will contain the specifications and details setting the date for holding an examination for carriers etc.

Will Employ Three Carriers.
The granting of free delivery for Plymouth is the direct result of the recommendation made by Inspector John N. Hennen, who was in this city on Tuesday, April 6th, inspecting the streets and sidewalks of Plymouth on which he forwarded a favorable report to Washington. The receipts of the local office have exceeded the requirements for over two years, namely an annual income of $10,000. The streets and sidewalks of Plymouth rank among the best in Indiana, and when the two miles of pavement now under the process of construction are completed, this city will have more miles of pavement than any city or town of its size in this state. The report of Inspector Hennen is that three routes be established here. A map with the routes designated was forwarded to Washington with the report, and a duplicate of the map will be returned to the Plymouth office from the department. These three carriers will be chosen by a competitive examination, notice of which will be given through the local newspapers, when ordered. As the free delivery system will be established on June 15th, it is probable that a thirty day notice will be given in the near future. According to the present plans there will be three deliveries of mail in the business district and two in the residence district, per day. All details will be given when the order from the postoffice department is received.

A. Voreis and Mrs. Benjamin Zehner. After the bountiful dinner was served, the afternoon was spent in social chat and singing while music from the phonograph made much merriment for the invited guests.

The quadruple received many useful and beautiful presents which were highly appreciated. Fifty guests were present to help celebrate the occasion and as the day was drawing to a close they departed for their homes wishing them many more such pleasant birthdays. Guests from Plymouth were: Mrs. George Marks, Mrs. John Lawrence, Mrs. Charles Zumbach, Mrs. Wm. Zehner, Mr. and Mrs. Jessie Zehner, Mrs. Hiram VanVactor and Mrs. Otto Carpenter from Frankfort, Ind. ZEHNER ASKS FOR REHEARING IN SUPREME COURT

Make Last Move in Fight Against Establishment of Yellow River Ditch in Marshall County.

Margaret L. Zehner, by her attorneys E. C. Martindale and H. L. Unger, will ask for a rehearing in the supreme court, in the remonstrance against the Yellow river ditch case appealed from the Marshall Circuit Court. This is the last move in a long drawn fight against the establishment of the Yellow river dredge, and the tearing out of the old Plymouth Mill Dam, which was ordered by Judge Burson, as special judge sitting on the Marshall circuit bench, in trying the ditch petition of Franklin E. Milner and others. The case was lost by the remonstrators, the Zehners, who were proprietors of the flour mill in this city, which is operated by power obtained by the dam in Yellow river. The case was appealed by the Zehners to the Supreme court, which decided adversely to them and sustained the finding of Judge Burson. The Supreme court decision was given on February 25, of this year, and the Appellant, Margaret L. Zehner, was given sixty days to file a petition for rehearing. Briefs are being printed by the appellant, and the petition will be presented before April 26th.

Petition for Rehearing.

The points upon which the rehearing are asked are as follows: First, The court erred in deciding and holding that the maintenance of the grist mill and dam described in the proceedings in this cause is no longer of public utility.

Second, The court erred in deciding and holding that the mill in controversy in this action is one long table, decorated with candles and flowers, carrying out the Colonial colors, blue and yellow. The theme for the quotations on the place cards was "Ancestry." The American flag over the entrance to the home waved a patriotic welcome. After the dinner hour a short business session was held, after which a very interesting article was read entitled "Memorials of the American Revolution," reminding us of what our ancestors did for us, and also showing the appreciation felt by their followers. There are so many memorials and tablets that it is almost impossible to describe them all. Another article on Patrick Henry was read, and after singing "America" and "Blest be the Tie," we adjourned to meet the second Friday in May with Mrs. Jessie T. Brooke, who with Miss Lyle Morris will act as hostesses.

There are now twenty members, with several others hunting up ancestors and dates with the hope of becoming Daughters. Mrs. Cressner showed some very old spoons made from silver dollars and related some very interesting anecdotes. She is to be congratulated for the very enjoyable evening she provided for her guests.

CONSIDER FIRE-MEN'S QUIETUS

CITY COUNCIL HOLDS A SPECIAL MEETING TO DISPOSE OF IT.

Firemen of City Have Been Receiving City Poll Tax Besides Exemption.

The city council met in special session Friday evening, to consider the matter of firemen's quietus. The firemen of the city have been receiving for their services, exemption from taxes on $500, and also exemption from city poll tax. The tax on $500 amounts to about $6.50 annually. This is the only exemption allowed by law, but the city has always allowed the city poll tax, $1.00 per year in addition. This was not contented, until recently, when the county treasurer took charge of city taxes. It was impossible for the county treasurer to allow the exemption from poll tax. At the council meeting last evening, it was arranged for the city treasurer to endorse the quietus, and the county treasurer will then honor the quietus on poll tax as before. The total amount of exemption secured by firemen amounts to about $7.50. The council is considering making some radical changes in the fire department in the near future.

For Crop Statistics.

J. L. Peetz, state statistician, is preparing to add to the work of the township assessors of the State by sending "second blanks" for crop statistical purposes for the assessors to fill in and return to his office. On beginning their work the assessors received blanks in which to record answers from individual land owners concerning crop statistics. Now that their work is almost complete they will in a few days receive the second set in which to report totals on the answers to the former set of questions. The data collected by the assessors will be deposited in their first form with the county assessors, who will preserve them.

