AMOUNTS FIXED

Paving Assessments Reported to Council by Commissioners.

At the regular meeting of the common council Monday evening the report of the city commissioners was read fixing the assessments for the North Michigan street paving and the council appointed Monday, Jan. 6, at 7:30 p. m., as the time for consideration of the report, at which time interested citizens may be heard.

The total cost of the improvement is $20,672.54, of which $14,740.17 is assessed to individuals, leaving the city to pay the balance $5,932.37. The rate of assessment per front foot north of Washington street is $3.21, making the cost for a full lot of 88 ft. $282.92; south of Washington street, where the pavement is wider, the rate per front foot is $5.37.

The bonds are to be issued soon in the denomination of $500, payable at the Plymouth State bank, with interest payable annually, the first to fall July 1 next. Hatch & Sons deposited a certified check in the amount required by the council to cover possible damage to the Laporte street pavement before spring.

The Healy, or Washington street, sewer was advanced another step by the report of the city commissioners showing the names of parties liable to assessment.

The waterworks superintendent showed that coal is getting scarce and hard to get and suggested that a supply of crude oil ought to be laid in as a precautionary measure, which will be done.

The street commissioner filed his annual report stating that 366 persons had paid or worked their street tax during the year and that 8 have failed to do so. All names were given. The delinquents will be proceeded against and will ultimately pay about four times as much as those who complied with the law like good citizens.

The bills allowed, including salaries, amounted to $1,299.43, leaving a balance of $62.96 in the treasury. Another loan is therefore necessary and will be resorted to shortly.

The Last Opportunity.

Our great offer of the McKinley book expires the last day of this month and we have but a small supply left from our final shipment. This book will be for sale by agents for a long time at the regular price of $1.50, but it will not again be possible to buy it in this county on such terms as we are offering it. It is an exceedingly popular book and one of high permanent value. It ought to be in every home to instruct the old, inspire the young and be constantly useful as a work of reference in a period of great historical importance. The full copy of McKinley's memorable Buffalo speech is alone worth the full price of the book, for it will be constantly referred to in the coming political campaigns and it is a gem of oratory, in the class with Lincoln's Gettysburg speech and Webster's reply to Hayne, a model for all public speakers as well as a compendium of historical facts and illustrations.

The volume, which is handsomely bound, contains a complete account of the late President's life and public career written by a literary master, Murat Halstead; it contains extracts from McKinley's speeches and addresses and there are many full-page portraits in half-tone of notable Americans of the period. The murder, death and burial are all described. No parent who loves his children, no citizen who loves his country, can afford to be without this story of the life and times of the man who shaped the destinies of the nation during the first years of the accepted policy of national progress to the highest and most influential place among the great powers of the world. We sell it to our subscribers only, and our terms as stated in the advertisement elsewhere in this issue must satisfy them that we are doing it for their benefit and not ours. We cannot sell a book or take an offer after Dec. 31.
