Service: WASHINGTON, June 4.—Donald O'Callaghan, lord mayor of Cork, who came to the United States as a stowaway, has left this country, according to assurances given the department of labor by his counsel, Asst. Sec'y of Labor Henning announced today. O'Callaghan was under orders to leave the United States before midnight tomorrow or to surrender to the immigration authorities as a stowaway, improperly in the United States. Last reports of O'Callaghan to the department of labor were of his departure from Chicago on April 8. In order that the department of labor may not be charged with making O'Callaghan's whereabouts known to the British authorities, no official announcement of his departure will be made for two weeks, it was stated. The American salesman accustomed to jumping from town to town on fast trains, seeing customers early and late, and sending daily orders to the "house," is hardly the one to tackle India, where the "house" is best forgotten in the sales talk and where the potency of the first person singular is undeniable.—Consular Report.

City Court Verdict in Minert Case May Have Bearing on Future Charges.

The case of Willis Minert, booked on the charge of receiving liquor from a common carrier and which was tried before Special Judge P. J. Houlihan in city court Saturday morning, will, when settled, probably put a new direction on city court liquor case verdicts in the future. Minert, who testified in behalf of Bela Soos, who was charged with receiving, last Saturday, took the brunt of the burden off Soos' shoulders when he admitted on the stand that he had brought the liquor here from Indianapolis and put it in Soos' closet without Soos' knowledge of the act. It is openly hinted in city court at the time that Atty. Sande, who defended Soos, was dodging behind a statute which reads that where a witness delivers self-incriminatory evidence in a liquor case that he cannot be held on it in a charge against himself. This was put before Judge Houlihan on Saturday morning and he continued the case until June 8, allowing both sides to submit their argument. Three other liquor cases that were also continued in city court Saturday morning against Mike Kusniak, Michael Dench, and Frank Burzkie-wicz, are said to hinge on this decision. They all are charged with unlawful possession of intoxicating liquor for sale and their cases were set for June 15.

The business day is short in India; it seldom begins before 11 o'clock in the morning. There is a "tiffin" or lunch period, probably two hours long, followed by an early closing.

Bill: "You know how I used to rave about my collars having edges like a hack-saw? Remember how I used to kick and storm because my shirts weren't laundered properly?"

Phil: "Sure 'nuff. Still in trouble?"

Bill: Not much! I've got SOME laundry now! My shirts look like new. They keep their colors and haven't worn out yet. And my collars,—they're spotless, white and the edges as smooth as a baby's cheek.

Phil: "And where is this laundry, Bozo?"

And they have gone farther. They have found out what light weight, flexibility and direct air cooling do for the Franklin owner in other ways than economy.

A LOT of motorists right now are balancing the service they get from their cars with the cost of the service, and are deciding that buying a Franklin is both better and cheaper.

They have driven the Franklin, and learned its ease of handling. They have ridden in it, and experienced its comfort. They have talked with owners, and become acquainted with its unvarying reliability. Its freedom from cooling troubles they could understand without investigation.

They are comparing the fuel results of the Franklin with those they have been getting. They are comparing its averages of but three punctures and less than one blow-out in the life of a complete set of tires—12,500 miles—with the best their car has ever given. They are comparing the Franklin's longer car life and higher resale value with what they are accustomed to.

As a result, they have been buying—and buying in such numbers that even during the period of readjustment Franklin sales records have been:

- December 1920 -- biggest Dec. in Franklin history
- January 1921 -- orders exceeded production 15%
- February 1921 -- month's orders totaled 1107 cars
- March 1921 -- 100% normal output—1000 cars
- April 1921 -- Sales equaled 103% total output