Locals Lose Game.

The local high school baseball team lost to the team from Warsaw Saturday, by the score of 9 to 2. The game was full of errors throughout, and the local boys have no excuse, excepting to say that it was "rotten" and that they should have been beaten. The Warsaw team is a "Cinque" say they, and that they lost the game through many and costly errors.

COMMISSIONERS REFUSE ALL BIDS FOR REMODELING COURT HOUSE

Obstinacy of One Member Carried the Board—Scene Enacted in Court $300 Is Squandered.

The county commissioners at 8 o'clock p.m. Thursday decided to reject all bids for the remodeling of the Marshall county court house and adjourned. In the maneuver over $300 of the county's money was spent by the commissioners without any returns, and which was absolutely wasted. The rejecting of the bids was not because they were deemed too high, far otherwise, for each of the commissioners admitted that the bids ran easily $2000 lower than they had anticipated. The appropriation was made by the county council for the sum of $15,000, and the bid of Everly and Wallace, who were the lowest bidders, was for $13,692. The Everly and Wallace bid was below the estimate made by the architect, and besides the specifications, provided for the remodeling of the windows of the court house, making the bid considerably lower than was expected. The rejection of the bids was due to the obstinacy of one member, Mr. James Severns, who, it seems, could not, or would not have the bids explained to him. Nathan Lee, who was strongly in favor of letting the contract, refused to do so unless the action of the Board was made unanimous. Wm. Troup stood in favor of letting the contract to the lowest bidder.

Court's Dignity Lowered.

It was said by those who were summoned before the board, that the action of Mr. Severns was disgraceful to himself, and shamefully lowered the dignity of the commissioners sitting in court. When Mr. Severns grew irritated it is alleged, that he walked back and forth in the commissioners' room, hurling forth a tirade of oaths and imprecations against everything and everybody connected with the bids for remodeling the court house. The tirade was most unworthy of an officer, chosen to represent the people of Marshall county, and when asked to desist by other members of the board, it is said that his temper grew more fierce, and seemed almost unbearable to the other occupants of the room. The irritability was caused because Mr. Severns misinterpreted the law concerning the receiving of bids, misinterpreted the bids themselves, and absolutely refused to be informed either by the county attorney, E. C. Martindale, or to permit the architect, Mr. Griffin of Ft. Wayne, who prepared the plans and specifications for the improvements, to help explain the bids, or render any advice upon them. The treatment of the architect was said to be most uncourteous; that generally in similar instances, the advise of the architect is asked by the commissioners, to prevent being defrauded by bidders. Thursday the architect was excluded from the room when the bids were considered, and was not consulted at all.

Contention Over Bids.

The contention over which Mr. Severns held out, was over the letting of the general contract. This general contract was prepared in blank form by the county auditor, and a copy was given to each bidder, who filled out the blanks: The blank was as follows: General Contract: To the Honorable Board of Commissioners of Marshall county, Gentlemen: I propose to do the remodeling of your court house according to the plans and specifications prepared by Griffin and Fair, Architects, Ft. Wayne, Ind., on the general contract as follows: 1st. For all the work called for in the plans and general specifications, excepting the new floor for the entire first story, the new roof, the finishing off of the surveyors office, stairways etc., to connect the same, changing sash, glass, etc., and fancy decorating 2nd. Oak floor as specified for the entire first floor 3rd. Terrazzo floor and marble sanitary base 4th. Galvanized iron roof as specified without any additional sheathing or extra supports 5th. Tile roof as specified with additional sheathing, 6th. Surveyor's office finished up in the room where the present boiler is now located, 7th. Remodeling windows with new sash, plate glass etc., according to the specifications, 8th. Fancy decorating for the court room according to special designs submitted There were two bids on the general contract, one from Ar-

McCARTEN LEAVES PLYMOUTH JAIL

VETERINARIAN FINISHES TIME RESULTING FROM DRUNKEN SPREE.

Has Served Thirty Days and Paid Fine of $23.50 For Robbing Men.

At last Dr. J. D. McCarten Veterinary Surgeon, is a free man. His thirty days in the county jail expired Sunday and the doctor left for Chicago to rest awhile, after his month of solitary confinement. The confinement has not had much company during the past month except for a chance transient, now and then. The doctor, it will be remembered got into trouble over a too free indulgence. He ruthlessly entered the deserted back oven in the rear of Laporte street about the 18th of March, and held up the residents, the Messrs. Wm. Carter and Wm. Blend. With a veterinary instrument resembling a revolver, he extracted the sum of one hundred cents from the hoard of Wm. Carter, for which he was arrested, charged with petit larceny, and sent to jail for thirty days and assessed a fine of $23.50. A few days afterwards, he raised the amount of the fine from friends and now has just finished his term. The clemency of Judge Bernetha was all that saved him from a penitentiary sentence. The charge upon which the veterinarian was first held, was for robbery. He could have been convicted on this charge, but Judge Bernetha asked the prosecutor to change the charge to petit larceny. It was said to have been McCarten's first offense. McCarten has declared that he will return to Plymouth within a few days, to collect his belongings, and will then leave for other parts.
