

SOCIETY and PERSONAL ACTIVITIES of WOMEN

Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Robert Miller, 815 Cottage Grove av. The devotional will be led by Mrs. George Winesack, Ted Park av. Daily refreshments were served at the close of the afternoon.

Charles Lippincott, S. Eddy st., was host at a dancing party Saturday afternoon, the affair honoring Edson Casaday of Madison, Wis. who is the house guest of Mr. and Mrs. George Winesack, 707 Park av. Daily refreshments were served at the close of the afternoon.

Mrs. Norman G. Dakin, Mantou p., entertained with a 3 o'clock luncheon Saturday as a courtesy to her house guest, Mrs. Frank Bissel of Cleveland, O. Covers were placed for 16 guests at an attractively appointed table bearing a basket of pink and white roses.

The Vested choir of the First 4. E. church, entertained with its annual Christmas party Friday evening in the church parlors. A Christmas tree and sprays of evergreen were the attractive decorations of the scene. Through the courtesy of Mr. and Mrs. K. C. Delphod, a short musical program on the Ampico Reproducing Grand piano was enjoyed after which coffee was served to 60 guests. Mrs. H. L. Hammond presiding at the table graced with lighted tapers in silver holders. The committee in charge of the affair included the Misses Irene Helof, Florence Mack, Mildred Gardner, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Hammond, Mr. and Mrs. Victor Kupperer and J. W. Work.

Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Johnson, 118 Pokagon st., Harter Heights, entertained a few friends informally Friday evening. The evening was spent socially and at the bridge table. Mrs. Johnson played several piano numbers and a solo dance while Mr. Johnson played with violin selections. A buffet luncheon was served at the close of the evening to 12 guests.

Mrs. E. M. Morris, 941 Riverside dr., entertained 28 children Saturday afternoon between the hours of 2:30 and 5, in honor of the sixth birthday of her daughter, Mary Louise Morris. The original decoration of the table consisted of a centerpiece of a huge Jack Horner pie designed in the shape of a chimney where a favor for each guest had been left by Santa Claus. The guests included Mary Ellen Christman, Helen Rose, Barbara Bartel, Ruth Huston, Ann Huston, Jane Elliott, Eleanor Elliott, Jane Dnagan, Virginia Coon, Laverne Becker, Betsy Ross, Dorothy Frederick, Peggy Swantz, Martha Rose, Mary Baker, Meredith MacDonald, Betty Carlisle, Betty Myers, Joan Varier, Harry Hallett, Jr., Robert Beckwith, George Wheelock, Dewey Charles Layton, Warren Davies, Jr., William Davies, Jr., Robert Numer, James Numer and Luther Gilliom.

Miss Cora Hodges and George W. Lett, both of South Bend, were united in marriage Saturday noon, at the house of the Sunnyside Presbyterian church, the Rev. M. M. Rodgers officiating.

Engagement Announced

Miss Julia Loomis, whose engagement is announced to Leo A. Mahoney.

Hats Like These To Be Style Next Spring

These two hats traveled south recently in the trunk of a New York debutante. They are the type we will be buying next spring. The brimmed model is a combination of taffeta and straw, with yarn embroidery in brilliant colors. Folds of figured ribbon, artfully wrought into a winged effect, trim the turban and provide an excellent place for the parking of two highly decorative hatpins.

No Longer Impolite to Lean Arms on the Table

Little Hemispheres Are Rather Elusive, But If You Can Learn Tricks It's Worth It.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 30. — The age-old decree of social etiquette that one should never put his elbows on the table has been proven all wrong.

Also the popular idea that a grapefruit's only social usage is that of a morning appetizer, or as one of the innocent concomitants of salad or cocktail, has been proven fallacious.

Nowadays, in really smart society, you plaster your elbows brazenly upon the festive board. Furthermore, you plaster them in your grapefruit! A whole one to each guest. Cut it in half to be sure, and one part is employed by each elbow for a parking place.

Elbows inspired the new fad. Elbows are highly important parts of the anatomy in these days when women's sleeves are usually short or absent altogether.

Someone discovered that the juice of grapefruit is softening and bleaching when applied to the elbows, and so efficacious that it seems as though the gods of feminine beauty designed it for arm-angles.

Someone else discovered that the way to combine business and pleasure is to play bridge with the aforesaid elbows resting in the damp, stinging little nests of grapefruit.

It is said to be difficult to get onto the knack of it at first. The little hemispheres are exceedingly elusive. With the expanding scope of the new fad it is said that all grapefruit-bridge players will arrive at a party equipped with their own towels and goggles.

Pianist Adds to Fame by An Invention

Mrs. Mary Hallock Greenwalt, already famous as a pianist, has won fresh laurels as an inventor. She has perfected an instrument she calls a "light player," which uses light and its rainbow colors as an accompaniment to music, to increase the emotional appeal. The device has been demonstrated with great success and is being manufactured now for use in churches, concert halls and motion picture theaters.

Gloves Popular Again in Paris; Fancy Ones Relieve Plain Gowns

By ALICE LANGELIER, International News Service Staff Correspondent.

PARIS, Dec. 20. — The gloveless day has passed. Madame is no longer chic without a pretty hand-covering. The smart shops are exhibiting fancy gloves which will help to decorate the plain spring costume.

The newest ones have fancy turned-back gauntlet cuffs, sometimes perforated and cut in points sticking out from the wrist like a lamb-chop frill. They have bright silk linings with raised flowers embroroidered on them. Some are in softest velvet of contrasting tone. Like many of the new bonnets some have silk tassels dangling from each corner. The importance of the cuff on the new coats has put the high gauntlet glove out of fashion, but the short narrow cuff is much used.

The favorite color is a soft shade of brown in kid or suede. There are all the nut shades, from beige to dark brown. Black is always the good old stand-by for fur coats and white for evening wear. For daytime wear washable doeskin gloves are often worn.

Back to Old Styles

Old-fashioned furniture — the fourposter, the highboy, the splint-bottomed chair and their kindred — is again in style.

To have everything in keeping, the housewife is making patchwork spreads and bolser covers — or is hoping for them among her Christmas gifts.

The patterns, however, are simpler than once they were. Conventional patchwork flowers are shown in the sketch, with borders of French knots. Others are embroidered in cross-stitch. Still others have all-over patterns of patchwork in large flowers.

The less elaborate designs take little time and are very attractive.

MAROON AND BLACK

One of the new coat suits for spring is made of wide-striped kasha cloth in black and white and is trimmed with maroon-colored satin. With it is worn a turban of maroon. A handbag of the same is provided.

FANCY BLOUSES

Blooses of gold and silver cloth are now making their appearance, beaded with metal or colored beads. They are worn with the more elaborate coat suits to complete the costume.

PERFUME FLASKS

Small enameled or jeweled flasks exactly the shape of the ones men carry in their hip pockets are now made for carrying perfume in a lady's handbag.

VANITY BOXES

Vanity boxes and rouge sticks are very attractive in gold, enameled in light colors, or in gold or silver studded with corals, pearls, or other stones.
