There was a large crowd in town Thursday notwithstanding the busy season and everything passed off pleasantly. While flowers were not so plenty as usual there were many wreaths and all the graves were appropriately decorated. The address by Prof. D. Frank Redd was an excellent one and commanded the attention of the entire audience.

Most of us would be surprised to know that no civilized country reports so many cases of smallpox at the same time as this country. We are accustomed to think of ourselves as the most intelligent of countries, and as the mass of people this is undoubtedly true. But we are reminded in this connection that intelligence is not always synonymous with wise action; that in dealing with the spread of contagious diseases it is a question of vigor on the part of the authorities, rather than wisdom among the people.

Loosey's invisible hitching post will be placed on the market in a few days. It is an ingenious contrivance by which the iron post sinks into the ground when not in use and persons without a key cannot hitch to it. It is useful over other hitching posts where the owner wants to protect his property from the public.

One can gain some idea of the growth and the development of the carrying capacity of the freight car when it is recalled that it has been but a few years since the capacity of a car was 25 tons and was regarded as immense. Now steel cars with a capacity of 55 tons are run on many of the roads, while wooden cars with a 50-ton capacity are in use.

John Foley, John Holt and Bernard Lobenthal, the gang of counterfeiters from Peru, who had planned to make a tour of the country with Wallace's circus and leave their "bad coin" on the way, but were nipped by the government officers before they got started, have entered a plea of guilty to the charge of counterfeiting before Judge Baker at Indianapolis. Foley and Lobenthal were sentenced to eight months' imprisonment in Marion county work house and Holt was given five months in the same place, with $10 and costs.

The constitutionality of the $700 mortgage exemption law is being tested in the circuit court of Marion county. Whatever the decision of the lower court may be, the case will be taken to the supreme court. The contention is that the law conflicts with the provisions of the constitution. It is contended that its benefit could not be enjoyed equally by all property owners. For instance, if one man borrowed $500 and gave a mortgage on his property as security, he would be entitled to exemption, while his neighbor might borrow the same amount and give a note, and still have to pay full taxes on his property.

The death of Mrs. Elizabeth Burr Hamilton, at the age of 90, in Bridgeport, Conn., last Monday, recalls a historic tragedy and an interesting romance of the early days of the republic. She was a Miss Elizabeth Burr, and closely allied to the family of the man who killed Alexander Hamilton in a duel ninety-seven years ago. One of the results of the fatal meeting was a feud between the Hamilton and Burr families. Yet thirty-four years after the tragedy another Alexander Hamilton, and a direct lineal descendant of the famous statesman, met Elizabeth Burr, residing in a neighboring village, fell in love with her, and married her, in defiance of the wishes of both families. It is said that the marriage wiped out the feud and reunited the Burrs and Hamiltons. It is the heroine of this romance who has just passed away, leaving no descendants or blood connections.

About one half of West township and many other people were trying to hear the evidence in the Bender Chapman case Saturday before Mayor Jones. An account of this fight was given in our paper a few days ago. Both men are badly hurt and there is much evidence pro and con. The evidence was concluded about 2 o'clock and the attorneys began their speeches. Charles P. Drummond is Mr. Bender's attorney and L. M. Lauer represents the state. After hearing the arguments Mayor Jones said that the evidence showed that both men were guilty of an assault and battery, but it seemed to him that Chapman was the aggressor and he acquitted Bender.

Commencement at Bourbon.

The commencement exercises of the Bourbon high school occurred Friday evening before an immense audience. The stage was never more beautifully decorated and the color scheme and general supervision is accredited to Mrs. Reubelt. The girls of the class were all attired in dainty girlish gowns and with the three boys also fittingly attired made a bouquet of beauty appropriate to the setting. The class history was read by Miss Anna Matchette and was a well written and interesting paper pertaining to the advantages and prospects of the class as a whole and to the part of the individual members. All of the orations were short and to the point but forcible and all are deserving of strong praise—a few of special mention. Daniel S. Bowman, Pressly Field and Ernest Myers handled their subjects with ease and intelligence and Emma Miller spoke with fervor of "Unguarded Gates" referring to the open door to our country for all classes of foreigners—placing special stress upon the power of the judge to withhold naturalization papers. Bessie Stockman told us the beautiful story of "Joan of Arc" in verse of her own composition and it was indeed meritorious. The presentation of the class by Prof. Stienbach was an able effort as well as the presentation of the diplomas by the president of the board of education, Dr. J. W. Edison. The music was fine not to be excelled in the state. The orchestra rendered three selections that were especially enjoyed. This organization is deserving of the support of our community. The members are Messrs. O. P. Greer, James Spencer, Horace Bowman, Warren Snyder and Miss Daisy Campbell. The songs by the male quartette and ladies' quartette were applauded especially the last song by the ladies "The Old Folks at Home," which brought forth a strong encore. The members of the male quartette were Profs. Hahn Harlan, Nelson and Tebay, and the ladies were Misses Margaret Colfish, Carrie Boss and Marie Field. Special credit is due Prof. Reubelt for the expeditious manner in which so long a program was carried through.

TO THE MAN WHO THINKS.

LOOK yourself squarely in the face and see if you are not half ashamed to be without Ivory Soap in your house. Worse than this, your wife is without it. It is bad enough for a man, though a man often doesn't care how his comfort is mis-spelled. But a woman misses all these little helps to housekeeping. And Ivory Soap is one; its great potency makes it actually cheaper than yellow soap for general work. It floats.
