

"SCOUT-ING"

Mrs. Jane Dexter Ripplin, national director of the 104,000 American Girl Scouts, has sailed to represent the United States at the international conference of the Scout commissioners in London, July 28.

FREES GIRLS
Getting women and girls out of jail is Mrs. Louise E. Baker's vocation. She found she could be of more service that way than in general welfare work. She investigates cases, and if women are worthy, she goes on their bond. She is proud of having saved many unfortunate girls.

B RING ME LOVE"

By Juanita Hamel

IF YOU were asked to select just what you wish in life, what would be your order? Fame, a million dollars, beautiful things to wear, a wonderful house in which to live, a motor car, jewels—all these perhaps you would think about. But if you could have but ONE wish, what would that wish be? Wouldn't you say with all your heart, "Bring me LOVE!"?

Career Mania Harmful, Declares Miss Pankhurst

Christabel Pankhurst.
LONDON, July 2.—Christabel Pankhurst has declared herself in favor of excusing women from jury service under some conditions. "There are, I think, only two qualifications to be made in practice to the rule of having women on the jury," she says. I would excuse women in cases of an unpleasant nature involving only men. And I think that very young women, if older women are available, should be excused from jury service in certain cases, because I think they are less able to face the horror of such cases. "Jury service, is not, never has been, and as far as I can see, never will be popular among men. Why should women be expected to like it any better? To some women with insistent home obligations, jury service may be more hopelessly impossible than to any man."

Speaking of women in politics, Miss Pankhurst says: "I hope and pray that young women who enter political life will keep free from the career mania that has possessed so many politicians and made them useless to their nations. The man or woman who gets career mania is stamped as a second rate—just ambitious mediocrity and nothing more."
U. S. STEAMER SINKS
WASHINGTON, July 7.—The shipping board steamer Mopang struck a mine while entering Burgas harbor in the Black Sea, July 5, and sank in five minutes, according to reports to the board Thursday. There was no loss of life.
